

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF SAYRE CAPITAL AND SURPLUS $80,000.00 GENERAL BANKING Three Per Cent Interest Paid on Time Deposits. DIRECTORS: R. P. Wilbur, J. N. Weaver, W. A. Wilbur, J. W. Bishop, J. E. Wheelock, W. T. Goodnow, O. L. Haverly, Seward Baldwin, F. T. Page, R. F. Page, Cashier.

AN INSURANCE POLICY FOR A SMALL PRESENT. It has many points in its favor that no other present can approach. There can be no doubt of its acceptability, and if you would learn exactly what such a gift means and how it can be obtained, send your name, age, and address to us. We are agents for Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., a company of irreproachable standing. FRED J. TAYLOR, Sayre, Pa.

J. W. BISHOP, The constant repetition of delivering good coal has given us our reputation. We handle Lehigh Valley and Seafair Coal, Hard and Soft Wood and Steam Coal. 103 Lehigh Ave., Lockhart Building, Both Phones.

COAL QUALITY, QUANTITY, PRICE. If you buy from COLEMAN HASSLER, No. 116 Erie St., Sayre. You get the three. Ask your neighbors. Both Phones.

ELMER A. WILBER, Wholesaler of Wines, Beer and Ales. OUR SPECIALTIES: LEHIGH CLUB WHISKEY, DOTTER-WICH BEER AND ALES, NOB-WICH BREWING CO'S. ALES. 109 Packer Avenue, Sayre, Pa. Both Phones.

Hill & Beibach's CAFE For the Finest Beers, Ales, Wines and Cigars in the Valley. Lockhart Street, Sayre.

YOU need something to build you up, to insure a healthy appetite and to bring refreshing sleep. Then why not try Stegmair's Malt Extract. It is a delicious food beverage for those who are "run down" or mentally and physically fatigued. Ask your physician about our Malt Extract, then try it. If your druggist does not keep it, order direct from us. "1909 for mine." STEGMAIER BREWING CO., SAYRE, PA.

Weather Probabilities. Fair and warmer, with light winds.

BROWNSVILLE CASE

Warner Accused of Unfairness at Senate Hearing.

PRESSED NEGRO SOLDIER TOO HARD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Many witnesses were examined in the Brownsville shooting inquiry before the senate committee on military affairs. All were members of Company D of the discharged battalion of negro soldiers except the last on the stand, former Sergeant Luther T. Thornton of Company B.

He testified that when aroused by the firing on the night of Aug. 13 he was under the impression that the barracks were being fired upon by people of the town and that a similar opinion was expressed by some other members of his company. He said the reports of firearms sounded to him like revolvers and shotguns.

He told of the call to arms and of the inspections of hearing that Company C's gun racks had been broken and of his understanding that these had been broken open upon orders of Lieutenant Greer of Company C, because the noncommissioned officer having the keys could not be found.

He was cross examined sharply about the possibility of a soldier getting out of the reservation in the night without being detected and said this could be done, but he did not think the man could get his arms and get out.

It was pointed out that the men already had ammunition, and the witness replied that this ammunition had to be accounted for at inspections, and if any were used the loss would be discovered. He said he had not heard that bullets from army ammunition had been found in the town until after the arrival of Major Blockson to make an inspection for the war department.

Sergeant Fraser was recalled and corrected his previous testimony by saying that he had surrendered his ammunition at Fort Reno instead of at Fort Brown. He said he had noticed his error in a newspaper report of the proceedings. Senator Warner pressed the witness closely as to the paper which carried the report, and Senator Scott, acting chairman, declared that Senator Warner was unfair. Senator Warner replied that he was not prepared to make a lecture, especially an unjust lecture, and there followed a general discussion as to the manner of examining witnesses. It was generally agreed that the senators should proceed as they pleased.

The next witness called for by Senator Foraker was Winter Washington and Senator Overman asked if he had said Booker Washington, "No," said Mr. Foraker. "Booker Washington is too busy attending to his senatorial duties to come here." He referred to the interest of Booker T. Washington in the question of having a negro appointed to a federal position in Ohio, patronage which had been regarded as belonging to the senators from Ohio.

Washington was a member of Company D, and his story was not unlike those told by his former comrades. His idea of the Brownsville affair, however, was that "Mexican greasers" and "Texas cowboys" had done the shooting in order to make trouble for the negro soldiers.

