REPUBLICANS NAME PARTY TICKET

Large Outpouring of G. O. P. Men at Caucus Held on Saturday Evening.

Waverly—There was a large outpouring of Republicans last Saturday night to attend the caucus at which the nominations were made for the coming village election. Stone's hall was well filled. Everything passed off in a harmonious manner, there being no contest for the higher offices.

Rumors had been afloat for several days that there would be a contest over the offices of president and trustees, but if anything of the kind had been planned it failed to materialize at the caucus. The meeting was called to order by F. C. Simmons, and A. J. Decker was elected chairman. Fred Simmons and David Decker were chosen secretaries for the meeting, the chair appointed F. A. Bell, E. D. Sebring and Joseph Hanna tellers for the meeting.

For the following offices there was no contest, and the candidates proposed were either elected by a ballot cast by the secretary or by acclamation: President, O. H. Lawrence; three trustees, Dr. L. S. Betowski, Charles S. Brown, Wesley Brougham, Charles Justice, C. O. Hoagland. Village treasurer, Fred Terry, 117, Earnest Whitley, 64. Terry nominated. Assessor, 211 votes were cast. Ransom Fraalick 114, W. L. Watrous 61, William Emerson 36. Tax collector, The Rev. G. A. Briggs nominated G. W. Brooks and in doing so made a very telling speech that went far toward securing Mr. Brooks a place on the ticket. C. Burton Horton, the present incumbent who has the unsurpassed record of having collected every cent of taxes, was also nominated. When the ballots were counted the vote stood, G. W. Brooks 118, C. B. Horton 78. Jefferson Bingham was elected street commissioner, receiving 107 votes. His opponents, Harry Shipman received 89, and Michael Muldoon 12.

On motion duly carried the committee consisting of O. H. Lawrence, Wesley Brougham, Dr. J. F. Tucker, P. L. Lang and G. D. Genung was continued in office.

Formerly Lived in Waverly.

Waverly—Harry P. Wheeler, who died very suddenly at Auburn, dropping dead on the street from an attack of valvular heart trouble last Thursday, formerly resided in Waverly and was very well known here. He worked in the Lehigh shops, but went to Auburn about seven years ago. While living here he married Miss Hattie Ridgeway, who was a resident of this place. His wife and children were on their way to Mobile, Ala. where they intended to spend the winter at the time that he died.

Arrested for Larceny and Discharged

Waverly—A woman named Reagan was arrested by an Erie detective this morning, on the charge of stealing coal. It seems that there was a pile of coal on the ground, and that she went off and picked up a pile full. The officer claimed that she had taken it from a car. She was given a hearing by Justice Hoagland, who when he heard the evidence, discharged the defendant.

STEEL TIES FAILURES.

Pennsylvania Railroad to Discard Them, It Is Held, Because of Wreck

Blame for the wreck of the Pennsylvania Flyer near Johnstown has been placed largely on the new steel ties with which the Pennsylvania Railroad is experimenting in the Pittsburgh section, and the general feeling among railroad men is that this latest method of joining the tracks is soon to be given up as a bad proposition.

Rumor had it that already an order had been issued by the management of the railroad to substitute the old-fashioned wooden ones substituted, but at the offices of the Pennsylvania it was announced that nothing official on the subject had been received from General Manager Atterbury. The break in the cross-ties which led to the derailment of the train are being repaired by the laying of wooden ties, and this gave rise to the supposition that the Pennsylvania intends to refrain in future from using the steel ties which have proved so expensive an experiment.

Reports submitted to the railroad by the committee of engineers sent to investigate the cause of the wreck bear out the assertions that the snapping of the clips which joined the ties and the rail led directly to the spreading of the rails which threw the train over the embankment. Some foreign object, possibly the brake shoe on the tender, got between the flange of the wheel and the lower track. The momentum of the train which was going at a 50-mile rate, formed the substance into a sort of wedge, which clipped off the bolts connecting the ties with the rail as evenly as if they were made of paper and were cut by a pair of shears.

Had a similar wedge been formed at a point where the wooden cross-ties were used the railroad men say the effect would not have been nearly so disastrous, for the reason that the bolts which join them to the tracks are 2 inches longer than those used in the steel ties, and the chances are that they would have been only partly drawn from their sockets and would not have interfered with the running of the train.

