The Democrats of this State, not satisfied evidently with the way the campaign is going, are preparing to make attack upon the personal character of Captain Morrison, the Republican candidate for State Treasurer. It has been reported that a New York Democratic paper is about to undertake a dirty work from which any Democratic organ in Pennsylvania would be expected to shrink. Captain Morrison, on the first intimation of this, declared that he should promptly prosecute any newspaper which assailed his personal character, and denounced the contemplated charges as false and malicious. The assertion that Chairman Watres is endeavoring to get Captain Morrison off the Republican ticket is the purest invention. Nothing of the kind has been thought of. Our Democratic opponents must be pretty badly distressed for campaign ammunition.

Less than a month intervenes until the date of the election, and it is interesting to note that the outlook was never brighter for Republican success. This applies not only to Pennsylvania, where Gregg and Morrison are assured of a walk over, but in Ohio and New York, where the Republican state tickets are virtually admitted to be in the lead. McKinley has made a gallant fight in the cause of right principles, and he has steadily gained from the date of his nomination. The nomination of a barrel candidate in the Empire state has weakened the Democrats, rank and file, while on the other hand the Republicans have made remarkable advances. Under the circumstances the coming of November 3rd may be looked forward to by the Republicans with feelings of pleasure and confidence.

Dirty Politics.
The Democratic party, always prolific of schemes as dishonorable as they are disgraceful is to resort to its old time practices again this year. It seems strange that a party seeking votes could so boldly resort to such a disreputable mode of political warfare, but the Democratic party or its managers never hesitate when a plan is outlined, no matter if its intent be criminal. Not satisfied with the weekly attempt to gain political advantage out of the exposure of official rascality, in which Republicans exposed, tried, convicted and punished the wrong-doers, a still bolder step is to be made now that the campaign is drawing to a close. It has leaked out that Boss Harity has decided on a final onslaught, in which effort he has enlisted the services of certain virulent anonymous New York newspapers. The first attack is to be made by George D. McCreary, Receiver for Treasurer of the state, and the dupes of the state "roorback" is to be the slanderous work of the vilely published "the fog" of the Democrats. The state are to read our articles and sue of lies with a command.

SONESTOWN ITEMS.

Our town is prospering slowly. Most of our people have good health. Dr. Rothrock is improving slowly. There was a festival in town on Saturday evening Oct. 3d. Harry Grove, section boss, on the W. & N. B. R. R., is under par just now.

A. T. Armstrong has shut down his mill, having finished what stock he had at the mill. Jacob Lorah is shipping excelsior every week and appears to have call for all he can manufacture. We hear that there is to be another wedding in town, before long. One of the parties lives in town, and one don't.

The people are making cider this year in quite large quantities. Some are making apple-butter of it, some vinegar, and some are going to drink it. Geo. W. Simmons is enjoying life we think as well as any man in town. We think he will poll a heavy vote in this section for Jury Commissioner.

We see that Bodine & Warn have a new sign on their store, which is a credit to the place. J. W. has also put a new walk in front of the post-office which when properly filled up with ground around it, will make a first-class improvement.

The Muncy Valley schools commenced on Monday Sept. 28, in charge of M. D. Sweeney and Mame Sheehan; the Phillips school with Laura Lawrence as teacher; the Low school with Carrie Buck as teacher. The Sonestown schools have not commenced yet. P. M. Gavitt and Nettie Hazzen expect to teach them.

Charles Starr and Clara Magargle were married on Tuesday morning Oct. 6th, at Rev Minsker's and took a short wedding trip. When they came back they were treated to a serenade, such as newly married couples receive down this way. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Starr abundant success in life, and know of no reason why their lives should not be a success.