Shaw Calls Bureau a Sweet Shop. WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—In a letter to Speaker Cannon, Secretary Shaw says of the bureau of engraving and printing: "I doubt if a worse sweat shop exists on the earth than the factory in which the government manufactures its money, its bonds, its internal revenue and postage stamps. The condition of the employees, especially in summer, is well nigh unbearable, and every consideration pleads for improvement." The house committee on buildings and grounds will conduct a hearing today on a bill providing for a new building to accommodate this bureau.

Hughes Doing Good Work. ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 7.—The state commission of gas and electricity has notified all the companies in the state outside the city of New York supplying either coal gas, water gas or mixed coal and water gas that the commission is about to fix and establish a standard of illuminating power and purity and that a hearing upon the proposed order will be given at the capitol on Feb. 21, 1907, at 10 a. m. Each company will have an opportunity to be heard at that time. This affects some eighty-five companies.

To Bridge Hudson at New York. ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 7.—That the construction of one or more bridges across the Hudson river between New York and New Jersey is feasible from an engineering standpoint and that the cost of one of these structures would be not less than $25,000,000 and might easily reach $35,000,000 are the principal conclusions of the New York interstate bridge commission in its report to the legislature.

Lacked Jailers in Raleigh. RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 7.—Calston and Rhodes, inmates of the Tyrrell county jail at Columbus, escaped from the jail when their dinner was brought to them. The two prisoners seized the jailer as he entered their cell, shoved him into a corner, stepped outside the cell, locked the door and walked away without attracting attention. They are still at liberty.

Weather Probabilities. Fair and warmer, with light winds.

Congressman Favor Indicted. BOSTON, Feb. 7.—Congressman Favor has been indicted for killing Dr. Adrick here.

Hibbard Has Little Hope For Higgins. OLEAN, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Hibbard made an early call on Mr. Higgins and said that while the former governor is not so well his condition is no more critical than on Wednesday. "While Mr. Higgins' condition may vary from day to day," said Dr. Hibbard, "I consider him to be hopelessly ill."

Motor Boat Regatta. MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7.—Four events marked Miami's first annual regatta. The feature was the four knot event for J. Schroeder's motor boat. The mile: J. Schroeder's fastest mile was 2 minutes 21 1/5 seconds with the tide and 2 minutes 22 2/5 seconds against the tide, making the rate per hour on the average mile of 29.23 statute miles. This is slightly slower than her record at the Lake Worth regatta.

HER LIFE STORY

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw Moves Court to Tears.

PATHTIC TESTIMONY BY WIFE

Stanford White Caused Her Ruin at Sixteen.

LOVING THAW, REFUSED TO WED HIM

Climax of Madison Square Roof Garden Tragedy—Actress and Former Artist Model, Wife of Accused, on Stand Calmly, Through Tears, Tells of Early Poverty and Story of Being Drugged and Wronged by Stanford White, Rich and Noted Architect and a Married Man, After Deep Laid and Elaborate Plans and Schemes Devising the Girl of Her Natural Protector, Her Mother, Who Was Sent to Pittsburgh by Man Slain by Thaw on a Pretense of Sending Her on Visit to Friends, Saying: "I Will Look After Her"—Then Came the Story of Greatest Wrong That Can Be Done a Woman.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the beautiful young wife of Harry K. Thaw, laid bare in the criminal branch of the supreme court here the story of her life, the recital of which is expected by the defense to convince the jury that her husband was justified when he shot down Stanford White, the famous architect and the man who, she declared, first drugged and then ruined her and for whose murder young Thaw is on trial.

As the former chorus girl answered readily the questions put to her by Delphin M. Delmas, chief counsel for the prisoner, every one in the courtroom leaned eagerly forward, so as not to miss a word that dropped from her lips. The pitiful story she told moved every one in the room. Men wiped the tears from their eyes, while the morbid women who had come to hear the revolting testimony sobbed aloud. It was one of the most dramatic recitals ever heard in any court.

The girl's wife of the prisoner was in the witness chair practically all day. To save the life of her husband she had to tell the world the innermost secrets of her soul, for the portrayal of which a sanctuary was a more fitting place than the crowded, gaping courtroom. It was the same story she told Harry Thaw in Paris in 1903 when he had asked her to become his wife—the confession of one who felt there was an insurmountable barrier to her ever becoming the bride of the man she loved.

