ROBERT H. SAYRE, FINANCIER, DEAD

Venerable South Bethlehem Man, Philanthropist, a Builder of Railroads of Large Enterprise, and Whose Name This Borough Bears, Expired on Friday.

Robert H. Sayre, builder and manager of railroads, promoter of the great Bethlehem Iron Company, financier and philanthropist, died at his home in South Bethlehem Friday evening at the age of 82 years. He was ill only a few days.

For many years Mr. Sayre was one of the foremost railroad men in Pennsylvania. Since his boyhood he had been an influential man in this community and as he grew in years and strength his influence extended throughout the state, and, in fact, the country.

Robert Heysham Sayre was born on October 13, 1824 in Columbia county, Pa. He was educated in the public schools of Mauch Chunk. At the age of 16 he left school and entered one of the engineer corps under the late Edwin A. Douglass, engineer in chief, engaged at the time in the enlargement of the Morris Canal.

In the spring of 1856 Mr. Sayre moved with his family to Bethlehem. In 1858 he built and moved into his present residence on Fountain Hill. With the exception of the Daniel Freytag dwelling, on an adjoining farm, Mr. Sayre's residence was the first one built in that locality, now a part of South Bethlehem.

In May, 1852, Mr. Sayre became associated with the late Asa Packer of Mauch Chunk, and began the surveys and the construction of the Lehigh Valley Railroad from Mauch Chunk to Easton. The completion of the road in 1855 supplied an outlet for coal from the Lehigh region, the transportation of which had up to this time been confined to the slower and limited facilities afforded by the Lehigh Canal.

During Mr. Sayre's superintendency the Lehigh Valley railroad was extended northward to the state line in 1869, and eastward to Perth Amboy in 1874, where extensive coal docks were erected to accommodate the ever increasing coal tonnage over the road to tidewater.

From 1882 to 1885 Mr. Sayre was president and chief engineer of the South Pennsylvania railroad, returning to active service with the Lehigh Valley in the latter year, when he was elected second vice-president, charged with the transportation over its various lines and the construction of new work.

In 1862, jointly with Merritt Abbott and Ira Cortright, he sold to the Bethlehem Iron company the land lying between the Lehigh Valley railroad and the Lehigh river, taking their part in the stock of the recently organized company. On this ground the first blast furnace and rolling mill were erected between 1869 and 1863. Mr. Sayre was elected a member of the board of directors in July, 1862, and remained in the board until he died.

In June, 1886, Mr. Sayre succeeded the late Dr. G. B. Linderman as general manager of the Bethlehem Iron company, and in 1891 was made vice-president. He retired from both offices in 1896.

At a meeting held in Mr. Sayre's house in the spring of 1862 the parish of the Church of the Nativity was organized. Mr. Sayre was elected a vestryman and remained one until his death. During his long, busy life as a man of affairs he remained active and zealous in church work.

He started a mission school on the outskirts of the borough of South Bethlehem, of which he became and remained the superintendent for years.

In 1865 the Lehigh University was chartered and Mr. Sayre became one of the trustees. He built and presented to the university the astronomical observatory, with its telescope and other instruments. He was a member of the board of trustees of Bishopthorpe School for Young Women founded in 1867, and was elected a member of the executive committee.

Other worthy charities to which Mr. Sayre has given his time and attention are St. Luke's hospital, South Bethlehem, of which he has been a member of the board of trustees and of the executive committee of Children's Home since its foundation. Mr. Sayre has always been deeply interested in the Robert Packer hospital.

His place and at the time of his death was a member of the board of trustees. He was also actively interested in a number of Sayre companies, among them The Sayre Land company, Cayuta Manufacturing company and the Sayre Water company. It was in his honor that Sayre was named.

After retiring from the active duties incident to his connection with the larger corporations before mentioned Mr. Sayre built a spacious library, attached to his home. It is filled with choice books on almost all subjects, many of them rare and fine editions. The library contains 8,000 volumes and is open daily—to all who appreciate fine books and works of art.

WIFE BEATER MUST FACE GRAND JURY

Daniel Clearwater Was Held to Court This Morning Charged by His Wife With Aggravated Assault.

