A DISPUTED REPORT

Why the Pittsburg Dispatch Discontinued Publishing Homer Castle's Speeches.

On October 10 the Dispatch published a report of a speech of Homer L. Castle, at Bradford, Pa., on October 9, which included the attacks on Mr. Emery's personal character and business record that the same speaker has been reported as making elsewhere.

A day or two following the Dispatch was informed by F. A. Churchill, a citizen of Bradford, that the report was false and that Mr. Castle did not make, from the platform in Bradford, any such attack on Mr. Emery as was reported. On receiving this report the Dispatch ordered the reports received from the correspondent with Mr. Castle to be discontinued, pending an investigation, as it has no intention of lending its columns to scurrilous campaign utterances.

On the 18th a telegram was received from Mr. Castle stating that the order had been referred to him and that "I said everything contained in his (the correspondent's) dispatch from Bradford." This assertion by Mr. Castle's part was referred to Mr. Churchill at Bradford. That gentleman responded on October 24 with a repetition of his previous assertion, backed by affidavits from a number of people who heard the speech—including three newspaper men of Bradford and vicinity, there to report the speech—who unite in testifying that the attacks on Mr. Emery were not made by Mr. Castle in the speech that was delivered. Mr. Churchill states his readiness to supplement these affidavits with the affidavits of scores of citizens of Bradford who heard Castle's speech.

Considering the question of veracity between Mr. Castle and the Bradford people who have disputed this report the Dispatch deemed it necessary to give the facts and to state that other reasons lead it to the belief that the statements of Mr. Churchill are correct and that it has been led to report Mr. Castle as making a public attack on Emery in Bradford which he did not make there. For this reason it has discontinued the reports of Mr. Castle's speeches from that source.—The Pittsburg Dispatch, October 28, 1906.

STUART AND THE MARTIN-PORTER COMBINE

"I want to say to you that I never in my life knew a boss in my official duties."—Edwin S. Stuart to a Reading audience, October 22. These are brave words, my masters. It is charitable to assume that Mr. Stuart uttered them in all sincerity. But he is the victim of a lapse of memory which the Philadelphia Record deems it a public duty to correct. Edwin S. Stuart was Mayor of Philadelphia from 1891 to 1895. The people of this city will remember, even if he has forgotten, that there was no more prominent figure on the political horizon during Stuart's administration than that of David Martin. Martin was the "peerless leader" of that day. With the aid of Charles A. Porter he had built up a machine that was as invincible, as corrupt and almost as insatiable in its greed as was the Durham-McNichol machine at the zenith of its power. And the Martin machine depended for its existence upon the patronage of the Stuart administration.

The municipal appointments under Mayor Stuart were dictated by David Martin. Every policeman and fireman and other dependent on the city's bounty held his place subject to Martin's approval. And just as Israel W. Durham later held the reins of power and threw the contract plums to his partner, James P. McNichol, so Martin in Stuart's day presided over the destinies of the machine and threw the contract plums to his political partner, Charles A. Porter.

These things are true. The voters of this city, if not of the entire state, know that they are true. And now that his memory has been refreshed, Edwin S. Stuart himself will hardly deny the soft impeachment.

The man under whose nose and by whose amiable acquiescence the Martin machine was built up is not the man to shake off the shackles of the Penrose machine. The man who knew Martin for a boss is bound to bow the knee to Penrose if the voters of Pennsylvania should be gullible enough to send him to Harrisburg.

Is it any wonder that Penrose and Martin are equally anxious to land Edwin S. Stuart in the Executive Mansion?

Grace to Correct a Fault. Be not ashamed to confess that you have been in the wrong. It is but owing what you need not be ashamed of—that you now have more sense than you had before, to see your error; more humility to acknowledge it; more grace to correct it.

Good Book Had Been Much Read. A station agent sent to a Bible society worker very recently the back of a worn-out Bible, which had been placed in the railroad depot by the local union in the year 1892. It had been worn out by constant handling by waiting passengers.

Light and Vegetation. Red glass hastens vegetation, while blue glass suppresses it. Sensitive plants, like the mimosa, grow 15 times higher under red glass than under blue.

English Agriculturists. Of the 40,000,000 inhabitants in the United Kingdom, 10,000,000 are engaged in agriculture and its subsidiary occupations.

"TURNED DOWN COLD BY MR. LILLEY"

When the Union Shoemakers of Honesdale Asked Him to Sign Agreement to Support Union Labor, He Refused to Do So

J. L. Dyer of Athens, chairman of the Bradford county Lincoln party organization, is in receipt of the letter that appears below, and which explains itself. The author of the letter is a prominent merchant of Honesdale, and the original manuscript is in Mr. Dyer's possession. Mr. Dyer has written for the affidavits mentioned in the letter and will give them to the public when they arrive. The letter is as follows:

Honesdale, Pa., Oct. 25, 1906. Mr. J. L. Dyer, Athens, Pa.

Dear Sir: Knowing that you are somewhat interested in Mr. Kipp's campaign, I thought I would write you in regard to a matter that it seems to me might do some good. Two years ago when Lilley was a candidate before two representatives of the shoemakers' union called on him, and asked him to sign an agreement to support all legislation favoring the cause of united labor. These men say they were turned down cold by Mr. Lilley, and that they are willing to make an affidavit that he told them he was going to be elected anyway, and did not need the help of the labor organizations. If this is of any use to you I will furnish you the names of the men, who are both good reputable citizens of Honesdale, and are not looking for any graft out of it.

Yours truly,
