TYPHOID PATIENT TOOK FRENCH LEAVE

Forsook Bed in Hospital and Walked Nearly to Waverly Clad Only in a Night Robe.

Yesterday morning about 5 o'clock, Morris Meade, a typhoid fever patient who occupied a cot in the men's ward in the Packer hospital, unobserved by the other patients, left his cot, went to a window, carefully opened the same, and leaped to the ground below. With no covering to his feet and clad only in a night robe Meade, despite the fact that the thermometer stood below the zero mark, started for Waverly, he having a brother living in that place. When near the New York state village Meade, who was delirious, was overtaken by a man who noticed that he acted strangely. He stopped Meade and ascertained that he had a brother living in Waverly. Seeing that the man was clad only in a night robe and that he was evidently ill the man hurried Meade to his brother's home. Meade took advantage of a particularly opportune time to leave the hospital. At five o'clock in the morning most of the ward patients, especially those who are convalescing, are asleep, and during the absence of the nurse, it was an easy matter for Meade to leave his cot and escape from the window. It is not believed that the man knew what he was doing when he left the hospital.

He will be succeeded by Pearl Phalen, of Athens. Wells Bennett will act as assistant to Mr. Phalen and will reside in the cemetery house on Keystone avenue. The retirement of Mr. Gray will be regretted by all who have had business with the association. He has given excellent satisfaction both to the members of the association as well as to the public in general. Recently his health has not been very good and he was therefore forced to give up the duties of superintendent which at times are arduous.

WILLIAM ACKLEY SECURED VERDICT AGAINST LEHIGH.

Jury Returned an Award of $2,000 on Saturday Evening.

In the case of William Ackley of Towanda vs. the Lehigh Valley Railroad company, the jury on Saturday evening returned a verdict of $2,000 in favor of Mr. Ackley. This suit was one of three instituted against the company for damages caused through injuries received in an accident at the Washington street station last Spring. A number of men were engaged in unloading a large monument from a flat car when the switching crew threw some cars into the switch and bumped into the car upon which the men were working. George Lafey, William Ackley and William Heeman received injuries, and entered suits. The cases were heard together before arbitrators, and an award of $500 for each plaintiff was made. At December term the case of Lafey was tried, and a verdict of $1,720 given him.

LOST VALUABLE DIAMOND BROOCH.

Honest Motorman Found It, However, and the Gem Was Returned to Its Owner.

While a passenger on one of the big trolley cars yesterday morning Mrs. M. A. Close, wife of M. A. Close of Buffalo, president of the Valley Telephone Company, lost a diamond brooch, valued at $450. Mrs. Close was on her way to church and did not discover her loss until some time after she had left the car.

Andy Morrison was the motorman on the car and when he reached the power house he swept out the vestibule and noticing something sparkling on the floor of the vestibule picked it up. It was the diamond brooch belonging to Mrs. Close, and was returned to her in a short time. Mr. Morrison was handsomely rewarded.

CHARGED BROTHER WITH ASSAULTING HER.

But After He Had Been Arrested She Refused to Appear Against Him.

A Hungarian youth about 20 years old was arrested by Chief Walsh on Saturday afternoon on a charge of assaulting his sister. The latter is married and her beligerent brother has been living at her home. She alleged that on Saturday forenoon her brother slapped her. Justice Nelson issued a warrant charging assault, but after the young man had been taken in custody the sister refused to appear against her brother, and he was released. How like a woman.

Tomorrow's Election.

Councilmen for each ward, school directors, assessors and an auditor are to be chosen at the municipal election to be held in Sayre borough tomorrow. These offices are important ones to the citizens of this borough, and although The Record is not taking sides, at the same time it has no hesitancy in advising voters to cast their ballots for the men best suited to conducting the affairs of the borough. Intelligent, honest, wide-awake officials contribute greatly to the welfare of any municipality. Therefore it is to the interests of the people that care should be exercised in choosing officials. Another thing which The Record wishes to impress upon the minds of the voters is the importance of going to the polls. Get out and vote.

"Playing the Game."

"Playing the Game," the title of Joseph and William W. Jefferson's new vehicle, would perhaps suggest to some that it was melodrama, but while there is real plot, the foundation of the play is a harmless flirtation which develops into many peculiar and laughable complications, and there are really no serious moments in this bright comedy, though a coherent story runs through it all. The comedy is the work of Cleveland Moffett and Hartley Davis and was staged by Will M. Post. It is said some very handsome scenery and properties are shown, the work of Ernest Albert and Edward Seidle, two artists famed for their work. It is claimed that over $12,000 was expended on this production. This comedy in its entirety will be at the Loomis opera house next Monday evening, February 25th.

FAHEY RESOLUTION BACKED BY MACHINE.