Daniel Clearwater, a resident of Bradford street, was held to court this morning in the sum of $200 bail on a charge of assault preferred by his wife, Henrietta Clearwater. He was unable to furnish bail and was taken to Towanda on No. 4 this afternoon.

Clearwater has been more or less prominent in police court for several years. His first appearance was when the late Justice John R. Murray sent him to the stone pile for thirty days. He was then charged with beating his wife, and a few months after his release he was arrested on a similar charge again. Then he got six months cracking stone. After his release his wife gave him money to buy a suit of clothes, but after buying a cheap pair of shoes and a cheaper hat, he spent the remainder of the money for booze. For the past two weeks according to the story told by his wife he has been drunk continually. She says that he is ugly when he is sober but when drunk she fears him. Yesterday he came home drunk and late in the afternoon he began to pound her with his fist. She called Officer D. J. Sisson and he landed Clearwater in the bug house. This morning Mrs. Clearwater secured a warrant from Justice Carey charging aggravated assault. When arraigned Clearwater admitted his guilt and said there was "no use fighting it."

He pleaded with his wife to withdraw the charge, but she was inexorable, and her husband went back to the "bug house."

Mrs. Clearwater told a pitiful story to the justice. She has six children the oldest of which is eighteen years old, while the youngest is seven. Mrs. Clearwater says that her husband has never provided for his family as a man ought, and for years she has been compelled to take in washings to support her children and herself. She also says that he has made a practice of taking things from the house and selling them for money with which to buy drink. The things which he would sell were bought with money that she earned by taking in washings. On Saturday night Clearwater admitted taking two rugs which cost $6.00 each and disposing of them for a small sum of money at a hotel in East Waverly. A short time ago he sold a pair of slippers belonging to his wife, and spent the proceeds for whiskey.

LEHIGH SHORT OF PASSENGER ENGINEERS. Freight Throttle Handlers Are Qualifying For This Branch of the Valley Service.

The Lehigh Valley has no more passenger engineers than are absolutely needed in spite of the fact that engineers in the passenger service receive large checks each payday.

Recently several passenger engineers have been relieved from duty because they ran past adverse signals. This left the road short of men who know how to run a mile a minute and pull a heavy train at the same time and it also left the Lehigh short of men who knew the roadbed, the sidings and each signal between Sayre and Easton. Several engineers who have been in the freight service are now at work learning the main line on the Sayre-Easton run and when they are capable of pulling a throttle on a fast train, the Lehigh will no longer be short of engineers.

Walter Tisson, a round house employe, fell from the running board of an engine last night and was later carried to the hospital on a stretcher by six fellow workmen. When Tisson arrived at the hospital it was found that he suffered a somewhat extensive cut on the right hand but was otherwise uninjured. He was allowed to go to his home.

WHEN WOMEN LOVE.

The great success which attends "When Women Love" is easily accounted for as it pleases both the eye and the ear. The company that interprets the play is said to be exceptionally fine, and gives tone to it. "When Women Love" is a four act drama of much merit, each act fitting together consistently. The scenes are laid in true life. Patrons of the Loomis opera house will have an opportunity to see this attraction next Saturday afternoon and evening.

GRANDFATHER OF ALL THE OLD COINS.

Sayre Fire Chief Has a Vermont Penny Dated 1722.

J. C. Wood of West Sayre, who was recently elected chief of the fire department, has in his possession an old Vermont coin, dated 1722. Mr. Wood found the coin in a bank of dirt on West Lockhart street about fifteen years ago, and he has carried it ever since. Mr. Wood says that the coin he possesses is without doubt the grandfather of all the old coins that have heretofore been mentioned in the columns of the Valley Record. He says that if any one has anything in the shape of a coin that can beat his he would like to meet the gentleman and take him by the hand. Come on, oh ye coin men, the first fellow stands no show at all.

BOLD BAD BURGLAR CAPTURED HERE

Detective Shaffer Nabs Man Who Escaped From Ithaca Officers on Saturday Night.

Chief of Police Vangorder of Ithaca, came to Sayre last night to secure custody of a man named Quail who was wanted in that city for burglary. Quail who is a paroled reformatory convict was taken to Ithaca without the formality of requisition.

