WAVERLY

FRANK R. WOOD, Representative News and advertising matter may be left at Gregg's Racket Store, Waverly.

After 11 o'clock noon call the main office at Sayre, Valley phone 128X.

Ford Schutt and wife went to go this morning.

E A Conant and Joe Freeman were in Nichols today.

Miss Anna Smeaton is suffering from a severe attack of the grip.

The will of the late Emma C. Thayer was probated yesterday.

Mr. Stalford and Mr. Newell of Towanda were in Waverly this morning.

The clothiers of Waverly signed an agreement today to close their stores all day Thanksgiving day.

W. H. Montgomery, who has been visiting at the home of H. A. Ferry for a few days returned home at Saratoga yesterday.

Because of the failure to get a quorum last night the meeting of the village trustees was adjourned until Wednesday evening.

James Rumsey is acting as local manager for the Wells Fargo express Co. in the place of A. F. Patchen who was recently promoted to the position of manager at Tuxedo, N. Y.

The entertainment given by the Sunshine club at the Baptist church last night was well attended, and those managing the event are very much pleased with the result from a financial standpoint, and those who were present were delighted with the entertainment provided.

CAR HITS RAIL

Waverly—Yesterday car No. 7 was approaching the switch that is being laid on Broad street when one of the heavy rails that is being used in the construction of the switch was drawn across the track ahead of the car. The car struck the rail, bending it and knocking down the horses that were drawing it, although they were not hurt to any great extent.

POLLING LARGE VOTE

Waverly—Although it is very quiet on the streets today the voters are taking great interest in the election, and the adherents of the various candidates are working hard to roll up a large vote for the men that they are supporting. At noon today 120 ballots had been cast in district No. 7, 111 in district No. 6, 150 in district No. 4 and 115 in district No. 8. This is a much larger vote than is usually cast at that time of day in any other than a presidential election.

COUNCIL MEETING

South Waverly—At the meeting of the South Waverly borough council last evening it was decided to lay a cement crosswalk on Fulton street at Bradford. The width of the walk and other details were to be left to the street committee. A number of bills amounting to $229.75, including an electric light bill for $188 were ordered paid.

The police report showed that there had been one arrest made, and $3 50 fine and costs collected.

SLIGHT ERIE WRECK

Waverly—Two freight cars were thrown off the track in the Erie yards yesterday morning. One rail was broken, and about seven feet of track torn up. The cars were loaded and considerable trouble was experienced in getting them back. The feat was accomplished at length, however, and the track again placed in position.

RALPH C. ACKERMAN

Waverly—Ralph C. Ackerman died shortly before 12 o'clock Sunday evening at his home on Pine street. He was 21 years of age and unmarried, and had resided in Waverly for the last five years. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 1 o'clock and the remains will be buried at Glenwood.

CARD OF THANKS

Waverly—The family and friends of the late John French desire to express their sincere thanks for the kindness shown to them during his sickness and death and especially to the B. I. L. A. of Sayre, Waverly and Athens.

IT RUBBED OFF.

He put his arm around her waist. The color left her cheek. But upon the shoulder of his coat it showed up for a week.

Knowledge. "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing," said the man who quotes. "Yes," answered Senator Sorghum especially when it's something that a queer publisher happens to know about you."—Washington Star.

Property Shells. "Waiter, where are those blue points I ordered a half-hour ago?" "Sorry, sir, but another gent's usin' the shells now. When he's done I'll hurry your order along."—Cleveland Leader.

Queer Word. Mrs. Mills—Yes, I attribute our freedom from moths to the fact that my husband smokes such a lot. Mrs. Mills—Dear me! And does he like them?

He Wanted Advice

The young man had been calling with enough frequency since he had met her a few months before to justify the girl, in her own estimation, at least, in putting on her prettiest gowns when she expected him.

Though he took no verbal notice of her adornment she consoled herself with the reflection that he was a man of few words. There was an air of suppressed interest about him this night which made her heart flutter. She was not in the least sure she should say yes, but she did not object at all to the opportunity of saying so.

"There's something I'd like to ask you, Miss Winpower," he said, after the conversation had languished into silence and they had sat gazing at the blinking street lamps for a full minute. "I'm—it's something that means a great deal to me!"

"Gracious!" cried the girl, with an effort at light laughter. "How serious that sounds! You don't want help in selecting some new neckties or anything important like that, do you?"

"It's pretty important," said the young man gravely. "Rather ask you anyone whom I'd rather ask about it than you. It's just this—I know it sounds foolish—but do you think—that is, do you believe in love at first sight?"

