SEPARATION IS NEAR

DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH QUARRELS WITH AMERICAN WIFE.

Shorn of Part of His Hope for Millions, British Nobleman Cools Toward Duchess—Latter Father Tries to Make Peace.

London.—Disagreements between the duke and duchess of Marlborough which have been prolonged over 18 months or more, English society is convinced will result in their separation unless earnest efforts now being made by W. K. Vanderbilt, the father of the duchess, and other relatives result in a reconciliation.

Mr. Vanderbilt arrived in London Tuesday and went directly to "Blenheim, where his daughter is with her children. The duke is not at Blenheim and all negotiations for a reconciliation have been conducted through Mr. Vanderbilt.

Incompatibility is the only reason assigned for the strained relations existing between the duke and his duchess. This has become more acute during the last 18 months and they have been apart for increasingly long periods.

The duke's relations with his wife's family have not been cordial for some time, chiefly due, it is said, to the disappointment to his expectations caused by the second marriage of Mr. Vanderbilt.

The duke, according to all accounts, is not blessed with a very amiable temper, and affects an intense dislike for Americans which is most trying to the duchess, who has many American friends of whom she is fond.

Nothing annoyed the duke so much as the frequently printed reports of his having received magnificent presents from his father-in-law. He never neglected an opportunity to deride these reports.

When Sunderland House was being built it was published that this was being done with money furnished by Mr. Vanderbilt as a Christmas present to the duke and duchess.

The duke, angered by the publication, gave out a sharply worded denial in which he intimated that Mr. Vanderbilt had never given either himself or the duchess anything beyond the marriage settlements.

Close friends of the duke say he is one of those men who could never be contented or consistently agreeable and that the question of money really need not trouble them at all if it were not for other reasons of disagreement. Believers in the doctrine of heredity point out as proof of their theory that the duke's father and mother both displayed incompatibility in their marital relations.

The two children, the Marquis of Blandford and Lord Ivor Spencer Churchill, are, of course, a powerful Several Towanda couples were at the dance given in Eighth hall on Saturday evening.

The repertoire company which will open a week's engagement at the Loomis this evening is one of the best on the road, the vaudeville features being especially fine. "Shadows of New York" has been selected for the opening bill.

The grand jury will hear the case against the Heemans today. It will be remembered that they are charged with having burglarized the Bingham Brothers' store at Lockwood some time ago.

Waverly—Last night as the street car was going toward Sayre just before 9 o'clock a woman stepped off the car shortly after it had passed Spaulding street, while the car was running at its usual rate of speed. She was thrown down in the mud, which was very deep at that point, and was plastered all over with it. It seems that she wanted to get off at Spaulding street, but for some reason failed to alight when the car stopped at that crossing. Her clothing was badly torn by the fall and she sustained several minor cuts and bruises.

Waverly—William E. Kenney, an old and well known resident of Waverly, died last night at about 8 o'clock at his home on Spaulding street. Death was due to cancer, from which he had suffered the past year. He was well known by all the older railroad men, having been a passenger conductor on the Lehigh for a number of years, although considerable time had lapsed since he was engaged in railroad work. He was at one time a member of the police force. He is survived by his wife and four daughters, Mrs. James Sheahan of Sayre, Frances, Nellie and Agnes of Waverly. His father, M. J. Kenney, also survives. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning from the house at 8:30 o'clock and from the St. James church at 9 o'clock. The remains will be buried at the St. James cemetery.

South Waverly—Mrs. Mary Cunningham was severely beaten by her son and another man last Friday night. It seems that there is a boarder at the Cunninghams, and on the night mentioned Mrs. Cunningham's son came home and succeeded in getting into an altercation with the boarder. The woman interfered and separated them, whereupon the son knocked her down, and with the aid of another man who was with him he beat her severely.

South Waverly—A surprise party was given last Saturday evening at the home of A. Gorski on South street in honor of Mr. and Mrs. A. Zoltowski. There were a large number of their friends present including several from out of town. Excellent refreshments were served and several musical selections were played. The hour was late when the guests departed after spending a most enjoyable evening.

Hen. Thomas C. Platt, Oregon's former distinguished citizen, senior senator from York state and for years dictator of Republican machine methods, will probably tender his resignation as a senator this week. Depew, the junior senator, ought to go and do likewise. New York state is in a bad way so far as representation in the United States senate is concerned.

John Hammond, chief of the fire department, has decided to remain in Sayre. Some time ago Mr. Hammond was offered a tempting job by the Lehigh at Buffalo, and at one time it was thought that he would accept. Recently, however, he has determined that Sayre is good enough for most anyone.

Among the attractions that may well expect to deceive a warm and hearty welcome from patrons of theatrical amusements in this city is Jules Murry's Own company, including William A. Whitecar in the favorite comedy, "The Munkey and the Humming Bird," announced for an early appearance.

Humorous Typographical Error. Henry Watterston says that the oddest and most humorous transposition of the types that ever came within his observation was in a New York paper which used to print its shipping news on the same page with the obituaries. One morning a long list of respectable names were set forth under the marine head, "Passed Through Hell Gate Yesterday."

The Vanishing Human Voice. A few more years and our ears will no longer be charmed by the sweet tones of the tenor and the soprano. The present fashion of violent sport is having a most disastrous effect on the singing powers of the lungs and it is probable that our descendants will never be able to enjoy the operas of Verdi or Rossini owing to the dearth of singers.—La Republique Francaise

Flatterer. Wife—But, my dear, you're forgotten again that to-day is my birthday. Husband—Listen, dearie, I know I forgot it, but there isn't a thing about you to remind me that you are a day older than you were a year ago.—Translated for Tales from Le Journal Costume Worth Small Fortune. An entire costume of sable has been ordered by a wealthy lady, the skins for which—each an exact match—are being gradually collected by a London firm. When completed, the value of this unique costume will be about $10,000.

LARGE CROWD HEAR EXCELLENT ADDRESS

Address to Masons at M. E. Church Highly Appreciated.

Waverly—Every seat in the Methodist church was taken last night by the large crowd of people that gathered to hear the address by the Rev. John Laubheimer of Albany. Mr. Laubheimer is the grand lecturer of the grand lodge of masons of the state of New York, and the address last evening was given primarily for the members of that fraternity who reside in the valley. After speaking of the religious purposes of the Masonic order, the part that the bible took in the meetings, and the benevolent purposes of the organization, he chose his text and delivered one of the most powerful sermons heard in this locality in a long time. The text was taken from Isaiah 32, 2, "And a man shall be as a hiding place from the wind and a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place; as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." The sermon was a powerful appeal to men to come out and be "as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land," to assert their manhood, to be a force for good in the world, and to try to bring about the necessary reforms and to inaugurate great movements that would go toward the advancement of humanity. He showed how the Almighty had accomplished the greatest works not through the instrumentality of any established institutions but through men of powerful personality who stood for what was just and right in spite of all the forces that evil men could bring against him.

He cited a long list of men who stood as guide posts at intervals through history showing the great reforms and mighty movements that have resulted in the betterment of the race, and urged his hearers to come out, follow their example and be a force for good in the world.
