FIREMEN QUICKLY SUBDUE BLAZE.

House of Edward Dunley Damage By Fire This Morning-Prompt Work Prevents Greater Loss.

Edward Dunley located on Howard street to the east of Spalding street caught fire. The alarm was sent in from box No. 43 at the corner of Howard and Spaulding streets and in almost no time the various companies had the apparatus out of the hose ouse and were hurrying toward the cene of the blaze. The hook and ladder company arrived first, while the Tioga were seeond and got first waer. The Spauldings were close behind however and soon both the hose companies had streams playing on the

The house had caught from the kitchen stove, and when the firemen arrived which was less than five minites after the alram first sounded the fire was coming out through the roof of the kitchen and speading rapidly. They soon had it out, however and it was less than three quarters of an hour after the fire was discovered that the companies were all back to their rooms.

The back part of the house was

Waverly-That action of the yillage in taking steps to prevent the cutting of ice on the reservoir is being no ticed in other parts of the country is evidenced by the following editoral that appeared in a recent issue of the Scranton Republican. Scranton has for some time past been suffering from an epidemic of typhoid fever which is supposed to be due in some measure to the fact that the water supply of the city is not as pure as should be Aggressive Work for Pure Water. The town of Waverly, N. Y., does not propose to take any chances. It has therefore gone to the court of appeals of the state, to restrain the water company from cutting ice on the reservoir, on the ground that the wa ter may be polluted.

This battle has been going on for ome time, and the result has been residents of the place. If as much care had been taken in every city and town as is being observed in Waverly regarding the purity of the water supply there would be no such grim rec ord as that which is counted up against the city of Scranton, and other places throughout the state today When the public demands that as much precaution be exercised in the care of a big reservoir as is observed in the home with fastidious cleaning of glasses and cup used for drinking typhoid will be eliminated from the heavy bill of expenses."

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw Tells of White's Schemes.

Defense Scored When Girl Related Mow Slain Apehitect Had Dogged Her Footsteps After Marriage to Young Pittsburger.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.-Evelyn Nesbit Thaw again was the central figure at her husband's trial. She was still on the stand, her direct examination unfinished, when the usual week end adjournment until Monday morning was

Picking up the threads of her life's story where she had dropped them, the girl wife of the defendant-always she declared, telling her story just as time to time-brought the narrative down to her wedding in Pittsburg on April 4, 1905, and their return to New York following a honeymoon trip in the west. She declared she had heard White call to her on the street once after this and that on another occasion when she passed him in a cab she no on Fifth avenue. I was in a cab, and he saw me, and I heard him say. 'Evelyn,' just like that." And Mrs. Thaw she had related it to Harry Thaw from raised her voice as if to call some one "I went back to our botel and told Harry, and he said: The dirty blackguard. He had no right to speak to you.' The next time I saw him I was driving to Dr. Delevan's office to have my throat treated. Stanford White was also in the cab. He just stared at me this time and stroked his mussche, I turned into Thirty-third street off Fifth avenue, and as I alighted at the doctor's door I saw Stanford White oming. I rang the bell, and the maid came to the door, and then I got so nervous and flustered I told her I would come back again, and I ran down the steps, got into the cab and frove to the hotel, where I told Harry what had happened. He got very excited and bit his nails."

These were the two instances Mrs Thaw said, that she told her husband that Stanford White "bad approached or attempted to speak" to her.

The day began with a continuance of the reading of the letters from Harry Thaw to Mr. Longfellow, written after Evelyn Nesbit's revelations o her suitor in Paris. There were others, too, which Thaw had sent the ittorney to deliver to Miss Nesbit. who at the time would not see him Mrs. Thaw followed these with a reation of her experiences with Stanford White and Abraham Hummel concernng the alleged affidavit which she nade charging Harry Thaw with havug taken her from her mother against her will and with gross cruelty. Mrs. her in the direction of a doctor's office. Thaw told how she had been induced to answer some questions about herself and Mr. Thaw at the time and had been told the stories about his "cruel des to girls." Stanford White had told her, she declared, that it was neces sary to take drastic measures to proect her from such a person and that

Harry Thaw must be kept out of New fork. She denied that she had ever igned any papers in Mr. Hummel's office, but said she remembered havng signed some papers for Mr. White "his offices," the contents of which the did not know. When she got rightened about the papers and deanded to see them she said Mr. White took her to Hummel's office. and there they burned a paper which ad her name at the bottom of it. She vas not allowed to see what the paper ontained before it was destroyed. This feature of Mrs. Thaw's story as made amusing at times by her in erjections of the names which Harry Chaw had applied to the lawyer and ir. White's agitated questioning as to vhat she had told Hummel about blm. e declared she had told the lawye othing.

"Well', Mr. White said to me," she ent on, 'there is something wrong omewhere. He has just squeezed a housand dollars out of me, and the Lord only knows how soon he wil squeeze another.' I then remembered saving told Mr. Hummel, when he breatened things about Mr. Thaw bat he had better be careful, for Mr. Thaw knew a lot of terrible things bout Stanford White."

The defense endeavored to get into idence the wills of Harry Thaw and velyn Nesbit Thaw, executed th light of their wedding in Pittsburg. There were so many interlineations dditions and erasures that Justice Fitzgerald held the documents were ot admissible until the changes were proved.

Just what will be the nature of Dis triet Attorney Jerome's cross examination when he takes the witness mere conjecture. It is said he may try n some way to attack her credibility probably as to her ability to remember other things as well as she has the stories she has declared she told Harry Thaw from time to time.