The young woman's fingers tightened on the arm of the wicker porch chair, but she answered with an elaborate air of being quite impersonal. "Well, that depends," she said. "It would depend on the persons, don't you think?"

"I suppose so," agreed the young man, gloomily. "Presently he continued: 'But how is a fellow going to tell about the other person? Just suppose, for instance, that it was I who had fallen in love with a girl the moment I saw her—just for the sake of the argument, of course. I couldn't be at all sure she felt the same way, could I?'"

"Couldn't you sort of—well, guess?" suggested the girl, smoothing out the top ruffle on her white dress. "The young man shook his head. 'I don't like to guess,' he objected. 'I want to be sure. You see, she is such a wonderful girl, so pretty and fascinating that I'm not at all certain she would even look at me.'"

"You shouldn't be too modest, you know," said the girl, a little breathlessly. "Girls like men who act as though they owned the earth."

"Do they?" asked the man interestedly. "I know so little about girls. That's why I wanted to ask you about this."

"Oh, then it really is you—that is, you have fallen in love with some girl?" she inquired with beautiful sisterly interest.

The young man shifted in his chair. "I may as well own up," he said. "In the one I've been infatuated ever since I met her. I was just as sure that first evening she was the one girl for me as I am now, but, of course, she'd have thought me a lunatic if I'd said so then. Besides, I wanted to be sure that I wasn't dreaming and had not mistaken my feelings. But I can't help wondering if she could have felt the same way about me when I first met her. Of course, I don't see why she should, but then if I fell in love on the spot there really is no reason why she shouldn't either, is there?"

"None in the least," said the girl. "Particularly if she knows you care for her."

"Oh, but she doesn't," cried the young man promptly. "She hasn't the least idea!"

The girl smiled to herself. "That's different then," she said. "I want to gettle it one way or the other," he went on. "It keeps me so upset, wondering. But I couldn't decide whether it was best to ask her flatly if she'd have me or to break it to her by degrees, because, as I said, I know so little how girls take things. That's why I asked you about it. You are so quick to understand all the sides to a case. I never knew a girl brighter than you."

"You flatter me," said the girl in a pleased voice. "This would make her third proposal—one more than her dearest friend could boast—and she really had not deliberately led him on, either. She felt very well satisfied. "Then you'd advise me to ask her right out?" he asked, anxiously. "She looked down and then turned her head away slightly. "Yes, I would," she answered, rather faintly. "Thank you so much!" the man said happily, getting to his feet. "You don't know how it has helped me to talk it over with you! She's just come to-day to visit her sister again, and I don't think it's too late to call now, do you? It's not 9:30 yet. Didn't you meet her when she was here last spring—Miss Collins? You look quite a little like her, and so I fancied you might know, too, how she was apt to feel about it!"

"Wh-wh-what a ridiculous idea!" gasped the girl, a trifle sharply. "You have a lot of ridiculous ideas, don't you believe? And, really, no grown-up person thinks in love at first sight any more. But why don't you hurry along and ask her?"

The young man walked down the street thoughtfully. "Now, what made her change her opinion so suddenly, I wonder?" he murmured to himself.—Chicago Daily News.

Ornatenation. "I understand that Mr. Playneby carries home a market basket with beef and eggs and all the rest of the day's dinner in full view!" "Yes," replied Mr. Cumros. "He seems to take pleasure in a vulgar display of wealth."—Washington Star.

HUNTING BY BALLOON

Airship Sails Over Berkshire Hills After Game.

SPORTSMEN CHASED BY AUTOISTS.

Leo Stevens and Party, Sailing From Pittsfield, Mass., Drop Down Hard on Short Beach, Near New Haven, Conn.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 5.—A. Leo Stevens, Captain Homer W. Hedge and Lieutenant Samuel M. Butler dropped from a height of 1,500 meters on Short Beach, beyond East Haven, after traveling 150 miles from Pittsfield, Mass., on a trip that Stevens says was one of his most remarkable balloon experiences.

Most of the time the party were traveling in a gale of wind that carried the airship at express train speed. They left Pittsfield at half past 4 on a hunting trip by balloon and dropped about a quarter after 7. Captain Hedge suffered a shock that hurt his right side. Pilot Stevens said of his trip: "We traveled over the Berkshire hills at an altitude of several hundred feet and thought we saw game. We descended close to tree tops, but found nothing worth shooting at."

Thirty-five automobiles that had set out in the contest for the aero-auto prize cup followed us many miles. Mr. Knight of Pittsfield kept us in sight pretty well for forty miles, but lost us in the dark, although we could hear the chug chug of his car for some time after darkness veiled us. The cup was offered for the automobile that arrived at the balloon's landing place within forty-five minutes after our landing.