He is a desperate character and gave the officers at Ithaca the slip on Saturday night when they attempted to place him under arrest. He boarded an eastbound Lehigh Valley freight train and the Ithaca officers hearing of this followed on a passenger train which overtook the freight at North Spencer. Quail in the meantime had fallen in company with a couple of train riders and when the trio saw the officers they ran. Quail it appears boarded a freight train later in the evening and arrived in Sayre about 11 o'clock. Special Officer Shaffer had in the meantime been given a description of the man and the officer succeeded in locating him. He placed him under arrest and notified Chief Vangorder who came here and took him to Ithaca.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM SERIOUS INJURY.

Man Run Over By Horse and Wagon Was Only Slightly Bruised.

Saturday night an employe of the shop whose name was not learned was run over by a horse and wagon at the corner of Elmer avenue and Lockhart street, and how he escaped mortal injury is beyond the ken of those who witnessed the accident. The accident occurred shortly after five o'clock. One of the trolley cars had come down from Waverly and stopped directly in front of the big store. A large number of shop men were standing on the corner waiting for the car, and when it stopped all made a rush to get on. About this time Mrs. Charles Mills, wife of District Attorney Mills of Athens, and two women drove into Lockhart street from Elmer avenue. Mrs. Mills was handling the reins and the animal she was driving was a spirited one. As she drove past the car the unknown man rushed past the head end of the trolley car directly in front of the horse which was moving along at a slow trot. The horse knocked the man down and to an eye witness it looked as if he were trampled upon by all of the animal's four feet. He rose in a sitting posture, however, just in time to be caught by the forward axle of the wagon, which caught him in the back of the neck, bent him double and made him turn a complete somersault. He came "heads up" again just in time for the rear axle to catch him again and he executed another flip flop. Those who witnessed the mishap rushed to the spot confidently expecting to witness a case for the undertaker, but instead the man arose quickly to his feet, picked up his hat, brushed the particles of mud from it, looked about. The expression of his face plainly indicated that he was not quite clear as to what had occurred. Mrs. Mills in the meantime had stopped the horse and drove back to where the man had been run over. The two women who accompanied her got out of the wagon and Mrs. Mills insisted upon driving the man whom her wagon had run over to his home. He was not seriously injured.

Mrs. Chester Lyman has gone to Tioga, this state, for a few days visit with friends. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Touley spent Saturday in Dushore where they attended the funeral of a relative. H. R. Talmadge, who has been visiting relatives at Albany, N. Y., for several days, has returned home. The borough schools resumed business this morning after a vacation covering a period of over two weeks. There will be a meeting of the L. S. to B. of L. F. in Talmadge's hall tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. All members are requested to be present. The men's meeting of the West Sayre church will be held on Tuesday evening at Freeman Gerould's on Willow street, Athens. Every one is invited to attend. Old coins are coming to the front rapidly and tomorrow The Record will have another story devoted to this interesting subject. Several papers have come to the office with coins of ancient dates since morning and it is impossible to give them all space today. The four Republican ward committees of Sayre, went to Towanda this morning to a meeting of the Republican county committee which is being held in that place today. It is probable that the committee will arrange the rules to conform with the new primary act. District Attorney Charles E. Mills left yesterday afternoon for Philadelphia and today has been engaged before the Supreme Court in opposing the motion for a new trial in the case of Charles Johnson, convicted in the first degree for the murder of Mrs. Maggie Johnson and Annie Benjamin on September 18, 1905. A Lehigh Valley railroad inspector while at Tunkhannock the other day to look after repairs remarked that the company has ordered equipment for electrifying the Montross branch—that is to say, to fit it for operating cars by electric power. There is no official information on the subject, however, and the report is believed to be the gossip of the caboose committee. The flange on a wheel of an east bound freight car broke near Coolbaugh's cut, just below Towanda this forenoon. The car jumped the rails, and the end projected in such a manner as to block the westbound tracks. The car was retracked with but little difficulty, and traffic was not delayed. A report reached Sayre to the effect that an awful wreck had occurred, but it proved to be without foundation. According to the Daily Review Towandians have at times been inconvenienced by the bad street car service between Sayre and Waverly. Now this is really too bad. Towanda people, of course, are so accustomed to rapid transit, especially that which is used to convey passengers from the upper station to the place which is supposed to be the business center of the town, that a little bad service nettles them considerably.
