

THE REPUBLICAN.

W. M. CHENEY - - - Editor

FRIDAY, MAY 9th, 1890.

ENTERED AT POST-OFFICE, LAPORE PA., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

CALL FOR THE REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

HEADQUARTERS REPUBLICAN STATE COMMITTEE, Philadelphia April, 24, 1890.

The Republican State Convention will be held in the Opera House at Harrisburg, on Wednesday, June 25, 1890, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of Internal Affairs, and for the transaction of other business.

The attention of Republicans throughout the State is respectfully directed to the following Permanent Rules for the holding of State Conventions and the conduct of the party.

FIRST, That Delegates for the State Convention shall be chosen in the manner in which candidates for the General Assembly are nominated.

SECOND, Hereafter the State Conventions of the Republican Party shall be held not earlier than the third Wednesday of August, except in the year of the Presidential election, when it shall be held not more than thirty days previous to the day fixed for the National Convention, and except in gubernatorial years. At least sixty days' notice shall be given of the date of the State Convention.

THIRD, That we recommend to the county organizations, that in their rules they allow the largest freedom in the general participation in the primaries consistent with the preservation of the party organization.

The State Convention of June 30, 1886, having abolished Senatorial representation, Delegates to the approaching State Convention will be selected according to the number of Representatives in the Legislature to which each county or city is entitled under the Representative Apportionment law passed by the Legislature of 1887.

By resolution of State Committee. Wm. H. Andrews, Chairman.

THE PASSING OF CLEVELAND.

Gone but not forgotten.

Events which have occurred within a few days make it almost certain that the friends of Mr. Cleveland have reluctantly come to the conclusion that he is no longer an available candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1892.

The dispatch printed this morning from the Boston Journal says that this fact is openly admitted by prominent Democrats in Washington. The double-headed announcement in the New York Sun of Thursday, in favor of Governor Hill as the next Democratic candidate, and the appearance of Mr. Cleveland in the Supreme Court at Washington to qualify himself to practice before that tribunal, are both significant in this connection.

There are several causes which have doubtless led the supporters of the ex-President to this decision. The hostility between him and Governor Hill, the acknowledged impossibility of uniting New York State in his favor, and the pronounced opposition of the Protection element in the Democratic party to the revenue policy Mr. Cleveland represents were probably factors in influencing Democrats in deciding as they have.

Any one used to watching the drift of public opinion must have recognized the change this interview wrought in the position Mr. Cleveland had held as the head of the Democratic party. His ex-Republican Free-trade supporters had sung his praises so persistently that many were deceived as to the real nature of the man. They had succeeded also in guarding his utterances and acts so carefully that an impression had gone abroad, notwithstanding an objectionable early record, that he had developed some strong qualities under the pressure of responsibilities. This opinion was studiously cultivated by his admirers, who knew that they could hope to control no other man in the Presidential chair as they were sure of influencing Mr. Cleveland. He was, in fact, the trust and the only trust of the Free-traders, and hence their anxiety to keep him before the public and secure his nomination in 1892.

But in an evil hour Mr. Cleveland added all the work of his sycophants. His interview exhibited to the country the real texture of the man. It stripped off the 'mask which the deft fingers of misgump-ery had traced and revealed to the country a mind still coarse, undisciplined, unrefined. There was not an intelligent, self-respecting American who did not feel humiliated when he reflected that the utterer of such sentiments had filled the chair once occupied by Washington and Lincoln, and with that discovery of Mr. Cleveland's real qualities the prospect of his ever receiving another Presidential nomination passed away. There will be some spasmodic efforts to restore him to his pedestal, but each attempt will only prove how futile is the undertaking to deceive an intelligent people twice with the same counterfeit.—Press.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF PENNSYLVANIA, GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC, N. E. COR. 10TH AND CHESTNUT STS. Philadelphia, May 2, 1890.