"When night fell there was no moon for over an hour. We lost our bearings and did not know where we would land. In daylight we passed over Springfield. Later we saw the lights of Hartford, Meriden and Wallingford. The wind shifted and carried us south-west to North Haven, where we struck a high current of great velocity that carried us southeast. The highest altitude, 1,500 meters, about a mile in the air, found us near water. Suction of water has a tendency to draw a balloon, and, realizing the barometer's warning, we decided to drop."

"Fortunately we dropped about 500 feet from the sound's edge in some trees. A fisherman named Lathrop answered our call and helped us by cutting away branches so that we got down. Captain Hedge cut the anchor rope and threw the anchor overboard and the balloon dropped very rapidly. When the car struck he was thrown against the side of it, striking on his side."

Captain Hedge was sore and stiff when the party reached this city. Mr. Stevens said the trip was the final one for him this year. The balloon-automobile race was the first one held in America for a prize trophy, given by Captain Homer W. Hedge, president of the Aero Club of America.

Japanese Spy Story Denied. MANILA, Nov. 5.—The story that a Japanese army officer had been placed under arrest here for sketching certain of the fortifications of Manila harbor was denied here by Major General Leonard Wood, commander of the division of the Philippines. No such arrest has been made, and no Japanese have taken sketches of the fortifications. It is well known that since the American occupation Japanese have been engaged in making maps of the Philippines. There is no existing law to prohibit them.

Fatal Ending to Auto Test. NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Nov. 5.—An automobile which was being tested in a highway in Berlin left the road and crashed through a guard rail which gave protection to pedestrians from a ditch, and in the wreck which followed Henry Maxwell, thirty-five years old of Farmington was killed and four were injured. They are William Keogh, leg broken; Michael Coleman, Joseph Hoekney and A. L. Haver, the latter an expert tester for an automobile concern in Hartford.

Double Shooting at Camden, N. J. CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 5.—Daniel Weldon, aged fifty-eight years, shot his wife, Mary, and then sent a bullet into his own head. It is thought that both with the Weldon's daughter was recently murdered by her husband, and brooding over this trouble is said to have affected his brain.

Electric Arrestor Failed to Act. MILLVILLE, N. J., Nov. 5.—Paul Brown, aged twenty-two, was killed here while demonstrating a lightning arrester on the new electric line of the West Jersey and Seashore railroad. Fifteen hundred volts passed through his body.

Samuel McMillan Named For Vacancy BREWSTER, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Samuel McMillan, of Carmel, Putnam county, was last night named by the Republican committee of the Twenty-first congressional district to fill the vacancy on the ticket caused by the death in New York of Congressman John H. Ketcham, candidate for re-election.

Colonel Olett Hurt in Italy. ROME, Nov. 5.—Colonel Henry Steele Olett of Aiyar, India, president and founder of the Theosophical society and co-worker in her lifetime of Helen F. Blavatsky, has been seriously injured in a railway wreck in Italy while on his way to America.

Loose Rail Caused Wreck. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 5.—Corner Gaskill announces that experts in his employ have decided that a loose rail caused the accident on the Pennsylvania railroad at the Thoroughfare drawbridge last Sunday, in which nearly sixty persons lost their lives.

Big Crowd Saw Fatal Duel. NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Salvatore Vuola was shot to death in a pistol duel on the east side. A big crowd watched the fight, but the Italian with whom Vuola exchanged shots got away.

TIGERS ATE THEM.

Dartmouth Beaten Hands Down by Princeton by Score of 42 to 0.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 5.—Princeton overwhelmed Dartmouth at football here by the unexpectedly large score of 42 to 0. This score against the wearers of the green was rolled up with ease, considering the fact that the Dartmouth team is reputed to be one of the strongest of the season.

From the Princeton standpoint the feature was the fact that the game was won not so much because of any weak playing on the part of Dartmouth, but because the Tiger team fairly excelled itself most of the time. Princeton did playing of the strongest kind, marked in a high degree by strength, accuracy and reliability. It is true that Princeton lost yard after yard on penalties that doubtless kept the score down considerably.

Aside from these few bits of carelessness the game was cleanly played and the new football was worked right up to the limit. It was in this respect mainly that Princeton had the most conspicuous advantage. Most of the time Dartmouth made little attempt at this style of game, and when the new plays were tried they generally failed, with the exception of one or two good gains that were made in the second half.

