

A State Banquet Relic.

Mrs. Harrison has made a number of most interesting discoveries within the past year in regard to pieces of furniture and articles used in the state dining room, the result of her researches having from time to time been noted through these columns.

The latest thing in this line, and decidedly one of more than usual interest to the public, is in regard to the gold bordered mirror lake which has figured as the central ornament at countless numbers of state banquets. All that has heretofore been known in regard to it was that it had been in use for this purpose far back in the early days of the Government when state banquets were of less frequent occurrence, though none the less ceremonial affairs, than those of the present day.

From papers containing undoubtedly reliable information it has now been ascertained that the long mirror, with its beautiful gilt bronze openwork railing, embellished with figures, was purchased in France by the United States Minister in accordance with an order to the effect from the first President of the Republic. Upon its arrival in this country the table ornament was taken to Philadelphia and first used by General Washington on the occasion of a great state banquet at the Presidential mansion in 1791.—Washington Post.

Mrs. Amanda Paisley
ALWAYS SAYS

"THANK YOU" to Hood's Sarsaparilla

What stronger proof is needed of the efficacy of Hood's Sarsaparilla than this from Mrs. Amanda Paisley, an estimable Christian lady, for many years a communicant of Trinity Episcopal Church, Newburgh, N. Y.

"For several years I was badly afflicted with eczema and scrofula sores, covering almost the whole of one side of my face, nearly to the top of my head. Running sores discharged from both ears. My eyes were very bad, the

Eyelids So Sore
It was painful opening or closing them. For nearly a year I was so deaf as to be unable to hear anything. I went to the hospital and had an operation performed for the removal of a cataract from one eye. One day my sister brought me two different medicines, one of which was Hood's Sarsaparilla, and offered me the choice. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and gradually began to feel better and stronger, and slowly the sores on my eyes and in my ears healed. I can now hear and see as well as ever. There are only slight traces of the eczema. Whenever I see now I always feel like bowing and saying "thank you." Mrs. AMANDA PAISLEY, 176 Lander Street, Newburgh, N. Y.

THE MERRY SIDE OF LIFE.

STORIES THAT ARE TOLD BY THE FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

The Feather Boa—A Safe Guess—A Gracful Reply—High Times Indeed—Etc., Etc.

To keep the maidens warm
And ward off the raging storm,
See the chickens, chickens, chickens
Stripped of 'em their small pin feathers.
How the dickens, dickens, dickens
Can they live through all the weathers
When it thickens, thickens, thickens
And the breezes 'gin to blow
And the ground is white with snow?
But these many little mickles
Of gallinaceous growth,
Doth the woman, nothing loath,
Hang about her though it tickles.
Though in unadmission squirming 'round her
Jaw, jaw, jaw.
With tufts and taitlets worming in her maw,
Maw, maw,
She goes fleetly on her way,
Acknowledging the swag,
And the universal regnum of the boa, boa,
Of the tickling, pricking, fad, the feather boa.
—Philadelphia Press.

A GRACEFUL REPLY.
Cora—"Why are you going to marry that big, ugly captain?"
Dora—"It's against the law, you know, to resist an officer."—Philadelphia Press

A SAFE GUESS.
He—"How old are you, Miss Dolly?"
She (sweetly)—"How old would you think?"
He (carefully)—"I don't know, but I'm sure you're younger than any one would think."—Life.

THE JUST PENALTY.
"If time were money," said one artist to another, "that picture of yours would be a great investment."
"Do you think so?"
"Yes; you spent about three hours on it and you ought to have about ten years for it."

MAKE HASTE SLOWLY.
Wife—"I say, Gustave, our customers are beginning to grumble; we shall have to reduce the price of our bread."
Husband—"Patience! We have only just begun to reduce the weight; you can't do too many things at once."—La Croix.

HOW HE REGULATED HIS INTEREST.
"Old man Grubground takes great interest in financial matters, doesn't he?" asked McSwilligen.
"Yes, all the way up to fifteen cents, according to the hardpupness of the borrower," replied Squildig.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

HIGH TIME INDEED.
Mrs. Morris—"So you have lost your girl?"
Mrs. Benedict—"Yes; when she broke Charlie's pet coffee cup and gave him a new one with 'Love the giver' on it, I thought it was time to let her go."—Chicago News.

FAMILY DIPLOMACY.
She—"If you could only ask papa and mama, I'm sure everything could be arranged satisfactorily."
He—"When is the best time, dear?"
She—"Well, the Junta generally feels the best just after dinner."

A PHYSIOLOGIST.
"Oh!" exclaimed Miss Bondclipper, "what a clever man Mr. Gilbooly is! He is really quite a physiognomist. I was telling him last evening that I had become quite proficient in painting, and he said: 'I am sure of it, ma'am; your face shows it.'"
Chorus—"Indeed."—Texas Siftings.

