PUBLICAN STATE TICKET

FOR GOVERNOR, GEORGE W. DELAMATER, of Crawford; FOR LEUTENANT-GOVERNOR, LOUIS A. WATRES, of Lockswater; FOR SECRETARY OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS, THOMAS J. STEWART, of Philadelphia.

NOW AND THEN

The Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette of a recent date says:

"Those who imagine that Governor Pattison can be elected over Senator Delamater, should reflect upon the condition of politics now compared with 1882. For several years previous to the memorable contest there had been growing discontent and disaffection in the Republican ranks, which culminated in the formidable split and nomination of John Stewart as an independent candidate. In the same campaign Thomas A. Armstrong one of the most popular labor leaders in the state, Greenback-Labor party, and polled 23,996 votes while Stewart received a total of 49,743. Pattison beat Beaver 40,000 votes, because the Stewart vote was made up almost wholly of Republicans.

The conditions are essentially different now. There is no split in the Republican party—no organized opposition to the ticket, nor will there be any. It will be a straight contest between the Republican and Democratic parties, with a plurality of 60,000 in favor of Delamater. With a legislature and members of congress to elect, the result cannot be doubtful. It may be possible for a few active kickers in Allegheny county and elsewhere to reduce the average majority somewhat, but to talk of defeating Delamater is to talk nonsense."

It is exceedingly silly to talk about the possible election of Pattison. What on earth is there in the political composition of his ex-excellency to inspire Republican or even straight Democratic support? A Democratic mugwump, neither fish or flesh, a man so cold as to refuse to attach his signature to a bill providing for the burial of indigent veterans of the great rebellion; a man so stubborn that he squandered half a million of the taxpayer's money in a vain effort to bulldoze the legislature into doing his bidding when it was plain, to even one of the dullest comprehension that the members would not follow his lead. He is not a brilliant or even a safe man; he was elected at a time when the opportunity for revolt was ripe, but this year the conditions are far from the same and he will realize the force of this assertion on the morning of November 5th when he reads the figures of Senator Delamater's triumph.

Senator Delamater is a man of and for the people; he is in sympathy with every great and important movement for the improvement of his fellowmen; he is a man who has ever kept open doors to hear the complaints of the poor and lowly and if he were king of the universe he would still remain the plain, modest, whole-souled gentleman that he is to-day; he is preeminently a man in his own right, and if elected he will prove the People's Governor in respect of party, race or creed. He is a man of rare executive ability; strict integrity; an indefatigable worker—a man never afraid to do right and not afraid to say no when occasion requires. Possessing all these qualifications, both sure and steadfast, is it any wonder that those who have known him longest and best predict his election by a phenomenal majority? Contrasted with his opponent he is a giant in his sympathy with the interests of Pennsylvania, and no man can be his companion five minutes without being impressed with the idea that he is constructed, mentally, on the broad guage plan and is stamped with an individuality that promises a great and brilliant future. He has carved his way up from the foot of the ladder and as he has mounted each step, climbing higher, and higher, he has emphatically demonstrated with an energetic American can accomplish who is not afraid of work, and is true to every noble aspiration that quickens the heart beats of a courageous, conscientious and thoroughly manly man.

The Real Issue in Pennsylvania. A few of the Democratic papers have the courage and honesty to tell the truth about the political situation in Pennsylvania. The Philadelphia Times is one of these, and it is not far out of the way in its estimate of the issues involved. Commenting upon the recent indorsement by the president of Allegheny College of Senator Delamater as a man of sterling integrity and worth, it says:

Senator Delamater needs no such certificates of character. He is known to be a gentleman of excellent individual character, and he has proved to the people of the State, during the severe ordeal of a year of constant battle for the nomination, that he possesses abilities of a high order, and can size up to the full measure of dignity required for the first office of the Commonwealth.

The Times then boldly declares that Senator Delamater is "not a mere personal candidate for Governor." The people, it says, won't bother about the personality of either of the candidates, and "a defamatory crusade against either would help rather than hinder his election." It finds the issue in the bill to provide for fair elections, which, in common with other Democratic papers, it terms the "Force bill," and in the "fearful tax bills," meaning the McKinley tariff measure.

So far as the tariff is concerned the Times has struck the nail fairly on the head. The tariff is undoubtedly the live issue of this contest. The campaign in Pennsylvania will be watched closely by the friends and foes of protection alike, and if this centre of the protective policy should show unmistakable signs of wavering the fact would be seized upon by all free traders and used with tremendous effect. Senator Delamater has been put forward as the champion of protection upon a platform which strongly calls for the passage of the McKinley bill. Ex-Governor Pattison was nominated by the Democrats at the direct instance of ex-President Cleveland to represent the latter's ideas upon the tariff and to keep the Pennsylvania Democracy in line for the Presidential contest of 1892. There is the issue just as plain as the nose upon a man's face—protection as represented by Delamater and free trade as represented by Cleveland and his nominee. The Times has gauged the situation accurately, and is entirely right when it says that "the people will look above the candidates to the cause they respectively represent."

