FOR RECIPROCITY

Railway Magnate Favors Free Trade With Canada.

CRYING NEED FOR A GREAT CANAL

Success of Interstate Trade Proves Benefit That Would Follow Tearing Down of Customs Houses All Along Frontier.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—J. J. Hill was the guest of honor at the banquet of the Merchants' club and delivered an extended address upon "Chicago's Interest in Reciprocity With Canada."

Mr. Hill was introduced to his auditors by Charles D. Norton, president of the club, who said that Chicago in its history had suffered two great calamities, the first being the great Chicago fire and the other that fact that James J. Hill passed through the city without stopping when he went to make his home in the northwest.

After outlining the commercial greatness of Chicago and giving some of the reasons therefor, Mr. Hill said:

"Today the entire country is suffering from want of transportation facilities to move its business with greater ease and less delay. The prevailing idea with the public is that the railways are short of cars, while the facts are that the shortage is in tracks and terminals to provide a greater opportunity for the movement of the cars."

The speaker declared that the country today faced a transportation problem which only time, patience and the expenditure of enormous sums of money will remedy. He asserted that there is a crying need now for the construction of a fifteen foot channel between St. Louis and New Orleans, and he said that the necessity for this would increase with time. There was no more important general work for the government to perform, he said, than to construct a canal capable of carrying vessels of fifteen feet draft.

Mr. Hill recited figures showing that the trade with the people whom the United States will be able to reach by the construction of the Panama canal amounts to only about $54,500,000 annually, while our trade with Canada is over $200,000,000 per annum. He asserted that the conservation and increase of this trade is of greater importance than anything that will accrue to the United States because of the construction of the canal.

Concerning reciprocity with Canada, Mr. Hill said:

"The plea for more liberal trade relations is negated only by unreasonable individual selfishness. The concluding argument for reciprocity with Canada always has been and must be the experience of the several American states. Had it not been prohibited by the constitution each state of the Union would have levied a duty on all commerce crossing its boundaries. Yet all acknowledge now that one great factor in the development of the United States has been the commercial elimination of state lines. Unrestricted trade between the states has favored all of them."

"Whatever commercial policy confers the greatest benefits on the whole continent will best advance the various parts, and this city would receive and confer inestimable benefits under a more liberal trade convention. Canada will in any event and under any system be opened up and highly developed. Would it then be disadvantageous for us to share in the products of the fields of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan?"

"The manufacturing interests of both countries are the first to raise an alarm, but there is no danger here. We have as much reason to dread Canadian competition as Pennsylvania has to cry for protection against North Dakota. Canada would be no more in danger than is Montana by the competition of Ohio."

"The time is opportune for a practical movement toward better trade relations with Canada. There has been increasing irritations toward our attitude, and already the fact that our average tariff against the Dominion is $9.83 while that of Canada against the United States is 24.83 causes comment and suggests reprisals."

In closing Mr. Hill said:

"What is the first practical step? The consummation most to be wished is the wiping out of customs houses along the northern frontier and the establishment thereof of absolute free trade. If the time is not ripe for that the least that it demands is ample reciprocity. There cannot be a beginning until we have fixed in our minds the desirability of a free interchange of natural products and raw materials, giving to the New England manufacturer his fuel and to the farmer of the western plains his lumber and to the makers of books and newspapers everywhere their print paper free from the exactions which a needless tariff now permits monopoly to impose. From this as a beginning work may go forward toward larger liberty by an enlargement of markets and a progress of public sentiment that reciprocity once in operation will assure."

Two Drowned in Salem Creek. SALEM, N. J., Nov. 12.—Through the capsizing of a small rowboat in Salem creek, near Course's landing, Herbert Grant and Harry Toulson, young men, lost their lives. Charles Toulson, a brother of the last named, managed to swim ashore.

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Nov. 12.—In the circuit court a sentence of forty-eight years imprisonment was passed on William Jennings of East St. Louis, convicted of having stabbed to death William Silman, a Philadelphia horse buyer. The killing resulted from a quarrel over a tip of $1 that Silman gave Jennings for watering Silman's horses at the National stockyards.

WOULD HIT STANDARD HARD.

Attorney General Moody Plans to Down Great Oil Monopoly.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—An important conference, at which Attorney General Moody and special assistant United States attorneys were present, was held at the department of justice to consider plans for a prosecution which will prove the deadliest blow yet delivered to the Standard Oil trust. The following propositions were under consideration:

First.—An application for an injunction to dissolve the Standard Oil company as a combination in restraint of trade, such prosecution to follow lines closely analogous to the Northern Securities prosecution.

