ADDITIONAL SAYRE NEWS

H. D. ANGELL MOVED HIS STORE TODAY.
He will hereafter be located in Building Formerly Occupied by R. H. Sayre Hose Co.
H. D. Angell has moved his store from his former place on Thomas avenue, to the store that he recently purchased from the R. H. Sayre hose company. The new quarters are much more commodious than the old ones, and gives room for a much better equipped store.

Good Railroad Record.
During the year 1906 Lehigh Lodge 292, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen of Lehigh, initiated thirty-nine new members. That's a good record. There are still quite a number of railroaders in that vicinity, says the Leader, who are eligible to membership and they should not delay making early connection. Every railroad man should be a Brotherhood man.

Abel Barner, who has conducted a newsroom on Desmond street for some time past, leaves for Brooklyn this evening where he will reside in the future with his son, the Rev. A. Sterling Barner, pastor of the Memorial Baptist church.

John Carmody of Sayre, has been admitted to the hospital.

Women Mayors in Russia.
In Russia there are several woman mayors, and they were elected not out of gallantry, but simply because they were considered to be better fitted than anyone else to be intrusted with the interests of the community.

Elevators and Their Dangers.
An elevator man calls attention to the fact that in every accident that occurs to elevators the only persons seriously hurt are those standing near the door.

Keeping Fern Fresh.
Maidenhair fern, which usually withers soon after gathering, can be kept fresh for a week if when first picked the ends are held in a flame until quite black.

Value of Self-Denial.
Teach self-denial and make its practice pleasurable, and you create for the world a destiny more sublime than ever issued from the brain of the wildest dreamer.—Sir Walter Scott.

Chicago Far Above the Sea.
Chicago is situated on an extremely flat site, but no other city in the world, of anything like its size, lies so far above the level of the sea.

The Waiter—How do you wish your bacon cooked? The Farmer—Does it make any difference in the price? The Waiter—Why, no, sir. The Farmer—Then, by gosh, I'll have it cooked with three aigs.—Cleveland Leader.

Worked at Loom Eighty Years.
Joseph Jerome, who has died at Kidderminster in his ninety-third year, was the oldest carpet weaver in England, having worked at the loom for more than 80 years. He witnessed the transition of the old hand to the steam-power loom.

Where Alcohol is Harmful.
Dr. Joppe, a noted physician, declares that "when a great amount of energy is suddenly needed and nothing better can be employed, alcohol may be useful. But," he adds, "if a long journey, like a walking tour, is to be made, so that enduring strength is essential, alcohol is a hindrance, and, if used, only produces increased fatigue."

Our Proud Bird.
"This is indeed the age of commercialism," said the man of sentiments. "What makes you think so?" "Some of our statesmen never mention the American eagle any more and are continually applauding the work of the American hen."—Washington Star.

Why, of Course.
"We are always striving to keep our goods before the eyes of the public," said the storekeeper.
"What is your line?" asked the man addressed.
"I'm in the eyeglass business."—Yonkers Statesman.

Mythological Addenda.
Achilles was sulking in his tent, more of this camping out for me," he said. "It took us all day to get the tent pitched according to directions." Implicable, he went on sulking, as advertised.—The Sunday Magazine.

Insufficient Schools and Churches.
No large American city has public schoolhouses enough to hold all its children of school age, if the parochial and private schools were to go out of business. No large center of population has room in its churches for nearly all of its adult population.

Wasted.
Patience—Priscilla says there's nothing wasted in her house.
Patrice—She's wrong, I saw her kiss her pet dog.—Yonkers Statesman.