The big witness chair she appeared to be a slip of a girl, and she told the pitiful story of her early young life in a frank, girlish way. When tears came unbidden to her big brown eyes and slowly trickled their way down scarlet cheeks she strove in vain to keep them back. Though emotion at times seemed about to smother her, she forced the words from trembling lips, and by a marvelous display of courage which took her willingly to her staggering ordeal she shook off a depression which once threatened to become an absolute collapse.

As the young wife unfolded the narrative of her girlhood and told the early struggles of herself and her mother to keep body and soul together, of how gaunt poverty stood ever at the door and how she finally was able to earn a livelihood by posing for photographers and artists, she won the unreserved sympathy of the throng which filled every available space in the big courtroom.

Then came the relation of the wreck of that girlhood at sixteen years of age. It was the story of her meeting with Stanford White, the court-room sumptuous studio apartment whose dainty exterior gave no hint of the luxurious furnishings within, of a velvet covered swing in which one could swing until slippers tumbled crashed through the paper of a Japanese parasol swung from the ceiling, the whirling sensation and of mirrored bedroom walls. In short, she told all the story.

"Don't scream so. It is all over. It is all right." "And this was Stanford White?" The question came from Delphin M. Delmas, now conducting the defense of Harry Thaw.

"Yes, sir." The stillness of the crowd, which was big, bustling, shoving and snarling over some especially coveted seats, when court convened, was its own tribute to the effect of the girl's story. Into the narrative there entered nothing of the woman of the world. A girl in face and figure, Mrs. Thaw was still a girl as she withstood an ordeal which might well have started into terror a woman of mature years and harsher experiences than hers. Into the narrative she injected many little touches of a young girl's hopes and disappointments. Of her early life she related how her mother had gone from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia to secure assistance and how she and her brother Howard—the brother has been in court many days, but not once has gone near his sister—were placed on a train by friends and sent on to their mother.

Hold For Robbery at Lawrence. LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 7.—Edward Gosse, a young man who claims to have been employed in the diplomatic service of an old world country, is held on a charge of assault and robbery and also on a charge of attempted robbery. Gosse pleaded guilty to the charge of attempted robbery. Gosse entered the store of George G. Frederick at Methuen and held Frederick at bay at the point of a revolver while he rifled the cash drawer. Later Gosse met Carroll Frisbee in a street in Methuen and attempted to rob him, but did not succeed.

Her Remains Taken to England. OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—The remains of Lady Victoria Grenfell, daughter of Lord and Lady Grey, who died at Government House here, were taken to St. John, N. B., by special train. At St. John the body was conveyed by the steamer Empress of Britain, which sails today, for Liverpool in England. Service will be held in Canada simultaneously with the service in England.

Life Sentence For Mother and Son. GAINESVILLE, Ga., Feb. 7.—After long deliberation the jury returned a verdict finding Mrs. Sue Brooks guilty of being an accessory to the murder of Jack Collins, former courthouse janitor, here. The sentence of son, Foster Brooks, who was convicted of the same crime about two weeks ago, was also given a sentence of life imprisonment.

Hibbard Has Little Hope For Higgins. OLEAN, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Hibbard made an early call on Mr. Higgins and said that while the former governor is not so well his condition is no more critical than on Wednesday. "While Mr. Higgins' condition may vary from day to day," said Dr. Hibbard, "I consider him to be hopelessly ill."

Congressman Favor Indicted. BOSTON, Feb. 7.—Congressman Favor has been indicted for killing Dr. Adrick here.

Weather Probabilities. Fair and warmer, with light winds.

HER LIFE STORY

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw Moves Court to Tears.

PATHTIC TESTIMONY BY WIFE

Stanford White Caused Her Ruin at Sixteen.

LOVING THAW, REFUSED TO WED HIM

Climax of Madison Square Roof Garden Tragedy—Actress and Former Artist Model, Wife of Accused, on Stand Calmly, Through Tears, Tells of Early Poverty and Story of Being Drugged and Wronged by Stanford White, Rich and Noted Architect and a Married Man, After Deep Laid and Elaborate Plans and Schemes Devising the Girl of Her Natural Protector, Her Mother, Who Was Sent to Pittsburgh by Man Slain by Thaw on a Pretense of Sending Her on Visit to Friends, Saying: "I Will Look After Her"—Then Came the Story of Greatest Wrong That Can Be Done a Woman.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the beautiful young wife of Harry K. Thaw, laid bare in the criminal branch of the supreme court here the story of her life, the recital of which is expected by the defense to convince the jury that her husband was justified when he shot down Stanford White, the famous architect and the man who, she declared, first drugged and then ruined her and for whose murder young Thaw is on trial.

