Republican State Convention.

The Republican State Convention met on Wednesday Aug. 7th, shortly after 10 o'clock in the Opera House at Harrisburg, Pa.

Hon. William H. Andrews, chairman of the state committee, called the convention to order, the call for the convening of which was read by Secretary Frank Willing Leach. Then the list of delegates was called, after which a temporary organization was effected by making Walter Lyon, Esq., U. S. attorney for the Western District of Pennsylvania, chairman. He made a pleasant little speech, in which the defeat of Grover Cleveland was exulted over and the election of Benjamin Harrison spoken of as a great victory for the best interests of the country. The generalship of Matthew Stanley Quay was also highly extolled.

Committees on organization and platform were then made with David H. Lane, of Philadelphia, as chairman of committee on organization and General Frank Reeder of Easton, chairman of the committee on platform. At 11 o'clock the convention took a recess of half an hour to enable the committees to report.

AFTER THE RECESS.

The convention reassembled at noon, and the chairman of the committee on organization, Mr. Lane, presented the names of the permanent officers, which were read by Secretary Leach, Hon. George W. Delamater, senator from Crawford, was announced as president.

Upon taking the chair, after briefly expressing his thanks, he began by extolling the administration of President Harrison, spoke of protection as its cardinal principle, and that the success at the polls in November last was brought about by the fearless Quay. The speaker went on to speak of the wise and statesmanlike administration, which was guided by James G. Blaine. The Republican party had control of the supreme court. It had incorporated in its platform and given to the country equality before the law, manhood suffrage, the protective tariff and education in the public schools. It had given protection which had dealt a death blow to the Pennsylvania Democracy. Then he spoke of the soldier element which he extolled, and had considerable to say about the solid South, which could be broken by bringing in more new states in the northwest and by a protective tariff. He denounced the democratic as a free trade organization. He concluded by saying that there should be a proper and progressive improvement of the liquor traffic.

Hon. William H. Andrews was re-elected chairman of the state committee. Calls for a speech from that gentleman were made, but he merely rose and bowed his thanks.

THE PLATFORM.

General Reeder then presented the platform, which was read by the secretary, and unanimously adopted.

NOMINATION OF MR. BOYER.

Hon. Boies Penrose, of Philadelphia, then arose, and in complimentary terms proposed the name of Hon. Henry K. Boyer for State Treasurer. The motion was seconded by the Rev. James J. Creigh, of Chester county, Hon. Henry Hall of Mercer, and Major E. A. Montooth, of Pittsburg. No other nominations were made, and Mr. Boyer was made the candidate by acclamation.

Major E. A. Montooth and Mr. W. R. Weaver, of McKean, were appointed to wait upon Mr. Boyer and escort him to the hall. In a little while the committee returned with Mr. Boyer, who was introduced to the convention by the president, and returned his thanks in a neat little speech.

The convention at 1:15 o'clock p. m., adjourned sine die.

HAS BURKE CONFESSED.

The State's Attorney Says He Has Ample Evidence of His Guilt. CHICAGO, August 7.—To-day Senator Kennedy, of Wisconsin, made an attempt to get at Martin Burke, the Cronin suspect, who is his client, by the aid of a writ of habeas corpus, but was unsuccessful, as the Court held that Burke is now in the custody of the United States Messenger Collins, instead of being in that of Chief of Police Hubbard, against whom the writ was sought to be obtained.

The words of Chief Hubbard, yesterday, that Chief McRae, of the Winnipeg police, will in all probability be called on to testify in Chicago, had a meaning that the Chief would not explain at that time. Developments to-day indicate what the Chief meant by the use of those words, and it is said by some who claim to know, that Burke has made many admissions and that he will in all probability give the police a full statement.

Chief McRae won Burke's confidence, and on the way to the frontier the prisoner had a long secret interview with him. The State's Attorney has had interviews with Burke at the Harrison street police station, one yesterday afternoon and one this morning. That of yesterday was the more satisfactory, but only in a negative sense. Yesterday Burke was less obstinate, less dogged in his refusal to discuss the case or his connection with it.

Judge Longenecker said to-day: "With all the evidence we have against Burke, and there is far more than has been published, there is no escape for him, and he will drag down the others with him also. When you take the part Burke played in the conspiracy and the part Coughlin took and what Beggs did and how O'Sullivan helped there is as clear a case as was ever made out. There is no escape. We have evidence that cannot be controverted."

DAKOTA'S NEW TERRITORY.

The Benefit to Result to the Indians From Surrendering Their Lands.

WASHINGTON, August 7.—Secretary Noble was highly gratified at the successful termination of the negotiations by which the Sioux reservation in Dakota will be thrown open for settlement, and yesterday telegraphed his thanks to the members of the commission at Fort Yates. The land opened comprises about 11,000,000 acres, which will be disposed of to actual settlers only at $1.25 per acre for lands taken in the first three years after the act goes into effect, 75 cents for lands taken in the succeeding two years and 50 cents for the residue.

The act provides for furnishing all necessary seeds to the Indians for two years and sets apart $3,000,000 to be deposited in the United States Treasury as a permanent fund, the interest on which at five per cent, is to be appropriated to the use of the Indians. At the end of fifty years the principal is to be expended for the purpose of promoting education and self-support among the Indians, or otherwise distributed among as Congress may determine.

