LIBRARY CLUB

Though a stormy afternoon prevented many from attending the Ladies' Library club yesterday, the meeting was very pleasant and entertaining. Mrs. Murray gave some additional interesting notes on the biennial meeting, further observations of which will be given each week for a time. Mrs. J. W. Bishop then, in the absence of Mrs. Laws, the day's chairman, took charge of the fine program which had been prepared. Miss White gave the opening number, a vocal solo, "Tempest of the Heart," accompanied, Mrs. White, Mrs. W. G. Simpson followed with a paper, "Troubles With the Indians," after which Miss White sang "The White Squall." Mrs. G. E. Rogers gave a talk on "Men on the Frontier" which immediately preceded the intermission. After this Mrs. Bishop read a paper prepared by Mrs. Laws on the subject "The Scotch-Irish Settlements." These papers and talks showed much care and thought and were extremely interesting. The program closed with an instrumental duet, "Poet and Peasant," overture, with Miss Kendall as pianist and Mr. Morley, violinist. The music was all thoroughly enjoyed, and the club greatly appreciates the kindness of those who furnished it.

NAVY MEN HERE

Mr. John of the United States Naval Construction Department of Washington together with C. H. Hassler of the Ingersoll Rand Co., of N. Y. were in Athens yesterday for the purpose of testing the working model of the shell loading apparatus at Imperial Tool works. They found it perfectly satisfactory as regards its working mechanism but there is to be a slight change in the angle of the lifting apparatus in order to overcome the roll of the vessel. The working model is fully up to the specifications as to speed and all other requirements, and Mr. John returned to Washington last evening and will make his report to the Naval Construction department and they will at once confer with the manufacturers in Athens as to any changes that are necessary. Everything is favorable and the prospects are that our townsman Caid W. Peck has invented a device that will make him famous all over the world and that will very materially increase the work of one of our Athens manufacturing factories.