As the former chorus girl answered readily the questions put to her by Delphin M. Delmas, chief counsel for the prisoner, every one in the courtroom leaned eagerly forward, so as not to miss a word that dropped from her lips. The pitiful story she told moved every one in the room. Men wiped the tears from their eyes, while the morbid women who had come to hear the revolting testimony sobbed aloud. It was one of the most dramatic recitals ever heard in any court.

The girl's wife of the prisoner was in the witness chair practically all day. To save the life of her husband she had to tell the world the innermost secrets of her soul, for the portrayal of which a sanctuary was a more fitting place than the crowded, gaping courtroom. It was the same story she told Harry Thaw in Paris in 1903 when he had asked her to become his wife—the confession of one who felt there was an insurmountable barrier to her ever becoming the bride of the man she loved.

The big witness chair she appeared to be a slip of a girl, and she told the pitiful story of her early young life in a frank, girlish way. When tears came unbidden to her big brown eyes and slowly trickled their way down scarlet cheeks she strove in vain to keep them back. Though emotion at times seemed about to smother her, she forced the words from trembling lips, and by a marvelous display of courage which took her willingly to her staggering ordeal she shook off a depression which once threatened to become an absolute collapse.

As the young wife unfolded the narrative of her girlhood and told the early struggles of herself and her mother to keep body and soul together, of how gaunt poverty stood ever at the door and how she finally was able to earn a livelihood by posing for photographers and artists, she won the unreserved sympathy of the throng which filled every available space in the big courtroom.

Then came the relation of the wreck of that girlhood at sixteen years of age. It was the story of her meeting with Stanford White, the court-room sumptuous studio apartment whose dainty exterior gave no hint of the luxurious furnishings within, of a velvet covered swing in which one could swing until slippers tumbled crashed through the paper of a Japanese parasol swung from the ceiling, the whirling sensation and of mirrored bedroom walls. In short, she told all the story.

"Don't scream so. It is all over. It is all right." "And this was Stanford White?" The question came from Delphin M. Delmas, now conducting the defense of Harry Thaw.

"Yes, sir." The stillness of the crowd, which was big, bustling, shoving and snarling over some especially coveted seats, when court convened, was its own tribute to the effect of the girl's story. Into the narrative there entered nothing of the woman of the world. A girl in face and figure, Mrs. Thaw was still a girl as she withstood an ordeal which might well have started into terror a woman of mature years and harsher experiences than hers. Into the narrative she injected many little touches of a young girl's hopes and disappointments. Of her early life she related how her mother had gone from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia to secure assistance and how she and her brother Howard—the brother has been in court many days, but not once has gone near his sister—were placed on a train by friends and sent on to their mother.

Hold For Robbery at Lawrence. LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 7.—Edward Gosse, a young man who claims to have been employed in the diplomatic service of an old world country, is held on a charge of assault and robbery and also on a charge of attempted robbery. Gosse pleaded guilty to the charge of attempted robbery. Gosse entered the store of George G. Frederick at Methuen and held Frederick at bay at the point of a revolver while he rifled the cash drawer. Later Gosse met Carroll Frisbee in a street in Methuen and attempted to rob him, but did not succeed.

Her Remains Taken to England. OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—The remains of Lady Victoria Grenfell, daughter of Lord and Lady Grey, who died at Government House here, were taken to St. John, N. B., by special train. At St. John the body was conveyed by the steamer Empress of Britain, which sails today, for Liverpool in England.

Life Sentence For Mother and Son. GAINESVILLE, Ga., Feb. 7.—After long deliberation the jury returned a verdict finding Mrs. Sue Brooks guilty of being an accessory to the murder of Jack Collins, former courthouse janitor, here. The sentence of son, Foster Brooks, who was convicted of the same crime about two weeks ago, was also given a sentence of life imprisonment.

Hibbard Has Little Hope For Higgins. OLEAN, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Hibbard made an early call on Mr. Higgins and said that while the former governor is not so well his condition is no more critical than on Wednesday. "While Mr. Higgins' condition may vary from day to day," said Dr. Hibbard, "I consider him to be hopelessly ill."

Congressman Favor Indicted. BOSTON, Feb. 7.—Congressman Favor has been indicted for killing Dr. Adrick here.

