Dell Rogers Not Guilty of Larceny of Logs.

Dell Rogers, a resident of Waverly, and a mill operator, charged by Goodwin Bristol of Milltown, with taking, stealing and carrying away a quantity of logs to which Bristol claimed title, was discharged at a hearing held before Justice Carey last night.

Rogers was arrested about ten days ago. Bristol, the complainant, alleged that he had taken several logs from Shepard Creek, and that there were no marks on the logs to indicate that they had an owner. Therefore he appropriated them to his own use by the right of discovery. He pulled them ashore but later Rogers and his men are alleged to have taken them away. Rogers says that the logs are his and that as he is the only man floating them on the creek it was not necessary for him to mark them for identification. After listening to the evidence Justice Carey discharged the defendant.

BOROUGH COUNCIL MET AND THEN ADJOURNED.

Contracts With the Lehigh for Permitting Sewer to Pass Under the Tracks Are Not Yet Executed.

The regular adjourned meeting of the Sayre borough which was to have been held in the Packer house rooms last night failed to materialize. The council was called to order for the purpose of taking up the sewer question but it developed that the contracts with the Lehigh Valley for permitting the sewer to pass under the tracks had not been returned to the council and therefore the borough attorney instructed the dads to not proceed further. The meeting was adjourned until the 21st, at which time it is expected the matter will be ready to come up.

HAVE YOU BOUGHT WILDCAT MINING STOCK?

If You Have Offer to Sell Them Back to the Fellow Who Sold Them, Then Watch Him Squirm.

Have you bought mining stock? Sell them. Offer them back to the man who sold them to you. Offer them at the same price. Offer them at ten per cent. less. Offer them at twenty per cent. less. This will accomplish your own disillusionment, and save your money for you might have bought more. It will also effect exposure of the man who sold you the stock. Are you thinking of buying shares in the "Poodle Dog Inflated," or "Hoptoad Jump Along?" Don't. And this "don't" is without qualification of any kind. To women chiefly, wives of husbands of the higher wage-earners class, this paragraph is commended. Not that it is their folly we inveigh against. They are the ones who know the values of savings, and they may be in time to save a fatuous husband from an act of inexcusable folly. If you are tempted by the full-page advertisements published by the newspaper partners of mining swindlers, don't. If some acquaintance urges you buy shares, he either profits by the sale or is himself deceived.

Social By the Presbyterian Choir.

The choir of the Presbyterian church will entertain the members of the church and congregation and all their friends at the home Mrs. L. M. Rice Tuesday evening next week. They have been arranging the program for some weeks, the nature of which is a profound secret. It is, however, safe to say that all who take advantage of this public invitation to be present on that evening will be thoroughly entertained.

"When Women Love."

One of the scenes in "When Women Love" a big melodrama to be given at the Loomis opera house tonight shows the interior of a factory with machinery in full operation and the hands at work. The scene is one of the most startling that such a thing, as showing the interior of a factory with machinery in operation, has been attempted on the stage. The members actually operate the machinery in "When Women Love."

ADVANTAGES OF LIVING IN TOWANDA

Sayre Workmen Will Find the New Train Scheme to Be Most Advantageous.

The new train which the Lehigh Valley contemplates placing in service between Sayre and Towanda on February 1st has been the subject of considerable comment among the residents of Sayre, and although the matter is not taken seriously here the project is calling forth a storm of protest, and some uncomplimentary things are being said of those who are responsible for it.

According to the Towanda Daily Review, which appears to speak authoritatively concerning the new train, the Lehigh has consented to give the scheme a trial. The object is to induce workmen employed in the Sayre shops to go to Towanda to live on account of cheap rent, cheap provisions, cheap clothing, cheap fuel, and cheapness all around.

The principal inducement, it is understood, is the price of rent. It is claimed that the Sayre workmen will be able to rent houses in Towanda at least one-half cheaper than they can in Sayre. It is said that there are a number of houses in Towanda which will rent from $5 to $7 per month, and that they are worth every cent of it. There are also some houses to be found in Sayre which will rent for the same sum. They are also worth it. But when it comes down to business the Sayre workmen who will take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will find that if they get a house in Towanda with modern improvements they will pass much for it in Towanda as they will in Sayre. Sayre workmen for the most part are accustomed to living in houses which are equipped with a bath room, furnace, etc., and other conveniences of the modern type. For houses of this character the rent varies, according to the location, number of rooms, etc. Many of these houses are renting for $15.00 per month, and in a central location, $18.00 per month is demanded. It is extremely doubtful if a house, equipped in the manner described, will rent cheaper in Towanda. Of course, if the workmen want to live in shacks in order to get cheap rent, Towanda will afford them excellent opportunity.