141st Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers.

The next reunion of this gallant regiment will be held at Athens, August 21st, 1889.

Business meeting in Post room at 11:30 a. m. Banquet at Stinson Hotel, at 1:30 p. m. Entertainment at Encampment ground, 4 p. m. Public meeting at Opera House, 7:30 p. m.

The monument at Gettysburg will be unveiled September 11, 1889. The State of Pennsylvania will furnish free transportation "to all the surviving honorably discharged soldiers now resident in Pennsylvania, whose names were borne upon such organization (regimental) previously to and at the battle of Gettysburg, July 1, 2 and 3, 1863, such transportation to cover the distance from the stations at which such soldiers, live, or from the railroad stations nearest to their places of residence, by the shortest and most convenient route to Gettysburg and return."

Members of the 141st who expect to go to Gettysburg at this time are expected to notify the Secretary of the Regimental Association at the earliest practicable date, so that both transportation and other necessary information may be furnished. DAVID CRAFT, Sec'y Wyalusing, Pa.

No Republican has ever been named for a State office in Pennsylvania whose selection gave more general satisfaction than that of Henry K. Boyer for State Treasurer. Nothing remains but to get out the full party vote and give him a majority rivaling last year's for Harrison.

Just as people were beginning to think the absence of news from Stanley was ominous again, the distinguished African explorer turns up. This time he is reported to be marching down the coast with nine thousand men and an enormous quantity of ivory. No matter what turns up he holds on to that ivory, which shows that he has a keen eye to business as well as making discoveries.

A SWINDLER ARRESTED.

Frank H. Truesdell Captured in Wilkes-Barre on Charges from New York State.

WILKES-BARRE, Aug. 11.—Frank H. Truesdell, a swindler, who has been operating in New York State in the vicinity of Deposit and Binghamton, was arrested here last night and the authorities at Binghamton notified. On July 12, he applied at the Deposit, N. Y., National Bank, to have a draft for $180 on a New York City publishing house cashed. He gave his name as Frank H. Truesdell, and claimed to be the traveling correspondent of the New York World, and associate editor of Town Topics. He showed a telegram which purported to authorize the making of the draft.

The bank officials requiring an endorser, he called in Editor John A. White, of the Deposit Journal. The editor recognized Truesdell as a person whom he had known sixteen years ago at New Milford Pa., when both were living there, but declined to guarantee the payment of the draft. Failing to get the draft cashed, Truesdell pleaded so effectively for a loan of money to get to Binghamton that the bank officials let him have $15 on his individual check on a New York bank. Immediately on reaching Binghamton Truesdell went to Clark & Kellam's livery stable, and by using the name of a prominent resident of that city he obtained a fine horse and carriage for a two hours' ride and, taking his wife aboard, he drove across the river into Pennsylvania. He then drove to New Milford, where he succeeded in getting a fraudulent check for a considerable amount cashed by a banking house there.

Truesdell then kept on to Carbondale, and from there came to the Glen Summit Hotel, near this city, where he put up for a couple of days, giving the name as W. H. Miller, M. D., of New York. He asked the proprietor of the hotel to buy the rig, and on his refusal, asked him to keep it there and sell it for him for as good a price as he could get. He then went to New York City, leaving word for all letters to be sent to him at the Everett House, Union Square.

The rig was recognized and returned to its owners. Then steps were taken to catch the thief. Letters were sent to him at the Everett House and a detective put on watch, but it was without avail, for Truesdell was to keep for them, and it afterwards turned out that he had got them through the agency of the woman whom he had called his wife. He finally wrote to the Glen Summit Hotel, stating that he would come there. When Truesdell arrived at Glen Summit yesterday accompanied by his wife, he was told that the rig had been taken to this city, and that he should come here and get the money. He evidently got suspicious, for he bought tickets through to Belvidere.

When the train reached this city Truesdell got off to check his baggage, leaving the woman in the train. Policeman Guinney was in waiting, and the swindler was at once taken into custody. The woman was left on the train and went on to Belvidere.

DIED.—At Sonestown Aug. the 7th 1889. Alma Ethel Hazzen, daughter of George and Minnie Hazzen aged six months and two weeks and five days old.

DEDICATED TO MR. AND MRS. G. HAZZEN.

Do not fasten the lid of the coffin yet. Let us have a long look at the face of our pet. Please all quit the room and pull to the door. And leave us alone with our darling once more. Is this little Alma so cold and so still. Beat beat bre kring heart against gods mystic will; Remember O' Christ thou didst dread thine own cup. And while we drink ours let thine arm bear us up. But the moments are fleeting we must stamp on our brain. Each a dear little feature for never again. Can we touch her and only God measures how much. Affection a mother eaves by her touch. Oh dear little head oh dear little hair, So silken so golden, so soft and so fair; Will we never more smooth it Oh, help me my God To bear this the worst stroke of the chastening rod. Oh father have mercy and give us thy grace. To see through this frowning the smile on thy face. To feel that this sorrow is sent for the best. Aid to learn from our darling a lesson of rest. E. B. S.