The green team put up as sturdy and determined a game as could have been asked of them, and in the face of certain defeat there was never a time that their grip weakened. They were simply playing against a team utterly beyond their power to cope with. To have withstood the Tiger attack or to have the finely tempered Tiger defense when the whole Princeton team was at its best was something that could not be done by any team of average strength whatever its pluck might be.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Individual brilliancy on the part of certain of the Yale eleven saved the blue from defeat at the hands of the West Point soldiers and, going farther, turned what at one time seemed about to develop into absolute rout into an eleventh hour victory for Eli by the score of 11 to 6. In the first few minutes of play the army swept the blue off its feet. Thereupon the cadets mistakenly assumed the defensive.

Again and again the Yale eleven rallied—eleven good men seeking to catch a team in the stress of battle—and eventually, although the right sort of rally never came, the supreme personal efforts of such men as Knox, Alcott, Biglow and Vester combined to yield a victory.

Two Hurt in Scrimmage. NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—That opponents of the "deburitized" variety of football are still able to do considerable to preserve the ancient traditions of the gridiron game was shown fairly well in a match between New York Military academy of Cornwall, N. Y., and Groff school at the Polo grounds. Crooks, right tackle on the cadets' team, had his nose broken, and Sherry, right halfback on the local eleven, had his back so badly wrenched that he had to be carried off the field. Both of the casualties were in the scrimmage and were directly due to just the sort of football that the new rules try to eliminate. The soldiers won by the score of 23 to 0.

Cornell Defeats Westeners. ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 5.—With clear-headed, better execution of plays and better team work, Cornell defeated the heavy Western University of Pennsylvania team from Pittsburg by a score of 23 to 0. Although she had a superior knowledge of the game, Cornell had to buck against great odds in weight and speed from the opposing team. It was a spectacular contest. The first score of the game was a safety. This caused the visitors to play hard, and it was with great difficulty that the Ithacans were able to approach the goal line. The Pittsburg center line was like a stone wall.

Pennsylvania Downs Middle. ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 5.—Pennsylvania State college won from the midshipmen here by a score of 5 to 0. The same score by which the navy lost to Princeton, the only other defeat given the navy this season. In the first half Hirschman, the fullback of the visitors, tore holes in the midshipmen's line in a manner which at least equaled Tiger McCormick's performance here.

Burr's Kick Won For Harvard. BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Burr's goal from placement on Brown's twenty-seven yard line in the last few minutes of play gave Harvard the supremacy and ultimate victory by a score of 9 to 5 over Brown university on the Stadium gridiron in Soldiers' field here. It was a fitting climax to a well-contested struggle, in which both teams went the limit to register a victory.

Tigers Defeated in Cross Country Run. PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 5.—The Princeton freshmen were defeated here at cross country running by the team from the Philadelphia Central High school by 28 to 20, the low score winners.

For Number Two. Towne—My sister was telling me that old Roxley's young widow is in "second mourning." What does that mean? "Brown—I think it means that she has modified her mourning just enough to let the men know she's ready for the second.—Philadelphia Press.

To Be Encouraged. "Do you think young people should be encouraged in literary effort?" "Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "I would rather have people write their impressions of things in general than insist on writing them to me."—Washington Star.

A Preference in Spelling. He—I am rather in favor of the English than the American mode of spelling. She—Yes? He—Yes, indeed! Take "pariour," for instance. Having you in it makes all the difference in the world.—Tit-Bits.

SHOT THE ONLY BIRD.

President at End of Hunt Got the One Wild Turkey Hugged by Party.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt have returned from Pine Knot, Va., where they went Wednesday last, accompanied by Surgeon General Rixey and Private Secretary Latta. The party came in the special car Signet over the Southern railway.

The president spent his entire time while at Pine Knot in hunting wild turkeys. He had never shot one, although he often hunted them. His hunting companions were Dr. Rixey and J. C. Bishop, a local celebrity. Thursday, Friday and Saturday mornings the first was made at 4 o'clock and the hunt kept up all day. It was not until late Saturday afternoon, however, that the president accomplished his desire. He shot a wild turkey, the only one shot during the three days of hunting.

The president returned to Washington feeling much invigorated from his outing and decidedly pleased that he had added one more laurel to his hunt list record. Mrs. Roosevelt took several horse-back rides, and as the weather throughout was ideal the outing was pronounced a decided success.

Flea Information. She—I see this paper says that the mouth of the flea is located between his nostrils.

He—That may be very valuable information, but I can't see that it's going to help a man to be told that when one of the pesky things is taking a meal from the middle of his back—Yonkers Statesman.