Will Use It to Punish Railroads For Not Giving Free Transportation

In legislative circles at Harrisburg it is said that the Fahey resolution to investigate railroads is a Machine measure meant to punish the roads for their refusal to issue free transportation, the loss of which has been so severely felt by Machine politicians. The resolution will lie quiescent until after election, and if the Machine wins at the polls next week, it will be brought out and forced through under orders. As yet, there are no signs that the railroads are being scared over the outcome, and as a matter of fact they are not a bit afraid, for all that an investigating committee can get has already been disclosed by the Interstate Commerce Commission with its clever attorneys. The Dunsmore bill for the creation of a railroad commission, although fought bitterly by the railroads, will become a law. It is said that Governor Stuart favors such a measure and has said so to legislative friends who called on him. The highly paid attorney who attended the meeting of the House Railroad Committee to talk against the Dunsmore bill, it is said, will remain in Harrisburg until the bill is finally disposed of, fighting it at every stage. It is a drastic measure, and to use the language of a prominent Senator, "it might just as well be called an act to take away the charter of the Pennsylvania railroad, for that is about what it amounts to." It is current in legislative halls that a railroad agent with a pocketful of annual passes could kill any railroad bill at this stage of the game.

BLOOD SPILLED AT WEDDING FEAST

Hungarians Palled Off a Real Interesting Event on the East Side Saturday Night.

A Hungarian wedding feast, in which a liberal amount of blood was spilled, was one of the attractions on the East Side on Saturday evening, and one of the participants, Joe Honis, whose name appears frequently on the police records, is nursing a face which his own mother would fail to recognize. It appears that yesterday a young Hungarian couple were united in the bonds of wedlock, and as is the custom a celebration followed the tying of the knot. The young couple went to the home of the bride's parents on the east side at which a crowd of their friends had gathered. Big preparations had been made for the feast. Kegs of liquid that made Milwaukee famous were there in plenty and several jugs of red liquor had also been secured for the occasion. The early hours of the evening passed along rather quietly, and it began to look as if the event would pass off without blood being shed. Along about midnight, however, a party of four Elmira Hungarians who had been invited to the "doings," and who were feeling the effects of the liquid refreshments, created a rumpus by declaring that they could clean house, and do the job right. This assertion started things going, and it was not long before the air was filled with beer bottles, whiskey jugs, chairs, dishes, or anything else that was lying around loose. The Elmira crowd proved to be as good as their word, and in about three minutes after they began to do business they had the entire house to themselves. Joe Honis received a blow from a whiskey jug which cut a great gash in his face from which the blood flowed freely, and another Sayre Hungarian was also injured so badly that the services of a physician were necessary. After the melee was over the Elmira Hungarians were left in undisputed possession of the house while the Sayre foreigners went for the police. When the police arrived, however, the Elmira crowd had decamped. The houses in the vicinity occupied by Hungarians were searched but the men could not be found. Warrants for their arrest were secured and the police made another search, but like the first it was also futile.

TRUE BROTHER, TRUE.

Newspapers So Busy Fighting Other People's Battles That They Forget to Fight Their Own.

"If any class of business men ever had good reason for the formation of a trust with a view of advancing prices the press of this country presents that justification at this time," contends the Chicago Blade, and continues to argue logically as follows: "The white paper alone on which many papers are printed, costs more than is paid by the purchaser for the printed edition. The cost of white paper has been advancing for years, printing ink never cost more than at the present time and wages were never higher; yet the price of the output has been retained. The newspapers of the country in their columns seem to point out everything in the news line pertaining to the formation of trusts in oil, sugar, paper, steel and also every commodity in general use, but they could and should point with great interest to the fact that they are supplying the public with news of the world under a greater expense of production than any time previous while the comparative cost of advertising has not been greatly increased. The newspapers have been in the front rank in the development of American civilization and today they give more to the purchaser for the investment than is possible to receive in any other channel of expenditure. Any thoughtful person, who will carefully consider the increased publication cost of newspapers and the vast amount of information and pleasure the people derive from them at old time prices will agree with us that the postage on them as well as on letters, should be reduced."

GAMEBIRDS ARE STARVING. Quail Are Absolutely Helpless in Deep Snow. The quail, the saucy little bird whose cheerful in the summertime, is gradually disappearing from this section of the United States, despite the determined efforts to propagate them. Thousands are introduced every spring by game associations, which purchase them from the South and Middle West for breeding purposes, but the cold winters under the efforts of the sportsmen. Deep snows, such as visited the East the past week, have undoubtedly killed thousands of the birds and may have entirely exterminated them from the Eastern States. Those that still live owe their lives to some thoughtful and humane individual, who has scattered grain where they could find it. Quail, while the most valued of game birds, because of its domestic habits, is also the most helpless under adverse circumstances. Grouse, turkeys, rabbits, deer and all water fowl are able to take care of themselves under almost any sort of weather conditions, but quail in deep snows are dependent for life on human assistance. As far south as Virginia whole coveys of quail have been known to freeze to death, and farther north severe storms mean their total destruction. For backache use DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills.