Second.—Criminal prosecution of the corporation, for violation of the Sherman antitrust act.

Third.—Criminal prosecution of the officials of the Standard for violation of the Sherman act.

Fourth.—Criminal prosecution of the officials for violation of United States statute 5440, which prohibits and penalizes a conspiracy against the United States.

The question of jurisdiction was also under discussion, with a view to determining in what court to bring the initial action, Cleveland and St. Louis appearing to be the most favored districts for this purpose. St. Louis was finally chosen.

Many reasons are given why St. Louis is preferred. That city is convenient for the witnesses, as it is the district within which the most flagrant violations of the Standard Oil company are alleged to have been committed. The sentiment of the people in the section of the country is believed to be with the government.

Four Haters Favor His Plans.

ROME, Nov. 12.—Professor Charles Waldstein, professor of fine arts in King's college, Cambridge, England, has arrived here for the purpose of perfecting an agreement with the Italian government concerning his project for the excavation of the ancient city of Herculaneum. The professor's plans to this end have been accepted by the Italian government on the condition that the participation of foreign countries in the work be only under the form of private contributions.

Professor Waldstein has secured the active co-operation of King Victor Emmanuel as president of his organization as well as that of Emperor William, King Edward and President Roosevelt.

Would Curtail President's Power.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 12.—In resolutions calling the action of President Roosevelt in discharging three companies of negro troops from the army for attacks on citizens of Texas "despotic usurpation of power" the Union Republican club condemned the action of the president. The resolution stated that he has departed from his position in "holding open the door of hope to the negro." A copy will be sent to congress with the request that the president's power in such matters be restricted.

Grover Cleveland After Rabbits.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12.—Grover Cleveland, attired in corduroy trousers, a hunting jacket and a slouch hat and accompanied by a party of friends, enjoyed the rabbit season near Woodside. He started out in the morning and hunted till noon. Twenty rabbits were the result of the day's sport. The first rabbit was served at luncheon at Woodside, the game preserve of W. B. McFarland at Rocky Hill, four miles from Princeton.

Woman Unconscious Sixteen Weeks.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—In the hope of saving the life of his wife, who for the last sixteen weeks has been unconscious, Thomas Nicholson has started on a trip to the east to find medical aid, taking with him the woman whose comatose condition has thus far defied medical science. In July Mrs. Nicholson fainted, and since that time she has been unconscious but five minutes.

World Legible Bosses.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12.—In an interview published in the News, Secretary of the Navy Charles J. Bonaparte suggested the establishment of a legalized "boss" in each political party in each of the states and cities, the "boss" to be empowered to select the candidates for the various elective offices, thereby doing away with nominating conventions. He declared that he was speaking seriously.

Forty-eight Years For Murder.

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Nov. 12.—In the circuit court a sentence of forty-eight years imprisonment was passed on William Jennings of East St. Louis, convicted of having stabbed to death William Silman, a Philadelphia horse buyer. The killing resulted from a quarrel over a tip of $1 that Silman gave Jennings for watering Silman's horses at the National stockyards.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Nov. 12.—In a football game at Fort Shaw between the Great Falls team and the Fort Shaw Indian team James Curtis, fullback for the Great Falls team, was killed in a scrimmage. Internal injuries brought about death. Curtis was twenty-five years old and a native of Syracuse, N. Y.

TIGERS INVINCIBLE.

West Point Cadets Yield to Princeton Cohorts.

HARLAN'S PLAY SENT ROOTERS WILD

Even Banks of the Army Could Scarcely Forbear to Cheer Brilliant Play of Little Student Halfback—Score, 8 to 0.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Princeton defeated West Point in their annual football game here by a score of 8 to 0. Two goals from the field by Harlan, the brilliant little Tiger left halfback, was the best the Tigers could do, but they earned the victory fairly, and the cadets were lucky in not having their goal line crossed for a score. McCormick did plunge through the soldiers' line for six yards and placed the ball across the yard chalk mark, but the umpire caught a Tiger end offside and inflicted a five yard penalty, which robbed Princeton of five more points.

The game was a thrilling one and marked by many sensational plays. Harlan, dropping back to the army's twenty-five yard line, sent the pigskin flying squarely between the posts for the first score of the game. Toward the close of the half Dillon heeled one of McCormick's punts on the army's forty-four yard line. The fair catch was made almost at the extreme right of the field, within four yards of the side line. The distance was great, the angle for a moment or two, then, stepping back, sent the ball soaring true to the line between the posts and over the bar, and the score was 8 to 0.

