

HAS BODY CREMATED

Roosevelt Carries Out Last Wishes of Mrs. Grover.

TAKES ANGORA CATS TO WHITE HOUSE

Moved by Pitt, President Regards Requests of Magazine Writer Who Committed Suicide in New York—Left His Estate.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Moved to rest by the simple trust of the aged Mrs. Lulu B. Grover, who committed suicide several days ago here by taking chloroform and who aroused national interest by leaving all her property to him, President Roosevelt has taken personal interest in the case and ordered that the last wishes of the aged woman be carried out.

Acting under the president's orders, United States District Attorney Henry L. Stimson, in conjunction with the public administrator, personally supervised the cremation of the body and took charge of the ashes. He also forwarded two pet Angora cats to the White House, where they will be taken care of by the president's family.

Secret service men also saw to it that all the property left by Mrs. Grover was taken in charge by the public administrator and advertisements inserted in the newspapers notifying her relatives of her death.

Behind the pathetic story of the woman's death comes the news that she was a mysterious donor of gifts to Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., for many years and had at times caused President Roosevelt no little concern because of her vagaries.

In the opinion of United States District Attorney Stimson, Mrs. Grover was weak-minded and imagined she was on friendly terms with President Roosevelt. The latter deplores ever knowing the aged woman and had no knowledge of her except through the gifts sent to his son.

It was while the president was governor of New York state in 1898 that a shotgun, a compass and watch arrived at the capital addressed to young Roosevelt. Inside the package was a small slip of paper which bore the words, "From L. B. Grover, No. 2989 Lexington avenue, New York city."

The president's son showed the gifts to his father, who ordered him to write a note of thanks. President Roosevelt, however, also sent a note to Mrs. Grover asking her not to repeat the donation.

Mrs. Grover, it is said, told a story of having known President Roosevelt when he was a youth on a ranch out in Dakota and of meeting him in this city when he rose to prominence in subsequent years.

The only mourners at the funeral outside of the undertaker and his daughter were Mrs. Richard H. Connor of this city and Secret Service Officer Tate. The body was cremated at a crematory in the Bronx.

Mrs. Connor was Mrs. Grover's closest friend and knew more of her history than any other person. She said that Mrs. Grover was the daughter of a Dakota ranchman. She was married at the age of seventeen, and when eighteen years old became a widow.

While still in her teens Theodore Roosevelt, fresh from Harvard, went to Medora, Dak., and bought a ranch. Mrs. Grover lived near Medora and was one of the few women in that section in those wild days. She often told Mrs. Connor of the long rides she took over the prairie with young Roosevelt.

The president has written a book about his ranching experiences, and Mrs. Grover expressed her wonderment that she was not mentioned in it.

There appears to have been an interval of many years, according to Mrs. Grover, between the time she knew Mr. Roosevelt in Dakota and when she met him again in New York. Her first meeting in this city, she told Mrs. Connor, was at the shop of a seller of old books. She was a bookworm, and Mr. Roosevelt was also an enthusiast on the subject of literature.

It is reported in the neighborhood in which Mrs. Grover lived that when Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., went on his hunting trip about a year ago Mrs. Grover sent him a diamond studded revolver.

A letter left by Mrs. Grover said: "To the Coroner or the First Police Officer That Finds My Body: 'I beg of you to telephone to President Theodore Roosevelt. He will have my body cremated. I have written to him, have made my will, and all I have to bid him is to have everything attended in just as I wish it to be, and all will be right. He knows where to find everything.'"

"Please send enclosed $5 and a thousand thanks for your kindness. Please do not let my poor kitens be frightened or annoyed. President Roosevelt will take them as soon as he receives my letter I mailed tonight to him. Please let them stay here until then. My heart is broken, so I take my own life in the familiar way I know by drinking chloroform. No one is to blame but myself. I trust my spirit and future life to a merciful and loving God, who knows and judges our sorrow."

HICKS' RESCUE DELAYED.