About four months ago the steel cross-ties were put on a mile of trackage between Pittsburgh and Johnstown as an experiment. They worked fairly well until the advent of the cold weather, when, with the temperature on several occasions below zero, it was seen they were liable to be snapped by an apparently slight jar. The swaying of the flyer as it rounded a curve near Johnstown caused the flange of the wheels to extend out probably half an inch from the track, thus leaving an opening into which was dropped, presumably, a bolt or a nut from the brake apparatus. This was carried along by the train, and each time it struck one of the clips of the steel ties, which joined them with the track, they snapped easily, and thus allowed the rails to spread apart.

HOSPITAL FOR INEBRIATES.

Representative Hitchcock of Tioga Fathers the Bill. Representative Hitchcock of Tioga county, has introduced a bill in the for the construction of a State institution for treatment of inebriates and giving the governor power to appoint a commission of five persons to handle the job. The measure recites that "inebriety is the direct cause in a large percentage of our citizenship of mental deterioration, which manifests itself in disease, insanity, pauperism and crime," resulting in great expense to the state. In another section of the measure it is recited that "inebriety is a condition which, under proper environment, providing for appropriate care and treatment, will in a large proportion of cases result in cure."

Mr. Hitchcock proposes to have the commission of five select a site of 500 acres, accessible by rail from the larger cities, and "well supplied with pure water," and to erect thereon a building or group of buildings for the care and treatment of inebriates from all parts of the state. The State Board of Charities shall prepare the plans for the proposed building, and that the institution shall be in operation within three years.

The bill introduced into the legislature providing that no voter shall have assistance in marking his ballot unless he is blind or physically unable to use a pencil, seems to strike the nail on the head. Such a law would not only shut out the purchasing voters who permit others to mark their ballots for them, but also those who have no desire to learn to read or write. It would be no great loss if the latter were denied the privilege of voting.

CLASSIC DANCE THE LATEST.

This Is Employed by Those Who Seek to Rejuvenate Their Youth.

That there are no longer any old women, has become one of the most popular sayings, with well-supported evidence. Girls marry, become charming young matrons, and for what is seemingly a few years pass through a sea of social admiration, until suddenly a day comes when to their surprise the daughters are of an age to be introduced into their world. Shortly after this function girls usually marry. Quite as suddenly the charming mother becomes a mother-in-law, and before very long finds herself on the grandmother's list. This to all women is a terrible shock. Friends condole and console, but she finds it impossible to realize that years have gathered over her head without her consciousness, and that she can no longer be rated as she has been. It is then that with energetic resistance she fights the visible effects of her years.

It is most interesting to turn from the well-known ways to look other ways and examine a new rejuvenating movement, now in its infancy. It has been adopted by the ultra-fashionable. For that reason it is bound to spread in some directions with good effect. The new fad is classic dancing, known to be the one perfect means of not only keeping the body in health, but of infusing grace and charm to every movement.

No woman is deriving so much benefit from it as the woman of 50 and upward. The many ailments that her sedentary life has encouraged are by this means banished. A perfect circulation is restored, vigor ensues, her fine spirits return, she regains her old-time elasticity her enthusiasms while her interests is revived in everything about her. Her complexion soon bears testimony by the color of cheek and lip and the brightness of her eyes, the gloss and healthiness of her hair.

All this improvement has been proved to be the result of two lessons a week from a matresse de danse, one whose intelligence supplies the special dancing movements needed to individual cases and for personal conditions. Here in truth, dowagers in society are finding the rebirth of their waning beauty, the rebirth of a physique which had been suffering from routine and inaction, as well as from the pampering processes of excessive ease and good fortune. Now, it is said, they are possessed of the great blessing of good temper and a sane mentality, which in many cases is an endowment never possessed before.

BEER DRINKING IS INCREASING.

Statistics recently compiled show that the German people still drink more beer than the people of any other nation, although the American thirst is increasing. Sweden and Denmark also have a larger beer consumption per capita than the United States. A noted German physician has recently written a book dealing with the manufacture and drinking of the national beverage, in which he points out that the countries which consume the most beer are also the healthiest. In his conclusions he asserts that regular beer drinking is distinctly beneficial to human health.

That Americans, in increasing numbers, are coming to a similar viewpoint is shown by the increased consumption of beer in the United States, which in 1906 was upward of 60,000,000 barrels. This was an average of approximately three-quarters of a barrel, or 24 gallons, for each man, woman and child in the country.

In a booklet by Professor J. E. Sibel of Chicago, on "Beer and its Place in Dietetics," the author seeks to prove by chemical analysis and comparisons that beer is not only a healthy and refreshing beverage, but a valuable source of nourishment to the body. A vast majority of medical practitioners now recommend it as a part of the daily diet, he asserts. Drinkers are given to prove that beer drinkers live longer, as a rule, than persons who do not drink beer.

