FRIDAY, MAY 13th, 1890. ENTERED AT POST-OFFICE, LAPORT TA.. AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

A Pretty Quarrel.

It is a very pretty row that is brewing in the ranks of the rival Democratic parties of Pennsylvania. The parties have somewhat changed in their relationship to each other. They were formerly the Randall party and the Wallace party. The advent of Cleveland broke up the lines pretty thoroughly and we then had a Cleveland party, a Wallace and a remnant that clustered around Randall. This remnant has practically got over into the Wallace party, and the two forces not ar rayed against each other are led by Wallace and Scott. The Erie statesman counts among his followers ex-Covernor Pattison, ex-Postmaster Harrity and the old Cleveland office-holding list of local statesmen who would like to fill the offices again and are shouting for Pattison and Cleveland and the spoils.

Whether Pattison is a Cleveland man or a Pattison man or some other man for 1892. makes little difference, but the impression sought to be conveyed to the general public is that the nomination of Pattison for Governor means a general strengthening of the lines for the ex-President. Wallace protests that he is not opposed to Cleveland. Were he elected Governor and his interests lay in the direction of Cleveland doubtless he wouldn't be, but whether friendly to him or not he has been forced by his opponents into a defensive position, for it is the Cleveland, Scott and Pattison combination that is making the contest against him. He is, therefore, the victim of circumstances, if nothing more.

We have been treated to a very delightful series of interviews of late, while interesting outbursts of Democratic harmony have added force to these circumstances. First came the unqualified declaration of the Hon. William L. Scott for Pattison. Mr. Scott is for Cleveland engineers? and he says so. "I notice," he remarked, "that Mr. Wallace has been making a qualified denial of his hostility to Mr. Cleveland. He simply states he is not in a combination against Mr. Cleveland as charged, but he is careful not to deny that he intends to use whatever political strength and influence he may possess to defeat Mr. Cleveland in case he would be a candidate. Mr. Wallace's candidacy is approved and strongly urged by the New York Sun, and it almost goes without saying that no one who is not hostile to Mr. Cleveland would receive the support of the Sun."

whose duty it is to see that the all sorts of conditions-some with anti-cigarette law is enforced? There is every reason to believe that ored faces. Among the enumerators no more attention is paid to it than if it had never been enacted. Boys get their supplies of the forbidden article from some source and seemingly in any desired quantity. It is just such neglect as this that brings so many of our laws and ordinances into contempt and renders them completely null and void. Almost daily deaths or serious impairments of the health of boys are published, and if the total was known of the injuries inflicted upon the systems of those who use the cigarette, the community would be startled at the aggregate. There are many good people engaged in philantropic work in this city, but none that have yet undertaken a crusade against the eigarette, than which there are few evils demanding more determined opposition.

Whether the ladies parleyed with ancient females turning fifty and giving their ages as twenty-five is not known, but certain it is that the women enumerators gave evidences of having had their feelings badly hart.

SUMMARILY BOUNCED.

Among the general run of complaints the following specific cases may be selected as specimens of the trials of the census enumerator. One of the officials rang the bell of a house on West Third street and he was admitted. The enumerator was guyed by the inmates. Then he incavtiously asked the proprietor what century she was born in. He also said that the inmates were old enough to die and many other things that hurt their feelings. Then he asked them, as the law pro-vides, whether they were white or black. Then the war began. The occupants became so many Amazons. enough to die and many other enumerator and ejected him. A warrant ensued for the arrest of the proprietor.

Another cause of disturbance arose on West Twelfth street, when one of the census men asked, according to his list of questions, how many children the lady of the house had. The lady of the house was enjoying the first period of her honeymoon, and her husband, who was in the vicinity, made things lively for the