Entombed Miner Able to Touch Comrades, but Not Yet Free.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 22.—A telephone message received from Bakerfield, Cal., at the Edison office says:

"Further obstacles have been encountered in the rescue of L. B. Hicks, the entombed miner, but his deliverance is now in sight. 'We have had to abandon the project of reaching Hicks underneath the car and expect now to reach him over it. The man is so near that the workmen have actually touched him. Solid food has been handed him. He says he is all right, and we expect to notify you any time that he has been taken out."

"A narrow passage is being built of timbers over the car, and the man will be carried out through that."

"Hicks laughs and jokes constantly with the workmen. He seems very high spirited, although not hysterical. 'The whole camp is grouped about the mouth of the tunnel to watch him when he comes out.'"

After having been entombed sixty feet underground for fifteen days L. B. Hicks, the miner whose fate has aroused such great interest, was reached by the rescue party.

The workers were greatly handicapped by the treacherous nature of the drift. The sand and ground granite shifted frequently, and it was found necessary to approach Hicks from the under side of the car. The rails on which the car rested had to be cut through, and this consumed more time.

The courageous man finally called out: "What's the matter with you diggers? I'll bet I could dig twice as fast. Get a move on. I want to get a bath."

He then kept up a running fire of comment, to which the rescuers replied, cheering him on.

Hicks seemed not in the least cast down by his terrible experience.

A CALL TO NEGROES.

Bishop Walters Decries Injustice to Colored Race in High Places.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Bishop Walters, president of the Afro-American council, has issued a call to negroes to celebrate on Jan. 1 the forty-third anniversary of the issuance of the emancipation proclamation by President Lincoln.

He declares that if Afro-Americans should fall to assemble on the birthday of their freedom and commemorate the issuance of their magna charta they would show themselves lacking in appreciation of the great gift.

They should let the world know, he says, of the progress the race has made on moral and religious lines and that they are not "a race of criminals, as some in high places are striving to make the world believe." He urges negroes to report their material and educational progress and declares:

"We should cry aloud against the injustices which are being perpetrated against us by the enactment of the Jim Crow car and disfranchisement law on the part of the south. We should let the world know what an injustice has been done the race by the dismissal of innocent negro soldiers at the behest of race prejudice, men who have for years fought in defense of the flag and for the honor of the country. Let us speak of our wrongs until they are righted."

Life Insurance Presidents Meet.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The first steps have been taken toward the formation of an "association of life insurance presidents." Broadly speaking, the purposes of the organization will be to further the interests of policy holders and bring about a more nearly uniform practice in the conduct of life insurance business. The meeting was at the suggestion of President Paul Morton of the Equitable Life Assurance society and brought together representatives of twenty-four companies, while three other companies sent communications expressing approval of the proposed association.

In Not an Illegal Combine.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Wesley M. Oler, president of the American Ice company, states that the proceedings begun in the New York supreme court do not demand the dissolution of the American Ice company or the forfeiture of its right to do business. He said that Attorney General Mayer's proceedings were a demand that any illegal contracts be canceled and that the American Ice company be enjoined from curtailing the production of ice. He declared that there are no illegal contracts and that his company had never curtailed production.

Congressmen OK on Panama Janst.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Ten congressmen and one senator left on the Panama line steamer Alliance for Colombia with the purpose of making a five-day trip through the isthmus and learning for themselves the condition of things relative to the digging of a canal. Congressman McKelvey is at the head of the party, and they will be away about thirteen days.

Found Guilty of Unique Crime.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Dr. Frederick Whitney and John Jacoby were found guilty by a jury in the United States court on a charge of using the mails to furnish information where drugs to be used for immoral purposes could be obtained. Sentence was deferred.

LIVES LIFE OF A DEAD FRIEND

STRANGE CASE OF DUAL PERSONALITY IN NEW YORK.