IN THE FAR WEST.
Interpid Widow—"Speaking of conundrums, Mr. Slocum, here's a good one: Why is the letter D like a wedding ring?"
Procrastinating Bachelor—"Oh, I'm no good at conundrums."
I. W.—"You give it up? Why, because we can't be wed without! See?"—Life.

A LUCID INTERVAL.
(Things one would rather have expressed differently.)—Doctor—"How is the patient this morning?"
Nurse—"Well he has been wandering a good deal in his mind. Early this morning I heard him say: 'What an old woman that doctor is!'—and I think that was about the last really rational remark he made."—London Punch.

IT ALWAYS APPEARS.
"In writing up this execution," observed the city editor, "you have made an unpardonable omission."
"I—I thought I got all the facts," faltered the new reporter.
"No," rejoined the city editor, kindly but firmly, "you did not. You failed to say that 'the doomed man slept soundly the night previous to his execution.'"
—Chicago Tribune.

SUFFERING FOR THEIR SENTIMENTS.
Mr. B.—"My dear, how does it happen that those two handsome women are left all alone in that corner?"
Mrs. B.—"Well, they are strong Women's Rights women, and said they did not care about meeting any men."
Mr. B.—"But, my dear, did you believe them?"
Mrs. B.—"Of course not, but I thought I'd punish them awhile."—Life.

WENT HUNTING.
Kirby Stone—"Hello! Where have you been so long?"
De D. Broke—"Out West."
"What doing?"
"Hunting."
"Eh?"
"No, I invested some money in Dugout City bonds, and I've been hunting for Dugout City."

"Find it?"

"No."—Puck.
ONE TRUTHFUL WOMAN.
"Do you love me, Jenny?"
"I do."
"Have you ever loved before?"
"I have."
"Then, darling, be mine. I've long been looking for a truthful girl. If you had said 'No,' and I afterward found out that you had, it would have undermined my confidence in you."
"That's what I thought," said Jenny, softly to herself.—Chicago News.

THE IGNORANCE OF MAN.
Inventor—"Oh, the fatality of things! Here I have an invulnerable, non-atmospheric, spectacular, refractive, non-reverberating, non-oscillatory watch, perfect in detail and mechanism; and yet I am almost starving."
Friend—"Why don't you sell the patent?"
Inventor—"The fools won't buy it, just because it won't keep time. The driving idiots."—The Jewelers' Circular.

SMOOTH SAILING FOR HIM.
"Your beautiful, amiable and all that sort of thing," he said, "but you're not perfect."
"Wherein do I fail?" she asked.
"Your heart is not in the right place."
"Not in the right place?"
"No; I ought to have it."
"Then I shall endeavor to make myself perfect," she said demurely, and the moon at that instant went behind a cloud.—New York Press.

HIS SAD CAREER.
"Never had a chance to work for yourself," said the kind, motherly old soul as she handed half a pie to the hungry applicant for cold victuals, who had told his weird, pathetic tale of woe.
"Never, ma'am," he replied. "All ways had to work hard, too, and got mighty little for it."
"It must be dreadfully discouraging never to be one's own master."
"Yes'm. It gives one that hired feeling, you know."
And he laid his upper lip back and began on the pie.—Chicago Tribune.

TOO ECONOMICAL.
The celebrated physician Dr. Jacoby was walking along Broadway one day, when he met an old gentleman who was very rich, but who was at the same time noted for his extreme stinginess. The old man, who was somewhat of a hypochondriac, imagined that he could get some medical advice from Jacoby without paying for it.
"Doctor, I am feeling very poorly."
"Where do you suffer most?"
"In my stomach, doctor."
"Ah, that's bad. Please shut your eyes. That's right. Now put out your tongue, so that I can examine it closely."
He had waited patiently for about ten minutes, he opened his eyes and found himself surrounded by a crowd who supposed that he was crazy. Dr. Jacoby had, in the meantime, disappeared.—New York Comic.

The Farms of the Future.
"Do you not think, Senator, that the tendency of the times is toward small farms rather than large ones?"
"No," replied Senator Casey (of North Dakota), "I do not. I think everything points to expansive farming. The farms of the future in this country will be large ones rather than small ones. Farming becomes more of a business every year, and the probabilities are that from now on farming will be one of the best paying industries in the United States. The day of cheap lands is passing away. There is very little unoccupied Government land left which is worth anything, and the day has come when the prices of cereals must rise and the people must pay the farmers what their products are worth. The increased consumption of wheat the world over averages forty million bushels every year, and this increase will go on. The time will come when there will be less wheat than the world wants, and prices will have to go up to induce the farmers to raise it. As it is now it does not pay to raise wheat in most parts of the United States. The State Board of Agriculture for Ohio lately investigated the matter and found that it costs $20 per acre to raise wheat in that State, and the Secretary of the Board of Trade of Toledo made a similar investigation and found it cost $20 per acre to raise wheat in Southern Michigan. We find that it costs us about $6 per acre for all the wheat we raise in North Dakota, and you cannot get the farmers to raise wheat in Ohio until you pay them a price that will net them a good percentage over the $20 that it costs to raise it. I look for the time when wheat will be $1.50 a bushel, and even at this rate it will hardly pay to raise it in some parts of the Union."—New York Herald.

