Reyburn, the successor of the late Representative Kelley, of Pennsylvania. Mr. Reyburn took his place before the bar and was sworn in by the Speaker.

The Clerk read the special order of the House prescribing the method requiring some one place to have a majority of the votes cast.

Mr. Blount, Georgia, wished to know if there would be an oppor-tunity afforded to pass upon the question as to whether there shall be question as to whether there shall be a fair before selecting a site.

The Speaker replied that under the special this opportunity could not be had, and directed the Clerk to call the roll. There was some applause as the first few responses were made, which was promptly checked by the Speaker.

THE FINAL STRUGGLE. On the seventh ballot a majority would be 156, and Chicago had 154, just two votes short. There was an In. re, assignment of Jno. Litzle-man—Geo. Yonkin and Anthony Dempsey appointed appraisers. Just two votes short. There was an agony of expectations when Mason dragged Reyburn, the new member, dragged Reyburn, the new member, forward. He said he wished to change his vote from New York to Chicago, and did so. He was greeted with applause, and evidently expected to lead a stampede for Chicago, but he was disappointed. No body followed his example, and Chicago's total stood at 155, one less than a majority. The New York forces were retiring in good order and contested every inch of the ground, so another roll call was necessary. It was the eighth and last, for Chicago achieved her victory, and out of the total of 307 votes received 157, three more than