On the west side of the field the Princeton rooters went wild. Hats were thrown in the air, and the "subs" danced up and down the side line like so many maniacs. Across the field the army cohorts joined in the applause for so magnificent a play. There was no more scoring after this, although Harlan tried another goal from placement, after a fair catch, from the forty-five yard line.

The last few minutes of the game saw the sturdy army team hard pressed. Princeton had hit her pace, and Dillon was driving the team like a whirlwind. The attack at this point was irresistible and was the fastest, fiercest football seen on the West Point gridiron this year. Dillon was hurt, and Dowd, who took his place, ran the team so slowly that a possible touchdown for the game with the ball in Princeton's possession on the army's six yard line. Even had there been more time, it is doubtful whether the Tigers would have made the touchdown, as West Point had made a final stand and it was third down with five yards to go. Captain Hill's defensive work in the last few plays was magnificent and largely responsible for preventing a touchdown.

A Surprise For Lehigh.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 12.—While they did not win, the New York university football team proved a great surprise to the Lehigh university team, the visitors twice crossing the home players' goal line. The final score was 27 to 21 in favor of Lehigh. Mound made both touchdowns for New York university on long runs. Spiers, for Lehigh, kicked a pretty goal from the twenty-five yard line in the first half.

Yale Won Hard Battle.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.—Speed and staying and rallying power won on Yale field a victory for the Yale eleven over the Brown team in one of the hardest football battles of the season here. The final score was 5 to 0. Yale was unable to cross the Brown line until the second half. Knox missed an easy goal. The visitors played all around the Yale team in the first half.

Yale Outplayed Tiger Cubs.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12.—The Yale freshmen team defeated the Princeton freshmen eleven here by a score of 14 to 0. Yale had a much heavier and speedier aggregation of men, and in several of the players varsity material could be seen. The Tiger freshmen were outclassed and outplayed, although they put up a stubborn defense.

Middle Won Over Swarthmore.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 12.—A splendid football contest here the midshipmen were the victors over Swarthmore by the narrow margin of one point. The score was 5 to 4. Swarthmore has the toe of little Quarterback O'Brien to thank for its score, as he dropped a nice field goal early in the first half.

Harvard Defeated Red Men.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 12.—Harvard defeated the agile Carle Indians in a lively game of football on Soldiers' field by a score of 5 to 0. The touchdown came through a fine forty-seven yard run by Wendell in the first five minutes of the second half.

Amherst Lost to Dartmouth.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 12.—Dartmouth defeated Amherst by a score of 4 to 0, showing in the game the best form of this season. For a short time at the beginning of the game the local college team were weak, but later they played steadily and strongly.

PET DEER KILLED HIM

Herbert Bradley, Wealthy Exporter, Dead In Woods.

HIS BODY TORN BY HORNS AND HOOFS

Examination of Head Showed That Largest of the Bucks and Merchant's Favorite Had Ripped Open an Artery.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Nov. 12.—Killed by the deer on the preserves of his beautiful country estate at Eagle Rock Way, the body of Herbert Bradley, a wealthy flour exporter of 58 William street, New York, was found at an early hour of the night.

Deputy County Physician Simmons of Orange found that Mr. Bradley's death was due primarily to the deer's horns opening an artery in his hip. The horns of the buck, the largest one belonging to Mr. Bradley and his special pride, were found to be covered with blood. Examination of Mr. Bradley's body showed that the animal also attacked him with his hoofs.

Mr. Bradley had just returned from a business trip to the west when told that a great deal of shooting by hunters was going on in the woods near his estate. He started out to see if any hunters had broken into his grounds, and it was while investigating that the buck killed him. His prolonged absence led to the finding of his dead body.

Bruises covered his body, and his legs were lacerated, evidently by the horns and hoofs of the animals, which had been very tame and great pets of their owner, though they often terrified other residents of the country side by escaping from the park on Mr. Bradley's place.

Mr. Bradley lived an ideal country life, and his place, though only twenty acres, was beautifully located in the glen near Eagle Rock and on the line between West Orange and Montclair. He had done a great deal toward developing the natural beauties of that section, and through his efforts roadways were shifted and made to follow the picturesque paths of the glen. On the Bradley place, which is densely wooded, is a fine conservatory and a large mansion. The proprietor's interest in horticulture bore fruit in many prizes at flower shows.

