The good prospects of a railroad has caused Lake Mokoma real estate to boom right up. On Monday the Directors of the Mokoma Land Company sold nine lots. Among the number who purchased was James Kerr, ex-chairman of the Democratic Central Committee and now clerk in Congress. We have some good and influential men interested in the success of Lake Mokoma and its future appears very promising.

The Directors of the Lake Mokoma Land Company Hold a Meeting at Ingham's Office on Monday.

THE PROCEEDINGS.

The Directors of the Lake Mokoma Land Company met at LaPorte, on Monday Aug. 15th. James McFarlane, C. W. Wadrop, Russell Karns, Fred E. Gleim and Thos. J. Ingham, present.

A resolution was adopted inviting B. G. Welch General Manager of the W. & N. B. railroad and Mr. Marston chief engineer of said road to come before the board and explain where the line of the R. R. was located through the Lake Mokoma Lands. Mr. Welch and Mr. Marston complied with the invitation and exhibited a draft showing a line of the proposed railroad and Mr. Welch stated that if the Mokoma Land Co. would give the right-of-way that the R. R. Company would give them a station on their land adapted to the wants of the place and furnish all needed facilities of freight and passenger traffic. After consideration and some suggested changes in the location being made, the resolution was adopted excepting the offer of the R. R. Co. and a right-of-way was granted.

It was further resolved that persons whose lots would be damaged by the construction of the R. R. should have the privilege of surrendering to the company the lot purchased and have an opportunity to make another selection from any unsold lots of the Company.

Monday the 15th passed off very pleasantly at Bernice and Dushore. The editor and wife and R. M. Stormont and wife enjoyed the doings at Bernice until 4 p. m. when Rob left for home and we drove to Dushore where we spent an hour or two. The attendance at Bernice was very large. The fantastic parade in the morning was greatly appreciated by the on-lookers. There were at least two hundred horses and mules in line and they were mounted by individuals dressed for the occasion. The picnic was held in the grove in the vicinity of the K. of L. Hall, which has recently been cleared for doings of this kind. The dancing platform is quite large and was the chief attraction of the young people on this date. The music was exceedingly good. Peanut stands were numerous and all seemed to be doing a good business. The merry-go-around afforded amusement for the little ones. At 3 p. m. a one hundred yard foot race took place on Main street. The contestants were: Edward Brown, Wm. Demsey and William Tunstall. Brown won with ease.

At this instance we took our departure for Dushore where we found the doings of the day similar to that of Bernice and a large crowd being entertained. The proceeds of the Bernice affair was for the benefit of the Aegis Society of Bernice and at Dushore for the benefit of the Dushore Fire Company. We predict that it was a profitable day for both societies.

The Marks Murderers.

A confession has been made by Harris Blank, one of the Jacob Marks' murders, and all doubts as to the identity of the parties who committed the horrible deed are set at rest. The story of the confession, as telegraphed from Montreal, Canada, under date of August 8th to the Pittsburg Gazette is as follows. As is always the case the confession is made to screen the confessor from punishment for his participation in the crime. But there is no getting around the fact that, under the confession, Harris Blank is accessory to the crime by aiding and abetting the murderer after the perpetration of the deed.