Weather Probabilities. Fair and warmer, with light winds.

HER LIFE STORY

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw Moves Court to Tears.

PATHTIC TESTIMONY BY WIFE

Stanford White Caused Her Ruin at Sixteen.

LOVING THAW, REFUSED TO WED HIM

Climax of Madison Square Roof Garden Tragedy—Actress and Former Artist Model, Wife of Accused, on Stand Calmly, Through Tears, Tells of Early Poverty and Story of Being Drugged and Wronged by Stanford White, Rich and Noted Architect and a Married Man, After Deep Laid and Elaborate Plans and Schemes Devising the Girl of Her Natural Protector, Her Mother, Who Was Sent to Pittsburgh by Man Slain by Thaw on a Pretense of Sending Her on Visit to Friends, Saying: "I Will Look After Her"—Then Came the Story of Greatest Wrong That Can Be Done a Woman.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the beautiful young wife of Harry K. Thaw, laid bare in the criminal branch of the supreme court here the story of her life, the recital of which is expected by the defense to convince the jury that her husband was justified when he shot down Stanford White, the famous architect and the man who, she declared, first drugged and then ruined her and for whose murder young Thaw is on trial.

As the former chorus girl answered readily the questions put to her by Delphin M. Delmas, chief counsel for the prisoner, every one in the courtroom leaned eagerly forward, so as not to miss a word that dropped from her lips. The pitiful story she told moved every one in the room. Men wiped the tears from their eyes, while the morbid women who had come to hear the revolting testimony sobbed aloud. It was one of the most dramatic recitals ever heard in any court.

The girl's wife of the prisoner was in the witness chair practically all day. To save the life of her husband she had to tell the world the innermost secrets of her soul, for the portrayal of which a sanctuary was a more fitting place than the crowded, gaping courtroom. It was the same story she told Harry Thaw in Paris in 1903 when he had asked her to become his wife—the confession of one who felt there was an insurmountable barrier to her ever becoming the bride of the man she loved.

The big witness chair she appeared to be a slip of a girl, and she told the pitiful story of her early young life in a frank, girlish way. When tears came unbidden to her big brown eyes and slowly trickled their way down scarlet cheeks she strove in vain to keep them back. Though emotion at times seemed about to smother her, she forced the words from trembling lips, and by a marvelous display of courage which took her willingly to her staggering ordeal she shook off a depression which once threatened to become an absolute collapse.

As the young wife unfolded the narrative of her girlhood and told the early struggles of herself and her mother to keep body and soul together, of how gaunt poverty stood ever at the door and how she finally was able to earn a livelihood by posing for photographers and artists, she won the unreserved sympathy of the throng which filled every available space in the big courtroom.

Then came the relation of the wreck of that girlhood at sixteen years of age. It was the story of her meeting with Stanford White, the court-room sumptuous studio apartment whose dainty exterior gave no hint of the luxurious furnishings within, of a velvet covered swing in which one could swing until slippers tumbled crashed through the paper of a Japanese parasol swung from the ceiling, the whirling sensation and of mirrored bedroom walls. In short, she told all the story.

"Don't scream so. It is all over. It is all right." "And this was Stanford White?" The question came from Delphin M. Delmas, now conducting the defense of Harry Thaw.

"Yes, sir." The stillness of the crowd, which was big, bustling, shoving and snarling over some especially coveted seats, when court convened, was its own tribute to the effect of the girl's story. Into the narrative there entered nothing of the woman of the world. A girl in face and figure, Mrs. Thaw was still a girl as she withstood an ordeal which might well have started into terror a woman of mature years and harsher experiences than hers. Into the narrative she injected many little touches of a young girl's hopes and disappointments. Of her early life she related how her mother had gone from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia to secure assistance and how she and her brother Howard—the brother has been in court many days, but not once has gone near his sister—were placed on a train by friends and sent on to their mother.

Hold For Robbery at Lawrence. LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 7.—Edward Gosse, a young man who claims to have been employed in the diplomatic service of an old world country, is held on a charge of assault and robbery and also on a charge of attempted robbery. Gosse pleaded guilty to the charge of attempted robbery. Gosse entered the store of George G. Frederick at Methuen and held Frederick at bay at the point of a revolver while he rifled the cash drawer. Later Gosse met Carroll Frisbee in a street in Methuen and attempted to rob him, but did not succeed.