DISASTROUS WRECK ON WEATHERLY HILL

Lehigh Valley Train Ran Away, Engineer Scalded to Death and Property Valued at $75,000 Destroyed.

Black Creek Junction on the Mahoning Branch of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, was the scene of a wreck Thursday night of one of the worst wrecks that ever occurred on the ill-fated Weatherly hill. The wreck was the result of a coal train getting beyond control on the Weatherly hill, and crashing into an empty coal train at the Junction. Harry Hargis of Weatherly, engineer of the runaway train, was scalded to death, and property valued at $75,000 was destroyed.

What caused the coal train to get beyond control is not definitely known. Runaways occur frequently on the steep hill at Weatherly, and the dead engineer was in one only a few nights ago. Thursday evening about eight o'clock the train of which he was engineer rushed down the hill and through Weatherly village at a frightful rate of speed. As the train rushed through Weatherly thousands of sparks flew from the wheels, indicating that the brakes were tight. At the same time the members of the terrified crew could be observed running over the cars toward the caboose, hoping to cut the latter off from the train and thus save themselves. Before this could be done, it became necessary for them to jump from the train. Fortunately they all escaped in jury except Harry Dohey, whose right ankle was severely sprained. Of all the train hands, Engineer Hargis alone clung to his post and in doing so paid the penalty of his life.

The dead engineer had the whistle of the runaway engine tied down whistling for the board at Black Creek Junction, in the hope that he would have a clear track. In this he was successful, as a coal train bound for Delano was on the crossing. The engineer of the Delano coal train heard the whistle of the runaway train and put on full steam in an attempt to get off the crossing, but failed. The runaway train crashed into the Delano train and the cars were piled up mountain high. The runaway engine was turned completely around and lay on its side. Engineer Hargis was found pinned in his cab, and the railroad hands soon succeeded in pulling him through a hole in the top of the cab. He was still alive when taken out of the wreck, but expired soon after, without uttering a word. No external wound was visible except a flesh wound on the scalp. Death was due to the scalding he received from the escaping steam. The deceased is survived by his wife and one daughter.

George Ushafer, trowman and operator at Black Creek Junction was notified by Clarence Fortwanger, telegraph operator at Weatherly, of the approach of the runaway train. Ushafer at once vacated the tower and it was luck that he did, for the wreck carried away a portion of the tower and meant his death had he remained in it.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Marcellus Vargason, a laborer employed in the Athens bridge works, was taken to the hospital this forenoon suffering from innumerable bruises on the head, back and legs. Vargason fell while attending to his duties. He is not seriously injured.

The runaway train was in charge of Conductor Charles Keener of Hazleton, and was composed of 29 large capacity steel cars. Of this number 22 were entirely demolished and 16 undamaged. Ten cars of the Delano train were wrecked. The damaged cars were torn and twisted into all sorts of unconceivable shapes. Both tracks were blocked and it was necessary to transfer passengers.

The wreck is such a tremendous one that it will not be cleared for several days. Its cost is estimated at $75,000. It occurred where the wreck of Jan. 4, 1905, happened when Messrs. Turner, Swank and Mochmar were killed. It is said that the train went at such a high rate of speed that it actually covered the distance between Hazle Creek bridge, from where the runaway started and Black Creek Junction, a distance of three miles in less than two minutes.

Bed of Consumption.

Martin V. Kelley, aged 25 years, died yesterday noon at the home of J. Smiley on North Wilbur avenue. The deceased had been in ill health for a number of years and death was due to consumption. The remains were shipped to Monroeton by Undertaker Gramme this morning. The funeral will occur at that place tomorrow.

Just as the men were beginning to think of plowing their gardens and mowing their lawns, and the women were thinking about new spring hats, along comes a genuine blizzard today which brings everybody to a sudden realization that there is still plenty of time left for real winter weather.

The well known playwright, Hal Reid, has written a new drama of life in the great west, which will be produced by E. J. Carpenter at the Loomis opera house next Monday evening, Jan. 14th. It is called "At Cripple Creek" and is said to be the strongest and most interesting play of its kind that has been given to the American stage since Bartley Campbell's "My Partner." The story it tells is one of absorbing interest, powerful in motive and absolutely true to nature. It is replete with scenes of exquisite beauty and tenderness; abounds in lively comedy and contains a number of effects entirely new to the stage. A carload of magnificent scenery is carried and the company is one of the most powerful at present on tour.

The Valley Record of Sayre has been giving its reader some interesting accounts of old coins owned by residents of this vicinity. The editor will kindly take notice that C. W. Clisbie, of the Free Press force, has an American cent of 1814 and a half dollar of 1836. He has had the coins in his possession several years—and he's a printer—Waverly Free Press. The last sentence in the foregoing causes a large sized, three-cornered doubt to arise in the mind of those who are familiar with economic character of the followers of the Art Preservative.
