A MODEST YOUNG HERO OF THE STAGE.

Appears in "The Volunteer Organist" at the Loomis Monday Evening.

Thackrey says that a man can no more command courage than he can make himself six feet high when nature has only given him five feet and a half. As with courage, so with heroism. It has to be born in a man and when the opportunity arises the hero will be found equal to the occasion. A modest young hero, whose name will soon be known and honored all over the United States is Master Mellor Newman. By hard work accomplished by incessant traveling, he supports his aged mother and his father who some years ago was stricken blind.

Nature was very kind to young Mellor Newman in giving him a soprano voice of wonderful sweetness and power and of extraordinary compass Mellor supplemented nature's gift by study and constant practice until although only fourteen years of age at the time, he became recognized in St. Louis, his native city and the home of his parents, as the greatest boy singer of the West. He was the principal soloist of Grace church in that city and his appearance in the choir was always a signal for a church crowded to the doors.

Young Newman's heroism is shown by the fact that unlike most other boys that are petted and fetted, he is not spoiled by adulation and honors and loves his parents. Regularly as each Monday comes round in St. Louis so also comes a letter to the dear mother and blind father containing the major part of the boy's weekly salary. Newman's ambition is to earn and save enough money to purchase a home for his parents and those who know the boy are satisfied that he will realize his ambition. Master man has other tastes besides that of music. He is a very fine base ball player and were he not a professional singer, it is more than probable that he would become a professional base ball player. He has been engaged by Mr. W. W. Newcomer as the principal soloist in W. B. Gray's pastoral drama "The Volunteer Organist" for a season of forty-two weeks. Young Newman is wise enough to know that boy's voices change at some time or other, so while still appearing in public he is earnestly studying for the ministry. Will appear at Loomis opera house next Monday evening, January 23.

PRaise FOR MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Scranton—Rev. Dr. H. E. Tuckley, who recently turned over the $200 increase in his salary to the poor, has come to the defense of the mother-in-law, by preaching a sermon at the Asbury Methodist church extolling that lady's good qualities.

He declared that almost everything that had been said in praise of a mother is applicable to the mother-in-law, and while she had been a target for abuse and ridicule, often she is the means of blessing to all in the household.

DYNAMITE IN THE COAL.

Stove Blown up and Woman May Die From Injuries.

Scranton—Dynamite which some unknown person had placed in the coal bin of John Beight of South Scranton has nearly resulted in the death of his wife and the complete wrecking of his home.

When Mrs. Beight put a pall of coal on the fire in her kitchen stove this morning there was a sharp explosion that scattered the coal and blew the stove to pieces. Mrs. Beight was injured by flying pieces of iron and part of the house was destroyed.

Want Old Law Repealed.

Wilkes-Barre—Backed by the indorsement of nearly every merchant of Luzerne, Lackawanna and Clearfield counties, Senator Catlin of this city will endeavor to have the legislature repeal the mercantile tax that has caused merchants of the three counties to pay an annual tax of $1.50. Not until a few years ago did this money go to the counties, and before that time it went into the pockets of the county treasurers. The act is a relic of special legislation.

Rejected Suitor Accused of Arson.

Wilkes-Barre—Zegman Brobsky of Nanticoke, a rejected suitor of Mrs. Pauline Norwick, of that place, was lodged in jail yesterday on the charge of arson, being unable to furnish bail. It is alleged that he has several times set fire to her store and house in revenge.

"OR MONEY CHEERFULLY REFUNDED"

By S. E. KIBER

"You say in your advertisement, said the man who had laid a package on the counter, 'that you guarantee satisfaction or money cheerfully refunded.'"

"What's the matter?" asked the head of the department, as a frown overpread his face.

"Come, now, you're not looking a bit cheerful. I bought a shirt here day before yesterday, and I find that it is not satisfactory. I was told—"

"You will have to see the clerk who sold you the shirt."

"Will he refund the money?" "If he wishes to do so, he can."

"Ah, over there he is. Here, my friend, do you remember selling this shirt day before yesterday? You told me it was—"

"I don't think I sold you the shirt. I never saw you before."

"Yes, you did. You sold me this shirt and guaranteed that it—"

"No; you are mistaken. I never guarantee anything."

"You don't, eh? Well, you advertise that you guarantee satisfaction or money cheerfully refunded. Here, look at this paper. This is your 'ad,' isn't it?"

"This is to-day's paper. It hasn't anything to do with day before yesterday."

"Where's the proprietor of this store?"

"You'll find him back in the office."

After he had waited around for nearly an hour the man with the shirt succeeded in intercepting the proprietor as he was trying to slip out to luncheon.

"You advertise that the money is cheerfully returned when the goods you sell are not satisfactory."

"I must ask you to talk to the clerk you bought the goods from. I don't know anything about this matter."

"I have talked to the clerk, and he says you are the only one who cheerfully returns money. This shirt—"

"You will have to excuse me. I'm in a hurry. Go to the clerk."

