The official returns of the Pennsylvania election swell the majority of General Gregg to within a fraction of 60,000 votes. Captain Morrison owing to the special efforts made on behalf of Tilden fell nearly 6,000 behind this figure, but the result was not to his discredit, says the Scranton Republican. It is mighty hard to keep up with the dashing Gregg on a charge. The majority received by the head of the ticket was exceptional, and only about 1.400 less than the phenomenal majority received by the State Treasurur two years ago. General Gregg has demonstrated his popular strength beyond all anticipations, while the Democratic plan of campaign resulted in utter failure. The magnificent run made by General Gregg this year will place him high up in the list of available candidates for Governor in 1894, and ft may be said that the highest office in the gift of the State would be a fitting reward for his heroic services in driving the rebel invaders from the sacred soil of Pennsylvania.

The Constitution convention was beaten out of sight, the majority against it approximating a quarter of a million, which is over 70,000 more votes than the proposition received. The plain people of the Commonwealth thus entered their emphatic protest against the attempt to inject all manner of legislation into the organic law, and said in unmistakable terms that they were satisfied with their Constitution. The voters will not soon be called upon again to vote on a similar proposition, and if amendments are desired they must be submitted by the Legislature.

But of all the glorious results the Pennsylvania election none is more gratifying than the elimination of the Prohibition party from our polisies. The faiture of the Prohibitionists to poli three per cent, of the total vote this year excludes them from the provisions of the Baker ballot bill, which goes into be voted for at general election. The Prohibition party serves no other purpose than to annov the Republicans, who have given the people the best temperance measure ever enacted, in the present high license law. But the Probabitionists prefer rum Democracy to high license, and wherever they can crea Republican ticket they have been on hand to do it; but we shall be troubled with them no more and Thanksgiving day will soon be here.

The Outlook of the Farmers' Alliance.

As preparations for next year's great political campaign become more numerous, the question becomes more pertinent as to what part the Farmers' Alliance will play in it, or whether it will play a separate part at all. A question that has already arises, too, in the minds of a good many observers of public ways been friendly to the Alliance, themselves by this time.

though he has taken sharp political issue with its financial platform, contributes an article to the November Forum, in which he undertakes to throw light on these inquiries. He maintains that the farmers have a real grievance; he heartily approves their organization; he had great hopes that it would at first accomplish much good; and he thinks that, if the Alliance would remain true to its original purpose, it would be a most beneficent organization future, But he points out the rise of most destructive tendencies and of narrow ideas since politicians have got hold of it, and he sees the great danger that they will wreck the whole organization. Senator Morgan points ont the clear unconstitutionality of the financial demands of the leaders of the Alliance, and makes a plea for the conservative al changes have occurred. men of the organization to save it from its leaders.
