THE BIG STORE WITH LITTLE PRICES

Sayre Pa.

We Fill Mail Orders and Prepay Freight or Express on Purchases of $5.00 or Over

High Standard and Low Cost is the Slogan
Announcing Further January Clearance of Reputable Merchandise.

In general large buyers are more apt to get their money's worth. The most expensive way to buy coal is by the bucketful, that's why this store buys in connection with 40 other big stores. Its outlet warrants this logical advantage over small dealers. This store is always full-handed and forehanded and thrives best on comparison.

Extremes meet in this Special Clearance Sale where you get greatest value for least possible cost.

One Lot of Mercerized White Waists at a little better than one-half price. Sizes 34 to 42 are very reasonable. Come in checks and dots. All are figured and formerly priced at $1.19. Special Clearance of about six dozen.....79c

ATHENS.

J. W. Deaman, Esq., was in Towanda today on business.

Walter Ferguson and wife and two children are down with the grip.

Mrs. Thomas Lilley and son Donald went to Towanda today, where they were called on business.

Mrs. O. E. Lovell will go to Chillicothe tomorrow where she will spend several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Arrah Williamson.

Miss Bessie Cangley got her left hand crushed while working at the silk mill this morning and is now obliged to carry it in a sling.

There are three more persons looking ugly after the Athens postoffice plum, but thus far Postmaster Saira and C. H. Satterlee have lead as they have petitions with a large number of names upon them.

Augustus Smith of Rome, was in Athens yesterday looking after a house and lot with the intention of purchasing and removing to town. He resided here several years ago and wants to come back.

Joseph F., the sixteen months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Aspenheller, died yesterday at about 11:30 o'clock, a. m. He will be buried at the Catholic cemetery at Sayre tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Chief of Police R. J. Mulligan found a man's overcoat on Main street opposite Dr. Badger's house this morning at about six o'clock. It must have fallen from a wagon as the owner was driving through the streets. The owner can get it by calling at City Hall.

The meeting of the Business Men's Association last evening was well attended and matters of importance were discussed. They have passed a resolution instructing the members of the legislature to vote and advocate the passage of the bill relating to garnishees and the pure food measures.

Wolcott's store was burglarized last night. After robbing the slot machine on the outside wall, they removed the grating at the cellar window on the north side and crawled down through the coal bin into the cellar, and from there up into the store. They got a few pennies from a drawer and a gold watch.

Several other articles were also missing which they perhaps coveted and took away. They got small returns for such a venture, but they perhaps were satisfied.

We once more call attention to the concert to be given at high school hall Friday evening. The new piano is a "dandy" and there will be a talented pianist in the company who will be able to bring out the music as you have not heard before in Athens. Miss Edith Adams, the cellist was a pupil of Heinrich Kifer of Munich, and she has the distinguished honor of being one of his pupils. There is a world of harmony in this instrument, so nearly like the human voice and it will be a rare treat to hear her render some of the classic melodies of the best masters. Tickets at Sanford's.

MISCHIEF GALORE AT ATHENS LAST NIGHT.

Several Places Were Burglarized By Unknown Parties.

There was a "ragged edge customer" evidently in Athens last night that cut himself loose to see what he could do, and he made lots of mischief. We have already chronicled the burglaries at the Lehigh station and Wolcott's store. Following up the trail we find that some one visited C. L. Pierce's store and fired a brass oil cup through his back window, making a clean cut hole about as large as a four pound cannon shot would do. This piece of brass must have been picked up at the Sayre shops for it was cast away from the junk pile, hammered and bent beyond all fitness for use. Mr. Pierce can give no idea of what they wanted, but considers that some one has spite against him, for on a future occasion he found his bakery room invaded and things broken for mere "cussedness." At the bottling works in the rear of Joseph Hines' store, Pearl Hemmenway found the rear window raised and the back door open about 9:30 o'clock last night. He had left the door locked and the key inside when he went away and now the door was wide open and the key gone. He called Mr. Hines and had a consultation and they concluded that it was boys' work. There were several bottles of beer gone. So the raiders satisfied their thirst whatever else they omitted to do.

Card of Thanks.

Athens—We return our sincere and heartfelt thanks to the good friends in Athens who showed us so much attention and sympathy during the sickness and death of our little boy Alfred. Especially do we thank Dr. Simpson and the singers who attended the funeral.

CONCERNING THE CLIFF DWELLINGS.

Another Interesting Letter From C. E. McKinney.

Flagstaff, Arizona, Oct. 22, 1906.

Early in May several of us took a trip to the cliff dwellings located about nine miles from Flagstaff. We crossed the Santa Fe & Topeka R. R. and the country is fairly level until we arrived at the Walnut Canyon, where the cliff dwellings are. On the way we passed by what is called the "bottomless pit," which is where the river DeFlagg disappears into the ground. There is quite a basin at this place where, when the river is very high, quite a lake is formed, as the outflow is through a large crevice at the bottom of the pit, which is not large enough to carry an overflow of water. It is said the water passes through the rocks to the place from under the cliffs, as does also the stream that comes into Cataract or Supia (Indian) Canyon, near the Indian school and government agency. The Supia water supply is from the water shed near the Grand Canyon, back of Bass' Camp. Before reaching the Walnut Canyon, we pass through a government reserve pine forest, which is rather open, and flowers of different hues are profuse, making one think of flower gardens in the woods. We arrived at the lodge about noon, so partook of a lunch before starting to view the cliffs and dwellings. W. H. Pierce, late forester and guide into the canyon and to the cliff dwellings, is a soldier of the Civil war and a member of the G. A. R. He went with us, showing us the dwellings nearly two-thirds the way up from the bottom of the gorge, which is very wide and 500 feet or more deep at this place. The cliff dwellings form a continuous row underneath an overhanging ledge. They have been walled up in front and on each side, making separate dwellings. A peculiarity of construction is that the bottom of the walls, the stones are set up on edge, leaving an open space the length of the walls, over which the main walls were laid. There are hundreds of them here, most of them fallen down. But one in particular is in a good state of preservation, walls as perpendicular and straight as masons of today build. In the mud or mortar used in making this wall the impression of a hand has been made which is clearly defined, and is to all appearances a much smaller hand than that of the average man of today.

The gorge passes around what is called an island only connected by a small neck to the other cliffs. On the top of this several hundred feet higher is what is called the Citadel, difficult of access but I am sorry I did not climb to the top. From the divide you look down the Canyon for a long distance. The guide said there were scattered dwellings along this, but the village is what we had viewed. He also said this Canyon was 22 miles or more in length beyond us. This was all very interesting when we returned to camp. The doctor who was with us took a photograph of the company in two different locations which we are much pleased with and we shall remember the associations and incidents connected therewith for years to come.

We arrived at Flagstaff in due time having had an enjoyable day, a beautiful day as most days are here.

C. E. MCKINNEY.

ROBBERS ENTERED LEHIGH STATION.

Burglars Enter Window in the Rear But Secure No "Swag."

Athens—Some one went through the Lehigh Valley ticket office here last night, and it is a difficult question to determine just what they were after. They got no "swag" as far as can be determined but they did some queer work. They broke a lower pane of glass out of the upper sash in the north window so they could reach the fastening and release it; then they went to the south side of the building and broke another pane of glass evidently for the same object. Then going to the door they broke another light of glass so they could reach through and unbolt that door. When Geo. Schrader came to the office about six o'clock this morning he found the ticket cabinet had been moved about four inches along the counter on which it rested but it was not broken open and nothing was missing. It is very evident that the person or persons had been inside the office but they had not burglarized anything, neither had they taken anything with them.