COMRADES:

Once again the indices of the dial plate of time admonish us of the approach of our sacred Memorial Day. So paramount is every thought and action of our organization connected with the privilege, the solemn pleasure, and the duty of honoring and perpetuating the memory of our departed comrades in arms, that it seems almost a work of supererogation to call this fact to the attention of any member of the Grand Army of the Republic. But, it is sweet and profitable that we should commune and strengthen one another, in our desire to so guide our actions on this particular occasion of the year, as to again renew our high resolves of love and loyalty to the memory of those who have preceded us to the last muster, and by our proper conduct and example, command the respect and commendation of all our fellow-citizens throughout the Nation. Spring welcomes "our day" with her fairest garb and her most beautiful offerings. Let us reverently and affectionately garland each patriot's couch in our Department, with the choicest of these, and with fervent, manly love send a benison of reverence to the unknown graves of our patriot brothers, which dot the plains and hillsides of our sunny southland.

II. May 30th, 1890, will be observed by the Posts of this Department as Memorial Day; and it is hoped that every comrade will consider it his bounden duty to set aside this one day of the year, to the solemn performance of the requirements of our association. Discourage levity and merry-making by every means in your power; and by your example during the whole day attest to the young, the giddy and the thoughtless that this day is set apart by the American people as one of holiness and respect to the memory of our soldier dead.

III. Posts will follow the usual custom of dividing the work in localities where this is made necessary; but care should be taken that not one grave be left unmarked. Many new mounds will be found in almost every cemetery, and they, too, should have your tender attention.

IV. Other kindred and patriotic associations, such as the "Women's Relief Corps," the "Ladies of the G. A. R.," the "Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States," the "Union Veteran Legion," and the "Sons of Veterans," should be formally invited to participate, under the direction and as the guests of the Grand Army of the Republic.

V. It is recommended that Posts attend Divine Service on the Sabbath preceding Memorial Day.

VI. Regular forms for Memorial Day Services, as adopted by the Department of Pennsylvania, can be obtained at these Headquarters by Posts that are not already supplied. By command of Department Commander J. F. DENNISTON. JAMES MCCORMICK, Asst. Adj. General.

Scotten having gone his way. He started for the depot on the stated morning. Scouten being just a little in advance, but suddenly Heldt disappeared over the hill and has not been captured at this writing. There are a number of officers and others in pursuit and it is thought that he will soon be found. When last seen he was on his way over the mountain toward Berwick. A reward of $50 is offered for his delivery to this place.

In regard to our article about the Revised two weeks ago, the noble brains of that journal says that he is under the impression that the REPUBLICAN'S statement to the effect that it would have no effect on Newell was correct. We would say that it does not seem to us that he was under a correct impression. The article seems to have affected him rather more than we intended it should, and we sincerely hope that he may speedily recover. He was taken suddenly ill directly after reading the REPUBLICAN and left the office for home where he has been the greater part of the time since. However, he has been able to visit the office a few times lately and should judge that he had undergone a serious illness.

NOVUS HOMO.

JOHN BOYLE.

John Boyle was born in Shamokin Northumberland county in October 1800. At the age of three years he came with his father Francis Boyle to Elkland twp., then Luzerne county. Francis Boyle purchased the place now owned by Miles O. Barnes and moved into a house that had been built by one Henderson. Here among the trials of pioneer life, Mr. Boyle spent his boyhood. Arriving at manhood he attended the noted Sunday School of that day which was the only seat of learning in this the thinly populated region. August 30th 1830 he was married to Avis King by Edward J. Eldred Esq. They moved to the place they have since occupied near Estella, which is now one of the best farms in Elkland but at that time an unbroken forest. Though living to the ripe old age of over eighty-nine years he saw few sick days but seemed always to be actively employed about his farm. A short time before his death he was taken with la grippe which caused his death on Saturday May 3d 1890. His funeral took place at Estella church being the first funeral in that church on the following Monday, Rev. P. R. Pitman officiating. His remains were laid to rest in Pardoes cemetery. The funeral was largely attended for Mr. Boyle was known by nearly every person in the Western part of the county. Mr. Boyle was an obliging neighbor a good citizen, a true christian, a faithful husband and father. Our old citizen is dead but not forgotten. "Dust thou art to dust thou returnest Was not spoken of the soul." A FRIEND.
