The President's Message.

The Message of President Harrison presented to Congress on Wednesday of last week is that of a the plan uniform by amendment. statesman. It is clear, business like, He might have gone a step further patriotic and strong. It presents on this point and suggested a poputhe condition of the nation in a matter of fact way and without any President and a wiping out of the of the subterfuges of the demagogue. The great topics that are brought to reform which must come some day, the attention of Congress are handled with intelligence and with marked ability. The message from first to last is one of the ablest documents that have emanated from the Execu- for a criticism of the document as a tive Mansion, and stamps the President as a leader of men, with a full understanding of every detail of diplomacy and statecraft. The it is able in a marked degree. Message is read with interest.

The important points are our foreign relations, the Inter-Continental Railroad and Nicaragua Canal, the finances, the silver question, papers. He came from England the pensions and the manner of choosing Presidential electors combined with the subject of gerrymanders. Our foreign relations have become of importance. The President finds cause for congratulations that the Bering Sea dispute will be settled by arbitration. The New Orleans incident leads to the enggestion that the Federal courts should have authority over offenses against the treaty rights of toreign- attended. Rev. G. W. Newman of The Chile matter is handled with a degree of firmness that will leave little doubt about the ability of the administration to force a prompt settlement. Chile has been given time to apologize, but if expectations are disappointed a special message will be sent to Congress at the M. E. church at Forksville. for action.

Those who have been following the Inter-Continental railroad project will be glad to read that engineers are in the field, and that so far the surveying parties have found no obstacles that cannot be readily overcome. The Nicaragua only because work is steadily going county. He held many offices of forward on it, but because our ex- trust in his township and at one perience with Chile has taught us time was the Republican candidate by the United States, and if the present Congress were not so heavily Democratic the suggestion would doubtless have a deciding influence, as it should have. But little, it is to be feared, is to be expected from this Congress.

The tariff bill has had a gratifying result upon the country. The reciprocity feature has been adopted by Brazil, Cuba and San Domingo. has nothing very extraordinary hapand negotiations are in progress for a broader development. New inindustries have been established under the McKinley bill, and the President takes occasion in a quiet way to point out the advantages of protection over free trade. Coupled with sauff is the silver question. The President is very much opposed to free coinage. He believes in a double standard of gold and silver, and of course desires a silver dollar that shall equal a gold dollar. But he realises that until there shall be an international agreement and an international ratio the silver dollar have a fixed intrinsic value. He has not found the sentiment in Europe so be such as to warrant him in proposing an international convention. His position on the silver question is sound. The bullion certificate is protected by a dollar's worth of bullion and he believes that the present law, together with the Mc-Kirley bill, should have an impartial and ample trial before further legislation is attempted.

It is gratifying to learn that the prophecies in some quarters that the pensions would bankrupt the nation have not been fulfilled. The expenditures are still within the appropriations by over $9,000,000, and nothing like a deficit is in sight.

The President takes strong ground against the the gerrymendering of Congress districts to suit the whims of party management. There is danger, he finds, in the Michigan policy of overthrowing the method of choosing Presidential electors, which has had the prestige of many years of custom. There should, he thinks, be a uniform law concerning the choice of electors, and a Constitutional amendment is suggested. The President holds that the manner of choosing electors on a general ficket in each State, the custom for sixty years, is the wisest and does not understand why there. should be any objection to making lar vote for President and Vice whole electoral system. That is a and the President might have made a point by becoming its champion.

The critics of the administration will be hard pushed to find grounds whole. It is singularly free from objection, its tone is high and broad, and the general verdict must be that Shot at the Priest.

Hollidaysbug, Dec. 13 .- A bold attempt to burglarize the parsonage of St. Michael's Roman Catholic church and murder the priest, Father John Heine, was made early this morning. Two robbers pried open the kitchen window and entered the house. They went direct to Father Heine's room, and he, hearing the noise, opened the door. The robbers were within a few feet of him, and immediately opened fire upon him, and then fled. Their aim was bad, and Father Heine was necessary. The President indorses children to mourn his loss, but he not injured. There is no clue to

The Montgomery Mystery.

The mystery connected with the blood stained garments found near Montgomery a few weeks ago, and which gave rise to the suspicion that a fearful crime had been committed, has been unraveled. The man Shaner who was suspected of having committed the crime and who was placed under arrest, it seems had been looking upon wine when it was red and his head became giddy and his legs unsteady. In attempting to get to his boarding house he stumbled into a barbed wire fence and cut himself quite seriously in several places. He bled freely and stole the skirts off the clothes line to mop the crimson fluid from his lacerated limbs. These facts Ascertained by a few well known Montgomery parties before they became generally known and they determined to make the most out of the ugly rumor. They proposed to sein the canal knowing if they didn't find the corpse of a murdered woman they so od a mighty good show of getting some fine fish. The canal was seined and a nice haul was secured, and the farce was ended.