Some Monster Dams.
It is to be hoped that the gigantic dams which are being erected in the West for irrigating purposes are being constructed solidly enough to insure the safety of the people living in the valleys below them. Persons who have never seen an irrigating dam have but a slight conception of their immensity. The following are the dimensions of four of the largest that have been completed within the past year: 1. The Walnut Grove Dam, near Prescott, Arizona, 110 feet high, enclosing 750 acres, with a capacity of 4,000,000 gallons. 2. The Merced Dam, Central California, one mile long, sixty feet high, 650 acres, capacity 5,500,000 gallons. 3. Sweetwater River Dam, near San Diego, Cal., ninety feet high, 725 acres, capacity 6,000,000 gallons. 4. The Bear Valley Dam, in San Bernardino County, California, is sixty feet high, enclosing 2250 acres and will hold 10,000,000 gallons of water.—St. Louis Republic.

Machine-Made Music.

Harp-playing by machinery is one of the latest novelties. The harp is arranged so that the plane of its strings is horizontal, the instrument lying on the table, after the fashion of a zither. Then, as regards the written music, the notation of the traditional stave has been abandoned, and sheets upon which are imprinted mysterious groups of numbers are used in its stead. When one of these sheets is slid into a frame made for the purpose the meaning of the figures is interpreted.

Each of them falls under a string of the instrument, and by picking at them in numerical order with a bevelled pencil of ivory the operator produces a tune. Time and phrasing are indicated by the spacing and alignment of the numbers, nor are the requirements of harmony forgotten.

When the melody of the air is adjudged insufficient one of the figures is accompanied by a letter, indicating that a button attached to the instrument, and bearing the same symbol, should be at this juncture pressed. This action, by bringing a small saw of ivory points into play, produces a cord suitable to the occasion.—Pall Mall Gazette.

All That is Needed.
In our physical needs we want the best of anything required, and we want all that is required to be done, to be done promptly and surely, and those in pain, especially, will find all that is needed in what is herein recommended. Mr. T. J. Murphy, 61 Devoe place, Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "Having been afflicted with sciatic rheumatism for some time past and finding no relief, I tried St. Jacobs Oil which I found very efficacious."—Miss Clara Alcott, Mahwah, N. J., writes: "I bruised my limb, and it became very swollen and stiff. I used two bottles of a patent liniment which did not relieve me. A physician was called who ordered the limb to be poulticed, and he gave me medicine internally, without benefit. I then got a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, which cured me. It acted like magic."—Mr. Lorenzo Buck, Bancroft, Shawassee Co., Mich., says: "I had chronic rheumatism for years, contracted during the war. After sitting or lying down, at times, I could not get up, from stiffness and pain. At work my strength would give out, then I would pass through a sickness of several weeks. I had to walk with a cane and was at one time so ill I could not lie down without terrible pains in back and limbs. I tried St. Jacobs Oil; next morning got up out of bed without assistance. Today I'm a new man and walk without a cane."—Mr. A. H. Cunningham, Perryopolis, Fayette County, Pa., writes: "My wife was sorely afflicted with lame back for several years. She used innumerable liniments, but experienced little relief until St. Jacobs Oil was used. It can confidently be said we owe her cure to its wonderful effects and would not keep house without it."

"August Flower"
Mr. Lorenzo F. Sleeper is very well known to the citizens of Appleton, Me., and neighborhood. He says: "Eight years ago I was taken 'sick, and suffered as no one but a 'dyspeptic can. I then began taking August Flower. At that time I was a great sufferer. Everything I ate distressed me so that I 'had to throw it up. Then in a 'few moments that horrid distress 'would come on and I would have 'to eat and suffer 'again. I took a 'little of your medicine, and felt much 'better, and after 'taking a little more 'August Flower my 'Dyspepsia disappeared, and since that time I 'have never had the first sign of it. 'I can eat anything without the 'least fear of distress. I wish all 'that are afflicted with that terrible 'disease or the troubles caused by 'it would try August Flower, as I 'am satisfied there is no medicine 'equal to it.'"

Copyright 1881

All good woman's suffering and woman's weakness. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription puts a stop to it. It's a remedy for all the delicate derangements and disorders that make her suffer, and a cure for all the diseases and disturbances that make her weak. It's a legitimate medicine, that corrects and cures; a tonic that invigorates and builds up; a nerve that soothes and strengthens. For bearing-down pains, displacements, all the functional irregularities peculiar to the sex, it's a safe and certain remedy.

Other medicines claim to cure? That's true. But they don't claim to do this: if the Favorite Prescription fails to give satisfaction, in any case for which it's recommended, the money paid for it is refunded.

Judge for yourself which is likely to be the better medicine. And think whether something else offered by the dealer is likely to be "just as good."

You pay only for the good you get. On these terms it's the cheapest.
