RECORD WILL MOVE TO ITS NEW HOME

Therefore There Will Be No Paper Published From This Office Tomorrow.

The Valley Record will not be published tomorrow. The machinery and equipment which is now located on the second floor of the Talmadge building will be moved between now and Monday to The Record's new home on Lockhart street. This move has been contemplated for some time, and as the building is ready for occupancy, the work of transferring the equipment will begin this evening. The work of moving a printing office is a big undertaking and requires considerable time. Therefore it will be impossible to print a paper tomorrow, as the assistance of the entire mechanical force will be engaged in the operation. Immediately after this issue of The Record is off the press the work will begin, and it is expected that it will be finished by tomorrow evening, and that publication will be resumed on Monday evening as usual. The next issue of The Record will greet its readers from its new home, and we earnestly crave the indulgence of readers for suspending tomorrow's issue.

BUSTER BROWN

We are to have Buster Brown, as the management of the Loomis announces the little fun maker and his bevy of attendant girls for Nov. 3. This year Master Rosen, who plays "Buster" has fully demonstrated that he is the right little comique in the exact spot, for he is so immersed in and imbued with the spirit of Mr. Outcault's character that those who have seen him declare that he is not playing a part, that he is the typical Buster himself. New and elaborate scenery and costumes grace the production this season, together with all new music and popular songs.

"A Race for Life," a sensational melodrama, with a story of heart interest, will be presented to the patrons of the Loomis Monday evening.

John Healy, charged with larceny, was discharged by Justice Carey at a hearing held last night, the evidence being insufficient to hold him to court.

"A Race for Life" comes to the Loomis on Monday evening. This is a most interesting drama of heart interest and promises to attract a large audience.

All members of Lady Willard Rebekah Lodge are requested to meet in I. O. O. F. hall tomorrow night for drill. By order of Noble Grand, Belle Heverley.

Every morning train bears away a number of the local sports who are bound for the woods. The game is plentiful and the local hunters are having excellent luck.

There will be no Valley Record published tomorrow. The moving of the machinery and other equipment to the new building on Lockhart street makes the publication of a paper an impossibility.

The rush in the freight department of the Lehigh Valley is taxing the men to the limit. Draymen report that they were never busier in their lives and they have to hustle from early morn until late at night in order to keep up with their work.

The management of the Loomis will present on Monday evening that greatest of all racing dramas, "A Race for Life." It is a play that will thrill the pulses of the most blasé theatre goer. From curtain to curtain the excitement of the piece is at fever heat, climax succeeding climax with breathless rapidity.

The briars and boquets of another general election have passed, which means we will have political peace for a few months at least. The country has once more been saved, and the average man will be glad that it is all over. Local politicians, however, will from now on begin to erect their fences for the coming spring election.

BENINT TO CONSULT SCORCERESS AGAIN

Fortune Teller Has Thus Far Failed to Recover the Lost Money

Joe Benint, the Hungarian who lost his trunk some time ago, which contained several hundred dollars in money, left this morning for Wilkes-Barre to consult a fortune teller of that place. It will be remembered that the contents of the trunk itself was found on the banks of the Susquehanna.

Benint shortly afterward went to Wilkes-Barre, and a fortune teller there told him that she would experience but little difficulty in recovering the lost money, once she could get the coin under the right star. Considerable time has passed, however, and the fortune teller has not given out any information on the subject. Therefore Benint has gone to Wilkes-Barre to see her and have her hurry matters along.

NEXT SUNDAY'S NEW YORK WORLD

A hundred years is a good way to look ahead, but there are people who think they can guess somewhere near what New York will be like in 206 A. D. Among these is the great wizard of electricity, Thomas A. Edison, who tells in next Sunday's World, what he thinks the future will bring forth. This is a marvelously interesting feature of a great Sunday Magazine.

Like American "Bee." Servian peasants help each other by means of an institution known as the moba. A man who has not hands sufficient to plow or reap his farm calls in the moba—that is to say, he invites all his neighbors to come and help him. He pays nothing for this service, providing only generous supplies of food and drink; but when any of them apply for the moba it is understood that he will take his turn.

Marvelous Vitality of Eel. Some eels are hard to kill. A fisherman of Port Isaac, Cornwall, England, recently cut up a large conger eel he had caught for bait for his lobster pots, and 20 minutes afterward picked up the head to throw it into the sea. The jaws of the eel's head opened and the fisherman's forefinger was seized between the sharp teeth. The finger was badly damaged.

Lightning and a Hat. The bolt of lightning from a clear sky which killed a horse during a race at the Norristown, Pa., Driving club park, the other day lifted Andrew H. Roop's hat straight up five feet and returned it to his head again with the force which sent it down over his ears.

Pet Names for Burglars' Tools. Why does the burglar call the tool with which he opens windows and doors a "jimmy"? No one seems to be sure. Perhaps it is merely a pet name. The French burglar calls his jimmy "Frere Jacques," which is first cousin to "Jimmy."

"Dead as a Herring." Until the day of aquaria it was a somewhat difficult matter to observe a live herring. It is a fish that dies instantly on being taken from its native element. Among fishermen first arose the expression, "Dead as a herring."—The Sunday Magazine.