Her Remains Taken to England. OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—The remains of Lady Victoria Grenfell, daughter of Lord and Lady Grey, who died at Government House here, were taken to St. John, N. B., by special train. At St. John the body was conveyed by the steamer Empress of Britain, which sails today, for Liverpool in England.

Life Sentence For Mother and Son. GAINESVILLE, Ga., Feb. 7.—After long deliberation the jury returned a verdict finding Mrs. Sue Brooks guilty of being an accessory to the murder of Jack Collins, former courthouse janitor, here. The sentence of son, Foster Brooks, who was convicted of the same crime about two weeks ago, was also given a sentence of life imprisonment.

Hibbard Has Little Hope For Higgins. OLEAN, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Hibbard made an early call on Mr. Higgins and said that while the former governor is not so well his condition is no more critical than on Wednesday. "While Mr. Higgins' condition may vary from day to day," said Dr. Hibbard, "I consider him to be hopelessly ill."

Congressman Favor Indicted. BOSTON, Feb. 7.—Congressman Favor has been indicted for killing Dr. Adrick here.

Weather Probabilities. Fair and warmer, with light winds.

HER LIFE STORY

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw Moves Court to Tears.

PATHTIC TESTIMONY BY WIFE

Stanford White Caused Her Ruin at Sixteen.

LOVING THAW, REFUSED TO WED HIM

Climax of Madison Square Roof Garden Tragedy—Actress and Former Artist Model, Wife of Accused, on Stand Calmly, Through Tears, Tells of Early Poverty and Story of Being Drugged and Wronged by Stanford White, Rich and Noted Architect and a Married Man, After Deep Laid and Elaborate Plans and Schemes Devising the Girl of Her Natural Protector, Her Mother, Who Was Sent to Pittsburgh by Man Slain by Thaw on a Pretense of Sending Her on Visit to Friends, Saying: "I Will Look After Her"—Then Came the Story of Greatest Wrong That Can Be Done a Woman.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the beautiful young wife of Harry K. Thaw, laid bare in the criminal branch of the supreme court here the story of her life, the recital of which is expected by the defense to convince the jury that her husband was justified when he shot down Stanford White, the famous architect and the man who, she declared, first drugged and then ruined her and for whose murder young Thaw is on trial.

As the former chorus girl answered readily the questions put to her by Delphin M. Delmas, chief counsel for the prisoner, every one in the courtroom leaned eagerly forward, so as not to miss a word that dropped from her lips. The pitiful story she told moved every one in the room. Men wiped the tears from their eyes, while the morbid women who had come to hear the revolting testimony sobbed aloud. It was one of the most dramatic recitals ever heard in any court.

The girl's wife of the prisoner was in the witness chair practically all day. To save the life of her husband she had to tell the world the innermost secrets of her soul, for the portrayal of which a sanctuary was a more fitting place than the crowded, gaping courtroom. It was the same story she told Harry Thaw in Paris in 1903 when he had asked her to become his wife—the confession of one who felt there was an insurmountable barrier to her ever becoming the bride of the man she loved.

The big witness chair she appeared to be a slip of a girl, and she told the pitiful story of her early young life in a frank, girlish way. When tears came unbidden to her big brown eyes and slowly trickled their way down scarlet cheeks she strove in vain to keep them back. Though emotion at times seemed about to smother her, she forced the words from trembling lips, and by a marvelous display of courage which took her willingly to her staggering ordeal she shook off a depression which once threatened to become an absolute collapse.

As the young wife unfolded the narrative of her girlhood and told the early struggles of herself and her mother to keep body and soul together, of how gaunt poverty stood ever at the door and how she finally was able to earn a livelihood by posing for photographers and artists, she won the unreserved sympathy of the throng which filled every available space in the big courtroom.

Then came the relation of the wreck of that girlhood at sixteen years of age. It was the story of her meeting with Stanford White, the court-room sumptuous studio apartment whose dainty exterior gave no hint of the luxurious furnishings within, of a velvet covered swing in which one could swing until slippers tumbled crashed through the paper of a Japanese parasol swung from the ceiling, the whirling sensation and of mirrored bedroom walls. In short, she told all the story.

"Don't scream so. It is all over. It is all right." "And this was Stanford White?" The question came from Delphin M. Delmas, now conducting the defense of Harry Thaw.