A MYSTERY TO PHYSICIANS

Englishman Marries Girl at Rochester, Then Awakens as Some One Else and Forgets—All His Life Like a Dream.

Rochester, N. Y.—A remarkable instance of a man endowed with a dual personality, living the life of another person for many years, even marrying a young woman who under that halucination and giving her the name of a supposed dead friend, whose life he was unconsciously living, has been made public by physicians who treated the case.

The man is Horace Robbins, who came to this country ten years ago from England. Two years later he became subject to nervousness. Scientists declare the story of his life to be a modern collection of Canterbury tales; for when under the consciousness of his other self, which would last for months at a time, Robbins has experienced the emotions that were common in the personality of the other, and even lost his money fighting for the estate of the dead father of a dead friend, Horace Morris, in whose spirit his consciousness was merged.

While in one of these spells Robbins married a young woman whose home is in Rochester. The wedding ceremony took place in her grandfather's house at Sodus last Christmas day. The next day Robbins became ill and had a doctor attend him.

He was placed under special medical treatment, the doctors being J. H. Vary, a general practitioner, and Edward E. Angell, a specialist in neurology. Dr. Vary and his wife took him home and nursed him for a fortnight. He was like a day dreamer, a man hypnotized, occasionally writing business letters, and then having spells of delusions, but on February 4 he appeared normal and well.

Then he gave the first story of his life—the first of a contradictory series. His home is in Musselburgh, Scotland, he said, his father an army officer, who shot himself through grief, and he himself the sole survivor of his family, emigrated to Canada and enlisted in a Canadian contingent for the Boer war, afterward returning by way of England to the dominion.

Subsequently going back to England, he said, he awoke one morning in an Edinburgh hospital, and, when cured, went to New York for his wedding.

He Lived a Double Life.

ding, but lost all his wedding presents. This tale held good till his aunt, Miss C. arrived from England and gave glimpses of his real history. His name was not Robbins, but Horace Rawlins, she said. He left England in 1894, and wrote regularly home to his friends until last summer, since which time all letters to him have been returned unopened.

Thus confronted, his true story was a puzzle to him, but later he admitted his real name and gave out a second extraordinary narrative to explain having taken the name of Robbins. He and Horace Robbins, he said, now graduated from McGill university, Montreal, in engineering, went to Manitoba, where both were ill, Robbins dying and leaving him his property. Then he assumed the name Robbins and henceforth lived Robbins' life, with different adventures.

But this story, on inquiry, turned out to be a flight of fancy, his friend Robbins being a myth, but he mixed the fiction up with several true incidents, such as his wedding.

As time wore on medical attention improved his health physically and restored his normal mentality. Then he committed to writing his final tale, a long narrative with the proviso: "I cannot vouch for all the statements, so I write them, knowing they may be either fact or fancy."

His name, he says, is Horace Rawlins, born on March 25, 1879, at Finch Ingfield, Essex, and his mother, sisters and brothers reside at Cedar Road, Hampton Wick, Middlesex.

Mrs. Jacob Heyl Asks Divorce.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 22.—Clara S. Heyl, daughter of the late Mrs. Lisette Schandeln and wife of Jacob Heyl began suit for divorce in the circuit court here. Jacob Heyl was the central figure in the celebrated Schandeln will case which attracted attention throughout the country several months ago and in which an estate valued at over $5,000,000 figured. Mrs. Heyl was married May 20, 1880, and has two children, the custody of which she asks the court to award to her. In the complaint she says she ceased to live with her husband in October, 1905. In stating the various instances of alleged cruelty and inhuman treatment, Mrs. Heyl accuses her husband of offending her finer feelings and her sense of decency. The complaint recites that on two occasions Heyl threatened to kill her.