Pennsylvania is ready for this issue, and we greatly mistake the sentiment of the voters of this home of protection if they do not make their opinions known in no uncertain tones through the medium of an overwhelming majority for Delamater. And if the Democrats want to include the Election bill in their list of grievances the Inquirer has not a particle of objection. The Republican party never yet shrank from an honest ballot. Bring on your free trade and your dishonest elections, and, in the classic language of Colonel McClure, let the band play.—Ex.

The Discovery of Coal.

A movement has been started in Summit Hill, Carbon County, to commemorate the first discovery of anthracite coal in Pennsylvania by a centennial celebration, to take place in September, 1891, when it will have been one hundred years since Phillip Ginter, an old German hunter, made the first discovery of "stone coal" on Mauch Chunk Mountain, on the outskirts of what is now the town of Summit Hill. The precise spot is still pointed out, and near by is the abandoned and worked-out mine of the Lehigh Coal Mine Company, organized in 1792 to develop Ginter's discovery. The pains for the project involve the erection of a suitable monument to the memory of Ginter, and a monster demonstration at its unveiling. The Borough Council of Summit Hill has determined to deed a plot of ground, in front of the stone Armory Hall, on which to locate the monument, and will also largely contribute to the fund for its erection. The entire anthracite region will likely take part in the demonstration.—Ex.

WILKES-BARRE, July 27.—Ex-Archbishop Henry W. Palmer, of this city who went to London with Colonel R. Bruce Ricketts a few weeks ago, to dispose of several thousand acres of timber land in Sullivan, Luzerne and Columbia counties, was reported by cable last evening to be very ill. On July 15 he was attacked with congestion of the lungs, and for a time was in a critical condition.

A cable message to his family says he has taken a turn for the better. His physicians are in hopes now that he will be able to be out again in a week or ten days.

Ex-Senator Wallace has packed his gripsack for a trip to Europe. The fair inference is that the Wallace Democrats of that State will go a-fishing on election day. The Senator is an anti-Cleveland man and was defeated for the gubernatorial nomination by the Cleveland following. In going a-fishing his friends will only follow a Cleveland example.

Convict Coughlin, of Cronin fame, is a physical wreck and wasting away. It is stated at Joliet that the inroads on his health are due wholly to mental trouble and he may break down any day and tell all he knows of the murder. He is the man having something to tell and the truth may not be long now in coming.

DUSHORE ITEMS.

Semi official census returns place the population of Dushore at about 800.

W. B. McHenry and Miss Flynn, of Wilkes-Barre, are visiting at Wm. McHenry's.

G. O. McHenry has taken charge of the telegraph office at Coxton, Pa., while the regular operator is taking a vacation.

Mrs. L. C. Smith of New York, nee Miss Alice Seureman is spending a few weeks with her parents at this place.

Quite an exciting scene took place on our streets Saturday evening between a young lady and gentleman. We are informed that the lady presented a revolver which was seized by a policeman.

Rev. Fr. Enright, who has been at Buffalo under medical treatment for his eyes has returned to this place, with his sight much improved though not entirely cured. His brother is spending a few days with him.

Seeing that "Novus Homo" has not favored you with the news from Dushore for a long time I will endeavor to occasionally give the readers of your valuable paper a few items, which I hope will be of interest to them.

The Clio Literary League will give an entertainment at an ice cream festival at Ed. Youkin's residence in Cherry this Thursday evening. The league has gained for itself a good reputation in giving entertainments.

The foundation for our new school house is nearly completed. The building, when completed, will be the best of the kind in the county and will be a credit to the town. The contractors expect to have it ready for occupancy by Jan. 1st, next.

How can a newspaper expect to be a benefit to a town by always finding fault with its people? We fail to see the philosophy of it. Yet there is an editor in this town who would not think of putting out an issue of his paper without a certain amount of fault-finding in it. N'IMPORTER.

of goods every shown in Sullivan county, or that is usually found in Jewelry Stores. Expensive goods for those that want them. Cheap goods for those that think they can buy no other. It is no trouble to show goods, and you will not be urged to buy unless you want to.

In society goods

I carry a good assortment in both high and low prices. I am not going to tell you that I will give you goods, nor am I going to tell you that I will sell at cost. That is not business and is not the way to continue business in one place and keep out of the Sheriff's hands. But I do say that I will sell you goods and work for you as low as any other First Class Jeweler, or as low as is consistent with sound business principles. Thanking for the patronage that has sustained me for the last seven years. I shall try to merit a continuance of the same. You will please remember that my motto is "Live and Let Live, and Fair Play to All."

Pianos Organs.

The improved method of fastening strings of Pianos, invented by us, is one of the most important improvements ever made, making the instrument more richly musical in tone, more durable, and less liable to get out of tone. Both the Mason & Hamlin Organs and Pianos excel chiefly in that which is the chief excellence in any musical instrument, quality of tone. Other things, though important, are much less so than this. An instrument with unusual tones cannot be good. Illustrated catalogues of new styles, introduced this season sent free.