Harry A. Poth, secretary and treasurer of the corporation F. A. Poth & Sons, who controls the model brewery erected by his father, the late Frederick A. Poth, expressed the opinion in a recent interview that an increasingly large class of the population recognize the nourishing qualities of beer. "The popular fallacy that beer is consumed chiefly for its stimulating and narcotic qualities is rapidly disappearing," he said. "Such an opinion has never been held in Germany, where beer has from time immemorial been esteemed a healthful and nourishing beverage. Scientific analysis proves it to contain in generous proportion the substances necessary for replenishing the waste of the body, while the small amount of alcohol—three and a half per cent.—is only mildly stimulating. Even the alcohol in this small percentage, is valuable as a heat and force-producer, being equal to twice its weight in carbohydrates.

"From every viewpoint—the chemical, the physiological and the anatomical—the growing popularity of beer must be attributed to its dietary advantages, and at the same time its general consumption must be indorsed from an economical and utilitarian position."

HIS MOTHER'S TESTIMONY.

Mrs. William Thaw, Dr. Evans and Pittsburgh Physicians Witness.

NEW YORK, March 4.—At least one more dramatic feature of the Thaw trial is foreshadowed in the appearance on the stand of the prisoner's mother, Mrs. William Thaw. It is said to be the programme of the defense to have Mrs. Thaw take the witness chair as did her daughter-in-law.

Mrs. Thaw's testimony, it is said, will be in the line of prenatal influences which made of Harry Thaw the nervous, sleepless, headstrong child described in court by the family physician. This week also Dr. Bingham and Dr. Deemar of Pittsburgh, who attended Harry Thaw when he passed through a severe course of infantile diseases, including St. Vitus' dance, will be put on by the defense. They will follow Dr. Charles Wagner of Pittsburgh.

When the trial opened Dr. Britton D. Evans resumed the stand, and District Attorney Jerome continued his cross examination of the alienist. Lawyer Delmas spent yesterday as the guest of Dr. Evans at Morris Plains, N. J.

Harry Thaw's Sunday in the Tombs was uneventful. He did not attend religious service and had no visitors. His mail consisted of four letters, and he wrote and sent out a single letter to A. Russell Peabody of his counsel. Later Mr. Peabody said that the letter contained a denial of the oft repeated story that there had been an unpleasantness between members of the defendant's family.

SHOT YOUNG GIRL.

Malcolm H. Pool Killed Himself Because He Was Rejected.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—Driven to bay by a crowd of men who pursued him after he had twice shot and wounded seventeen-year-old Edna McKnight, of whom he was enamored, Malcolm H. Pool, aged twenty-one years, shot and killed himself here yesterday.

Pool had boarded at the McKnight home until recently, when he was ordered to leave because he insisted upon forcing his attentions upon Miss McKnight. Her parents objected to the young man chiefly because of their daughter's age. When the girl's father ordered Pool to leave the house he threatened to shoot McKnight and was ejected after a struggle.

Pool went to a church where Miss McKnight was in attendance and tried to induce her to take a walk with him. She refused, but he waited until she started for home and followed her. The girl fled, and Pool fired two shots from a revolver at her, one of which took effect in the arm. The shooting occurred near one of the Rapid Transit company's bars, and half a hundred motemen and employees gave chase to Pool. He ran around the barn, with a large crowd in pursuit, and, finding himself cornered, jumped over an iron fence into the yard of the Greenway public school, where he turned and sent a bullet into his heart as the foremost of his pursuers came up.

Girl Elevator Operator Killed.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—Martha Peterman, an elevator operator at the Young Women's Christian association building in this city, was crushed to death yesterday by the lift she was running. She had run the elevator up to the eighth floor, where she left it standing while she went to breakfast. The elevator had dropped several feet below the floor when she returned. Miss Peterman lay down on the floor days; that teaching would keep them out of mischief; that being military drill-masters; that the wages paid to teachers were all they were worth. The frugal Frederick's reasonings, especially the latter point, are not very unlike those actuating some of our American school boards.

As regularly as one opens a newspaper these winter end days the eyes encounter headlines of railroad wrecks disregard of block signals or train orders may account for some of these mishaps but not all. The endeavor to sustain throughout a cold winter the fast schedule of the summer may be responsible for a portion of them.

To Decide Kelsey's Fate.