Returning home, Mr. Bradley had luncheon and, changing his attire to the rough suit in which he roamed his estate, went out to look over his property and to visit his deer park, the inmates of which had been for years his special pets. There are fifteen of the deer, all of the ordinary Virginia variety.

When Mr. Bradley did not return to his residence at the dinner hour Thomas Fahy, his coachman, was sent by Mrs. Bradley to search for her husband, but in this Fahy was unsuccessful. His report alarmed the household, and all the servants as well as some of the neighbors, who were notified, began a careful scrutiny of every foot of the Bradley estate.

This was soon ended by the discovery of the body of Mr. Bradley in the most remote and widest corner of his little deer park. He was dead, as Dr. Philip E. Krichbaum, who was summoned at once confirmed. He found that every one of the bruises and cuts on Mr. Bradley's body was below the waist, and the character of the wounds on the legs and the tears in the trousers indicated that some such implement as a deer's horns had made them. Death was due to rupture of abdominal blood vessels.

It is believed that the deer, full of panic and not having seen Mr. Bradley for several weeks, dashed down upon him on sight. As they had always rushed to meet him as their friend and to eat from his hand, he misunderstood the motive of their hasty answer to his call and was gored and stamped to death before he could realize his mistake and save himself. He had been dead three hours when the body was found. Mr. Bradley was forty-one years old and leaves a widow and two small children.

After the body had been removed to the house Philip Simmons, deputy county physician, made an official investigation and agreed with Dr. Krichbaum that the deer had killed their master.

MONARCH PROSECUTED.

Report of Assassination of Spanish Monarch Proves False.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—A Reuters telegram received from Madrid says that the report of King Alfonso having been assassinated there is without foundation.

A Paris Report Said That King Alfonso of Spain Had Been Assassinated Upon His Arrival in Madrid.

It was the intention of the royal pair to return to Madrid at the expiration of their stay in Malaga.

A Rumor of an Alleged Plot to Kill King Alfonso Was Published in the Morning Papers of Madrid.

According to the report, a stout wire had been fixed across the high road at a point which his majesty would have to pass on his way from Malaga to Madrid in an automobile. The wire was found shortly before the king's automobile was due to go by and was removed.

Robbers Caused Explosion and Fire.

HILLSBORO, Tex., Nov. 12.—While attention was directed to two fires in the outskirts of the city the hardware store of Smith & Thomas, in the business center of Hillsboro, was dynamited and partly wrecked by robbers. After an exchange of shots, in which no one was injured, Walter Jeffries of Fort Worth was arrested in the building where the explosion occurred. The fires destroyed the lumber yards of Ole Wilkerson and several small buildings, causing a loss of $10,000. It is believed that the fires were started by a confederate of Jeffries.

Protest American Contract.

ROME, Nov. 12.—A committee from the city of Terzi, headed by the mayor of that place, has come to Rome to protest against the placing of an order for armor plate for an Italian man-of-war with the Midvale Steel company of Pennsylvania and has been received by Premier Giolitti. The premier explained that the government was desirous of protecting and favoring national production, but not against the interest of the state, and that national production must put itself in condition to stand foreign competition.

Vesuvius Gave Them a Scare.

NAPLES, Nov. 12.—The column of smoke and ashes above Mount Vesuvius has diminished materially. The wind is blowing from the east. More detonations have been heard, but in long processions, carrying images of the Madonna and the saints, they are re-entering their villages. In the churches the people are returning thanks for their escape from the dangers of an eruption. Ashes from Vesuvius are falling as far distant as Avellino, eighty miles away.

Beavers May Ruin Game Fishing.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Nov. 12.—Unless action is taken to curb the increasing number of beavers in the upper peninsula of Michigan, old trappers claim that one of the greatest trout fishing regions in the United States will be ruined. The work of the beavers in damming the streams has destroyed the spawning beds, and now it is almost impossible to catch trout where a few years ago one could catch a hundred in a few hours.

General Shafter Critically Ill.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Nov. 12.—Dr. A. Schaefer of Bakersfield has made the following statement concerning the condition of Major General Shafter: "The general is constantly growing worse. He is approaching a general breakdown, and unless a radical change occurs soon all hope must be abandoned. His temperature is 102.8 and his pulse 140."

Smoke Only From Burning Timber.

DENVER, Nov. 12.—A correspondent at Trinidad, Colo., went to Stonewall, N. M., to investigate the report that Mount Culebra was in a state of eruption. He writes that the report is untrue; that the smoke issuing apparently from the summit of the peak really comes from burning timber on the New Mexico side of the mountain.