Board Held 4,025 Soldiers Gently.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 22.—Survivors of the Sixtieth Ohio, stirred up by the reference of the president to its muster out under charges, sent a number of telegrams to the office of the adjutant general asking for the facts as shown by the records. The records show that while the regiment in 1862 was in camp Douglas, Chicago, some of the troops became riotous, and a lot of lumber was burned. A board of survey was appointed to fix the responsibility for the outbreak and to estimate the value of the property destroyed. This board fixed the value of the lumber at $2,169 and held 4,025 men, coming from thirteen different organizations and five different states, guilty of the offense. The report says, "It is difficult to control idle men." The men were not discharged "without honor."

Fire Fighters Saved Eight.

BOSTON, Dec. 22.—Eight persons were carried down ladders by police and firemen during a fire that suddenly got beyond control of the fire department in the three story wooden Mero block, in the Brighton district, and so serious did the blaze threaten other wooden buildings that three alarms had to be sounded before it could be brought under control.

FEAR DEATH OF POPE

HEALTH OF PONTIFF CAUSES MISGIVINGS AT VATICAN.

Coming Consistory and Worry of French Crisis Drain on His Vitality—To Put Paris Church on an Independent Basis.

Rome.—The health of the pope is again causing concern among the prelates of the Vatican. Not that Pius X. is considered in imminent danger, but the frequent recurrence of attacks of gout indicate that the pope is very far from enjoying the good health of his predecessor, and that he may not long survive.

There is in the Vatican one layman who is the pope's personal valet, the same position occupied under Leo XIII. by Centra, whose affection for the former pontiff has become a matter of history. Pius X.'s valet is named Silli and so closely attached is he to his master that he never leaves the pope's bedroom during the illnesses of the pope. Sig. Silli, when asked for details of the pope's real condition, said that while there was no danger at all he could only feel that the frequency of the attacks indicated a serious condition of health.

The principal difficulty lies in the fact that the pope is not an easy patient to care for. He does not obey his physician, Dr. Laponi, who, although himself ill, comes daily to the Vatican professionally in his endeavor to relieve the pope's sufferings. At times Pius X. insists on walking in the Vatican gardens too late in the evening.

It is universally known that the evening air in Rome is far from healthful. The constant dampness subjects wayfarers to the same rheumatic troubles as are harassing the pope, and the fear now is that unless the pope refrains from such dangerous exercises he may be laid up in the near future with rheumatism of an inflammatory character.

According to Sig. Silli, the pope often refuses to use the medicines prescribed by the physicians, usually making the plea that he feels better and considers it unnecessary. There is perhaps no other cause contributing more to the frequency of the attacks from which the pope suffers than this refusal to submit regularly to curative agencies.

Just now the great task before the pope is that of arranging for the consistory. It is at consistories that all appointments of new cardinals and bishops are made. Months of work are required of the pope before one of these solemn gatherings of the princes of the church before pontiff can be held.

At the coming consistory the pope will appoint several new bishops for France. It is rumored here that several French bishops have already been asked by the Vatican authorities to resign because of failure to carry out the pope's instructions and their places must be filled as soon as possible.

Arrangements have been practically completed at the Vatican to make the French church absolutely independent from the government, not only as regards the personal support of the bishops and clergy, but also and more especially concerning the churches and ecclesiastical buildings to be used in the future. The French government officials have shown utter defiance of the church authorities and the new premier, Clemenceau, in his speech before the parliament on Monday last again threw the gauntlet of defiance to the authorities in Rome.

The gauntlet has been picked up by the church authorities with the result that the church in France will be made absolutely independent from the state. Those priests and bishops whom the government will not provide with sufficient support will be furnished with material means directly from the Vatican, and in all the parishes where the government shall see fit to close the churches the Vatican authorities will see that a building is leased and the Catholic congregations gathered for worship without regard or consideration for church buildings already in existence.

To carry out such a scheme will cost millions but Pius X. is confident of finding them not only through the generosity of the faithful, but also through the cooperation of the religious orders, especially the Jesuits, who have already given the pope assurance that every one of their members and all the possessions of their order would be placed at his disposal if necessary for the reorganization of the church of France.
