American Arctic Explorer Goes Farthest North.

UNITED STATES HOLDS RECORD

Roosevelt Expedition 203 Miles From Pole.

RESCUES HIS STARVING PARTY.

Polar Research Party on Steamship Roosevelt Left Labrador Coast in July, 1905, and Crossed to Greenland. Where an Over Ice Sled Party Pushed For the Pole, but Failed to Reach It. Getting, However, to a Point Farthest North Yet Reached by Any Known Human Being.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The United States now holds the record of "farthest north," 87 degrees 6 minutes, in arctic exploration up to this date.

The intrepid explorer failed to reach the north pole, as he had confidently hoped to do with his specially constructed vessel, the Roosevelt, but he penetrated nearer to the pole than any other expedition, which had held the arctic record, 85 degrees 34 minutes.

The Roosevelt wintered north coast Greenland, somewhat north of Alert, winter quarters. Went north with sledges February, via Hecla and Columbus. Delayed by open water between 84 and 85 degrees. Beyond 84 degrees or 85 degrees. Gale disrupted ice, destroyed caches, cut off communication with supporting bodies and drifted due east.

After furnishing the contents of Commander Peary's message Mr. Bridgeman said that the receipt of any news from the explorer now was quite a surprise to him because he had supposed it had become too late in the season for Commander Peary to send news of his venture.

Mrs. Robert E. Peary, wife of the commander, has been spending the past summer in Maine.

Robert Edwin Peary was born in 1854. He is a civil engineer in the United States navy. His first trip to the arctic regions was made in 1880.

Asked what good it would do if he found the pole, Mr. Peary said, "It will open up 3,000,000 square miles of absolutely unknown regions that have been separated from the rest of the world for countless ages."

Commander Peary's polar steamship, the Roosevelt, left New York on her

OSCAR STRAUS SPEAKS FOR HUGHES

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—In the political situation in this state fresh interest was aroused by the publication of a letter from William J. Bryan to Bird S. Coler, borough president of Brooklyn, in which the writer expressed the hope that all Democrats would support William H. Hearst for governor.

Mr. Hearst's arrival from Utica early, but on route he made a stop at Catskill. At Utica he made three speeches, one in a hall and one each at the works of the two large industrial concerns.

His latest speech outside the city of Greater New York was made at Catskill, where he addressed an enthusiastic meeting at the town theater. Reaching this city, he took but a brief rest before entering upon the long lists of meetings scheduled for Brooklyn and Long Island.

Mr. Hearst was forced to rest during the day because of the serious condition of his throat after long speech-making. He has resumed his labors, however, and was whirled about Brooklyn and Long Island in an automobile for speeches at many places.

Mr. Hearst found voice enough to pay his respects to Richard Croker, whose recent cablegram to Senator P. H. McCarren was construed as a condemnation of Tammany Hall's endorsement of Mr. Hearst's candidacy.

At a reception held in Brooklyn, before Mr. Hearst arrived the audience unanimously adopted resolutions approving the action of President Roosevelt in permitting his views on New York state politics to be made public by Secretary Root.

One of the speakers at the principal Hughes meeting in Brooklyn was Oscar Straus, who, it is expected, will soon become a member of President Roosevelt's cabinet.

Leaders of both parties renewed their professions of absolute confidence in the outcome of Tuesday's balloting. Timothy Woodruff, chairman of the Republican state committee, declared he was perfectly satisfied with the prospects and predicted for Mr. Hughes a sweeping victory.

THE LABOR WORLD

DISOWNS LILLEY

Says That It Is Not in Any Way Responsible for the Article It Contains in Support of the Boss

The publishers of "The Labor World" which has been circulated freely in Sayre, and which contains laudatory articles of Boss Lilley

"The Labor World gives notice that it is in no sense responsible for any article which appears in its columns, except unsigned articles on page 8.

The editorial matter concerning Boss Lilley appears on page 6, while the article which tells of his undying friendship for labor, and which refers to the papers supporting Mr. Kipp as "scabs" is published on page 1, or the title page.

MRS. AUREL BATONYI

Her husband, near Newport. A deputy sheriff, to whom the papers were intrusted, arranged to go quietly to the farm so as not to disturb Mrs. Batonyi, and the voluminous citations, issued "in the name of God and Edward VII" and elaborately decorated, were placed in her hands.

The allegation is bigamy, and the charge is based on Mrs. Batonyi's marriage on Aug. 6, 1905, to Mr. Batonyi, which, though legal in this country because she had obtained a divorce in the United States from her former husband, is not recognized in England in the complaint, under the English law, under which the petitioner lives.

"I have been greatly annoyed from time to time," said Mrs. Batonyi to a reporter. "I was married in the United States, and after a very unhappy married life I returned from Europe and obtained a divorce in the United States of America many years ago. As I am an American citizen I have nothing to do with laws outside the United States. I am much annoyed. Otherwise I have nothing to say."

IN JAIL BECAUSE THEY WILL NOT WORK. NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 3.—The movement recently started by the Norfolk county truck growers for the enforcement of the Virginia vagrancy laws in this section with a view to relieving the great scarcity of labor in the eastern Virginia trucking belt is resulting in many arrests and confinement in the Norfolk and Portsmouth jails of idlers caught loitering about country roads, stores and saloons in the city and suburbs.

THE ESCAPE. She awakes from a deep sleep to find the flames roaring and crackling all about her.

NO. ON THE CONTRARY. The fire, in point of fact, has heated her curling tongs to such a degree that she can make ready to effect her escape without the loss of a precious moment.

A WHOLE HALF-DAY. Hinckley happened home for luncheon one day and found that a new cook had arrived that morning. The meal was perfect and everything most satisfactory.

SPED THE PARTING. Edna—Yes, and her father detected the elopement and ran after them with a whip.