"I'm in a hurry, too. I've wasted a lot of valuable time here now, and I want to get this matter straightened out. The clerk says he doesn't do the guaranteeing and can't therefore, cheerfully refund. The head of the department looked unhappy when I asked him if he would cheerfully refund, and now I find that you are not inclined to be cheerful when I ask you to return my money."

"You are insulting, sir. I don't wish to have any further argument with you. Mr. Walker, will you please step this way? Did you sell this man a shirt?"

"I don't remember him at all."

"Here," said the man who wanted his money cheerfully refunded, as he tore the wrapper from the shirt, "you can see that this came from your stock, can't you?"

"Well, what's the matter with it, anyway?" asked the proprietor.

"It isn't satisfactory, that's all. You advertise that you cheerfully refund money when goods are not satisfactory. Why should it be necessary to have all this argument? The shirt is not satisfactory. I want my money back. Now, will you cheerfully return it?"

"Take this order to the cashier," said the proprietor as he permitted a look of disgust that was not unmingled with anger to overpread his countenance, "and your dollar and a half will be returned to you."

"But are you cheerful? I don't want the money unless you can be cheerful when you return it. I could wear the shirt, if necessary, you know. Still, I thought that if it would make you cheerful to return the money because the goods you sold me did not give satisfaction, I ought to—"

"Say, are you crazy?" "No, I am an altruist. I believe in spreading cheer wherever I may. When I read your advertisement I came here and purposely bought a shirt that was two sizes too large for me, so that I might bring it back and give you a chance to cheerfully return my money. I think every man owes it to his fellow men to make them cheerful whenever and however he may. I see that you are not inclined to be cheerful, and I am sorry. I will, therefore, keep the shirt and bid you good-day."

"That man ought to be looked after by the police," said the head of the shirt department.

"He's as mad as a March hare," said Mr. Walker, the clerk.

"I believe," mused the proprietor, "I'll take that word 'cheerfully' out of my advertisement. There's no knowing what that crank's next idea may be."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Be willing to do your best to-day. There is no time like the present.

Saloon Men to Fight Back.

Pottsville—The Schuykill liquor interests will bring prosecution against some of the agents of the Law and Order Society who have testified against certain saloon men at license court. Perjury and conspiracy are the main charges to be brought. The lifting of licenses in cases where no recommittees were filed is well under way.

Two Years for Manslaughter.

Wilkes-Barre—Hugh Harrison of Midvale, who was placed on trial yesterday for the murder of Walter Tousek, pleaded guilty to manslaughter after four jurors had been selected and the District Attorney accepted the plea. Judge Halsey sentenced him to two years in the penitentiary. The shooting of Tousek occurred after a free fight in a saloon and Harrison claimed it was done in self-defense.

A Fire Fighter's Astounding Story OF THE UNPARALLELED MERITS OF "BLOODINE"

HARRY A. GLAZIER A Prominent Fireman of Hazleton, Pa. writes: Mar. 28th, 1906. Last winter I had a severe cold and it settled on my kidneys, causing the most excruciating pain almost every time I attempted to move; I had tried everything imaginable to get relief, with no success, until I was advised to try "Bloodine" which to my great surprise gave me relief almost from the first dose, and before I had taken one bottle I was completely cured. "Bloodine" is a wonderful, vitalizing tonic. If the blood is impure, complexion bad, appetite lost, strength gone, and the whole system is upset by an accumulation of humors, it is time to try "Bloodine" today.

Signs of Danger. Backache, dizziness and headache, "specks before the eyes," irregular heart action and liver trouble. The severity of the early symptoms depending upon the amount of poisons which the kidneys have allowed to remain in the system.

SYMPTOMS.

Aching Pain Over Ribs, Backache, Sediment of Deposit in Urine, Irritation of the Bladder, Pain in Urinating, Rheumatism (uric acid in blood), Sudden Stoppage of Urine, Urinary Colic or Milky White Urine, Pains Blood or Mucus in Urine, Retention of Urine, Straining After Urinating, Shock or Stinging Urine, Stone in the Bladder, Cystitis (Inflammation of Bladder), Catarrh of Bladder or Bowels, Puffiness Under Eyes, Voracious Appetite, Thirst, Gali Stone, Gravel, Pain in Urthra, Swollen Aniles, Dimmed Vision, Speeches Before the Eyes, Scanty Urine, Frequent Calls, Mouth Dry, Billiousness, Drizzling, Lumbago, Weakness, Loss of Flesh, Irregular Heart Action, Ulceration of the Bladder, Skin Pals, Waxy and Dry, Bad Odor of Excretion.

SIMPLE TEST FOR KIDNEY DISEASE.

Fill a bottle with urine; let it stand for twelve hours; if there is a sediment or cloudiness of any kind you have kidney or bladder trouble, and you should commence taking "Bloodine" today. Don't wait until the disease is too far advanced.

Bloodine costs you a bottle for the usual $1.00 size. Mail orders filled. Large sample bottle by mail 50c.