S.
ESTELLA ITEMS.
The melancholy days have come. The saddest of the year. Mrs. W. W. Rogers is quite ill. Dr. Chaffee is in attendance. Jack frost has made his first appearance, and nipped all outstanding crops. Miss Lena Messersmith of Colley, is visiting at Jonathan Rogers, at Lincoln Falls. Charlie Clark has returned home from Texas, where he has been for the last five years. Miss Allie More has gone to LeRoy to visit friends and relatives in that place and Granville. Masters J. B. and Carl Shoemaker of Leroy, Bradford county, are visiting at this place. A little grandchild of Francis Bienlick was buried Oct. 5th. Services in the German church. The fair passed off very quietly at Forksville. There was a very large crowd second and third day. Mrs. Geo. Shoemaker and daughter, Mertie, of LeRoy, attended the fair and visited friends in this section last week. Also, John Shoemaker and wife of Canton. D. T. McCarty has purchased him a new span of horses; he was out trying to get the pathmasters to straighten the bends in the road up the hollow, but could not make them.

KITTIE CLOVER.
BUNKER HILL ITEMS.
The farmers are nearly through buckwheat threshing. Protracted meetings commence at this place, Monday evening. Philip Seculer lost another valuable horse on Sunday, Oct. 4th. George Lawrence was visiting at Boyd Bennett's, on Sunday the 4th. Brady Bennett and Philip Worthington are engaged in grading a new road from the public road to Mr. Wirthington's farm.

FROM ABROAD!
An Account of an Ocean Voyage
By a Former Republican Typo.

[Mailed at Stratford-on-Avon, England.]
On Board Ship, Aug. 6, 1891.

This is the longitude of delight and the latitude of good health. Everybody who was built to sail over the broad blue sea has gotten over that "curious feeling" that results from the peculiar motion of the ship and is out on board sunning himself. I have never before so thoroughly understood why men do not like to cross the ocean with women. As a general thing a woman attracts a great deal of attention from the men but on board ship she is particularly noticeable. The representative woman on our ship came on board looking as if she had never heard of such a thing as seasickness. She appeared in the most jaunty fashion: A yachting cap adorned her head, a striking ulster enveloped her shapely body, and a pair of glasses thrown over her shoulder gave her an air of contempt for those who gazed upon her. I came on board with a wan appearance and did not resemble a sailor at all. I was escorted by a fox terrier, who was immediately consigned to the butcher-shop. Nothing is seen of this typical young woman who ate a hearty supper last evening and maintained that seasickness was only an imaginary disorder and could be thrown off by action of the will. She was below. One stewardess held her head and another a basin and her face was of that color which we so admire in certain kinds of candy. No one can persuade a woman to come on deck when sick. She would rather stay below and grow sicker and sicker, and that's where the beautiful persistency of woman come in. There is a young man on board who is a joy forever. He is going over to get married and is going with him on the return trip. As I understand that her experience on the water is limited to an occasional trip up the Thames in a steam launch, I spend considerable time in wondering whether he will love her when they reach New York. If I were to advise the bride I should say: Forbid your husband seeing you until you are entirely well. A seasick woman is enough to make every man forswear matrimony and become a nine-tenth century monk. Somehow you never realize the great bigness of this world until you are stretched out on a steamer chair and look all about you. You wonder who the first man was that went sailing, and where he got his courage. Just as you are wondering, word comes that there has been a baby born in the steerage, and you are invited down to see it. Everything else is forgotten and away you go. It is a funny looking mite of humanity, with mouth wide open and a mop of black hair. The pleasantness of a week on the ocean depends very much on one's self. With a proper preparation of pills before hand and a little care as to what you eat. I find the normal individual will keep well. But the woman, I observed who goes to sea finds fault and these are some of her complaints: She wants to know why they cook anything on board as the smell makes her sick. She wants to know why the captain can't stop the ship for a few days, for none of the passengers would mind being a little late to oblige a lady. She wants to know why the ship physician can't be with her all the time, for she knows there is nobody on board who needs him so much. She wants to know why she was ever born, and this is what I wanted to know, for there seems no reason in the world for her existence. However, we will soon land, and all the passengers will begin to execute their plans of enjoyment. The butcher has delivered up the dog and he's too fat for grace, and as all is blowing well, I remain,

C. LORREN WING.