"Yes, sir." The stillness of the crowd, which was big, bustling, shoving and snarling over some especially coveted seats, when court convened, was its own tribute to the effect of the girl's story. Into the narrative there entered nothing of the woman of the world. A girl in face and figure, Mrs. Thaw was still a girl as she withstood an ordeal which might well have started into terror a woman of mature years and harsher experiences than hers. Into the narrative she injected many little touches of a young girl's hopes and disappointments. Of her early life she related how her mother had gone from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia to secure assistance and how she and her brother Howard—the brother has been in court many days, but not once has gone near his sister—were placed on a train by friends and sent on to their mother.

Hold For Robbery at Lawrence. LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 7.—Edward Gosse, a young man who claims to have been employed in the diplomatic service of an old world country, is held on a charge of assault and robbery and also on a charge of attempted robbery. Gosse pleaded guilty to the charge of attempted robbery. Gosse entered the store of George G. Frederick at Methuen and held Frederick at bay at the point of a revolver while he rifled the cash drawer. Later Gosse met Carroll Frisbee in a street in Methuen and attempted to rob him, but did not succeed.

Her Remains Taken to England. OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—The remains of Lady Victoria Grenfell, daughter of Lord and Lady Grey, who died at Government House here, were taken to St. John, N. B., by special train. At St. John the body was conveyed by the steamer Empress of Britain, which sails today, for Liverpool in England.

Life Sentence For Mother and Son. GAINESVILLE, Ga., Feb. 7.—After long deliberation the jury returned a verdict finding Mrs. Sue Brooks guilty of being an accessory to the murder of Jack Collins, former courthouse janitor, here. The sentence of son, Foster Brooks, who was convicted of the same crime about two weeks ago, was also given a sentence of life imprisonment.

Hibbard Has Little Hope For Higgins. OLEAN, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Hibbard made an early call on Mr. Higgins and said that while the former governor is not so well his condition is no more critical than on Wednesday. "While Mr. Higgins' condition may vary from day to day," said Dr. Hibbard, "I consider him to be hopelessly ill."

Congressman Favor Indicted. BOSTON, Feb. 7.—Congressman Favor has been indicted for killing Dr. Adrick here.

Weather Probabilities. Fair and warmer, with light winds.

MRS. EVELYN NESBIT THAW.

Snappy Saturday Specials

Child's Union Suits. All size, worth up to 50c. Last call of the year, Saturday and Monday, 25c.

White India Linen. One case fine, sheer quality at 12 1/2c. We own these at the old prices and invite your attention to this quality. Special 12 1/2c.

New White Materials. Pretty, sheer creations, and at the usual Globe Warehouse low prices.

New Shrunken Waists. Double fold, linen finish, worth 15c. Saturday special 11c.

Skirt Week. We invite your attention to our display of Black Skirts, Peach Bloom and Heather Bloom, from $1.50 up. Morries, Satens, Italian Cloth, etc., etc., from 75c up. Note the styles, workmanship, fitted yokes, earmarks of excellence that distinguish them from the sweatshop product.

New Embroideries. Our stock this season is much larger than last. Shall be glad to show you through at any time. Sets to match in shadow, solid, eyelet, baby Irish, etc., done on Swiss muslin, socks, cabrics and India linen.

Muslin Specials. 24c 9-4 Brown, excellent weight, 24c. 36 inch Brown, worth 7c today Special 5 1/2c. 36 inch Bleached, worth 10c today. Special 8 1/2c. 36 inch Bleached, worth 12 1/2c today. Special 10 1/2c. 36 inch Bleached Lonsdale, worth 11c today. Special 9c.

Bed Spread Special. $1.25 White Spread, full double bed size, 95c.

Globe Warehouse. Talmadge Block, Elmer Avenue. Valley Phone.

THE ORIGINAL LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP. For all Coughs and asthma in expelling Colds from the system by gently moving the bowels. Cures Croup and Whooping Cough. Nearly all other cough cures are essentially irritating, especially those containing Opium. Kennedy's Laxative Honey & Tar moves the bowels, contains no Opium.

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE HONEY AND TAR. PREPARED AT THE LABORATORY OF S. D. DOWITT & CO., CHICAGO, U. S. A.

Files! Files! Files! Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Eczema, Bleeding, Ulcerated and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared for Files and Itching of the private parts. Every box guaranteed. Sold by druggists, by mail, for 50c and $1.00. Williams Mfg. Co., Cleveland, O. For sale by C. I. Driggs, druggist.

There is no nook nor corner in Sayre, Waverly or Athens where The Valley Record does not circulate.