MARRIED WIFE NO. 3 ON LEHIGH TRAIN

Is Now in Jail at Owego While the Authorities Are Investigating the Several Marriages of Avery.

Waverly—Sheriff Parmelee was in Waverly yesterday, having returned from Meshoppen, Pa., where he had been looking up evidence in the case against Oliver Avery, who is under arrest in Owego on a charge of bigamy. Avery was known to have two wives, and the sheriff heard that he had still another one at Meshoppen. He discovered that such was the case and that the wedding had taken place aboard a passenger train in Waverly on the 3 of last February.

The name of the woman he married in Waverly is Mary Russell, and he was known to her as Oliver F. Hudson. It seems that the couple had boarded the Lehigh train at Waverly for the purpose of going down the line when Avery saw the Rev. Phillip J. Williams, who it is stated lives at Elmira Heights, on the train, and he asks him to perform the wedding ceremony. The wedding took place on board the train, and was witnessed by a Mrs. M. E. Shorta, who claimed Waverly as her residence. Although an effort has been made the witness has not been located in Waverly, and no one seems to know any such person.

Whether any more marriage escapades of Avery's will come to light is not known, but it would not be surprising if it should be discovered that there are several more matrimonial ventures in which he had figured.

MRS. FRED APPEGET DIED AT HEIGHTSTOWN, N. J.

Wife of the Editor of the Free Press Passed Away Yesterday—Funeral Tomorrow.

Waverly—Word was received in Waverly yesterday afternoon that the wife of Fred B. Appeget had died at Heightstown, N. J. She had been ill for a long time but had seemingly recovered and Mr. Appeget had gone to Heightstown for the purpose of bringing his family to Waverly. When he arrived he found his wife suffering from meningitis and in a very critical condition. She grew worse rapidly, and yesterday she died. There are three children in the family, two boys and a girl. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at Heightstown. A number of Waverly people went to that place today for the purpose of attending the funeral. During his sojourn in Waverly Mr. Appeget has made many friends, and all feel the deepest sympathy for him in his bereavement. He had procured a house in Waverly, and had it ready for occupancy when his family should come here, and he had intended that Waverly should be their permanent home.

SMASHED CAR WINDOW PAID THREE DOLLARS.

Man Boarded Train at Waverly, Rode On Step of Vestibule—Broke Window.

Waverly—Yesterday as Erie train No. 8 was pulling out of Waverly a man rushed to the train and jumped upon a step of a vestibule car. He rode on the step until the train had reached Smithboro, when he smashed the pane of glass in the door and clambered into the car. Once inside he began to be abusive, and used profane language. He appeared to be somewhat under the influence of liquor, and as he kept up his tirade he was placed under arrest by Captain of Erie detectives, Hudly, who happened to be on the train. When arraigned in court he said that his name was W. F. Smith. He was fined the sum of $3 which he paid.

Wheel Broke on Wagon.

Waverly—This morning a road wagon loaded with samples of baking powder was coming down Broad street when a hind wheel suddenly dished, and every spoke broke out of it. The horse made no effort to run, and so the broken wheel constituted the only damage. A new wheel was secured and the driver proceeded to distribute the powder.

Why Some Don't Advertise.

Unless a man is business with a view to meeting honest buyers on an honest basis, of standing by his announcements and fulfilling his promises, the less he advertises the better. Advertising brings a man's business into the limelight and if it is not in condition to stand scrutiny, the light is bad for it. Advertising means many sales; and many sales enable a man to be content with a small profit on each, as in the aggregate his earnings on them all will be as great, or probably greater, than those of the man who charges exorbitant prices on a few sales. On the whole, advertising increases the merchant's responsibility because it fixes him in an attitude in which all his transactions are continually scrutinized. Accordingly he finds it policy, as well as principle, to do business on honest lines.—Philadelphia Press.

"Isle of Bong Bong."

The offering at the Loomis opera house next Wednesday evening, April 3, will be B. C. Whitney's sparkling musical surprise, "The Isle of Bong Bong."

In "The Isle of Bong Bong," a title which at first sight might indicate nothing new or startling to the theatergoer, the theme, as well as the plot and dialogue, is strikingly original. The plot deals with a German baron, rightful heir to the floating island of "Bong Bong," of which he has been defrauded by the native Sultan. In order to find the deed the nobleman decides to masquerade as his own servant. Meanwhile he succeeds in leading the natives to believe that the servant is the real baron, thereby missing a coat of tar and feathers which an ambitious American politician, gathering graft in the Philippine, field, prompts the natives to administer to the baron. The servant gets the tar and feathers, the rail ride and several other things intended for his master and many ludicrous situations arise. An elaborate cast of stage celebrities have been provided for the interpretation of the clever comedy scenes. It is headed by John W. Ransome, the noted dialect comedian, who won international fame as the brewer in Henry W. Savage's production of "The Prince of Pilsen," in which he played four consecutive seasons, impersonating the character at the Shaftesbury Theatre, in London, England, for eight months of this time. In "The Isle of Bong Bong" Mr. Ransome is playing the servant of the baron, and in this role he is given ample opportunity to convulse the audience with laughter.

"I bought a fifty-cent bottle of KODOL, and the benefit I received all the gold in Georgia could not buy. In three months I was well and hearty. May you live long and prosper."—C. S. Cornell, Roding, Ga., 1906. Kodol For Dyspepsia is sold by C. M. Driggs, Druggist.