The two criminals were separated by a table, which was just as well, as Rosenweig showed the greatest anger at what he terms the treason of his traveling companion. Looking Rosenewanz squarely in the face his accuser spoke as follows, in rapid tones: "You murdered the man, and as I felt sorry for you I continued to keep your company, but this has brought bad luck upon me and I am now determined to tell all I know about the matter. Rosenewanz threw back his head, while his eyes lighted up with a fiendish glow and replied: "I don't know that I ever killed any one and you certainly do not know it." "Yes I do," quickly answered the accuser, "you know that you killed Jacob Marks and I can prove where you bought the revolver to do the deed." While this dialogue was being carried on the two men remained standing, but the commissioner induced them to be seated and the interpreter Maltz, who is a brother-in-law of the murdered man, was immediately sworn. Rosenewanz in the meantime interviewed by his lawyer, A. E. Paiser, and conversed very fluently with that gentleman in French, the prisoner having spent several years in Paris before setting out upon his fatal mission to the new world. Judge Dugas having warned Blank that anything he might divulge could be used against him at a subsequent period of the case and that he was by no means obliged to make a statement, the prisoner said: "I want to tell all about it, and I make the statement of my own free will." "Very well, said the Commissioner and then Blank spoke about as follows: "It was on a mountain road going up what was called the Dutch Mountain in the state of Pennsylvania that the murder took place. I do not remember in what month, but it was somewhere near ten o'clock in the forenoon. Rosenewanz and I had remained over night at a farm called Fort Place and Jake Marks stopped at another house near at hand. I had sold a watch chain the day before where Jake had slept, and in the morning drove over with Rosenewanz to get paid." Being asked if Rosenewanz had any property of his own, Blank replied that he had not, but that the witness not being able to talk English had taken him along as a help mate. Continuing his recital Blank said: "We had a wagon and Jake Marks had his goods in a sleigh, while we had one horse each. We started off from a place called Monhansack to go up the mountain and as the roads were bad we were obliged to walk a good deal by the side of our rigs. About half way up we met three men, one of whom was Frank Rosencrans and the others I did not know. Soon after this meeting Charley Rosenewanz, who has been walking ahead with Jake Marks, came back to me and said: "I'm going to kill that man, and when I asked what for he said that he had goods and money and that he (Rosenewanz) wanted some too. I was alarmed and told my companion that he must not do such a thing, that as soon as I had sold out my pack we would go to New York, where I would get him a situation. He made no reply to this. After leaving me he ran forward to join Jake Marks." "Then what happened?" asked Judge Dugas. "I did not hear shots, but I heard Jake cry out twice and hurried on my horse, I soon came up with them. Rosenewanz told me he had killed him already and I saw Jake Marks' body lying on the sleigh. At this sight I became frightened and drove away as fast as I could, going along another road. On the way I was again joined by Rosenewanz with Jake's rig, and as I could not get rid of him we went together to a farm house, arriving there at nine o'clock on Saturday evening. I was so frightened that I could not eat. We remained there until Monday morning." Said the commissioner: "Did Rosenewanz ever tell you what he did with the body of the murdered man?" Blank said: "Yes, one day I asked him what he had done with my quilt and he replied that he had wrapped it around Jake Marks' body, that he had hidden in a barn." Judge Dugas was about to adjourn the investigation when Blank said: "I have something to say," and being told to proceed the prisoner stated that when he and Rosenewanz left the farmer's house on Monday and were driving away they passed a gang of men shoveling snow and when one of the latter asked Rosenewanz what he was doing with Jake Marks' rig the murderer replied that he had bought Jake out and was going into business for himself.

It should be said, however, that Blank, in imparting the above details to Mr. St. John and Mr. Wilcox, on Friday evening, in the Montreal jail, said that he heard the revolver shots before coming up to the victim and his murderer, while on Saturday, in reply to a question put by Judge Dugas the prisoner distinctly asserted that he heard no shots, neither did he see any wounds on Marks.

THE HEARING CONTINUED.

Montreal, Aug. 8.—The hearing of the confession of Blank was continued this morning. Nothing new was developed except that they shipped Marks' goods to Louis Rosenewanz, a cousin of Rosenewanz's, New York. Blank said he gave Rosenewanz some money, but not to buy a revolver with. Some time after the murder, he said, they went to Milwaukee, where some of the goods are now. An adjournment was then ordered until to-morrow.

THEY MAY ESCAPE.

A Flaw in the Extradition Papers Sent to Canada for the Towanda Murderers.

From the Phila. Press, Aug. 14. MONTREAL, Aug. 13.—An important flaw has been discovered in the extradition papers sent here from the United States for the two young Polish Jews in custody for a murder at Towanda, Pa., as to which a confession has been made by Harris Blank, and it is probable that the proceedings will have to be renewed from the beginning. It is doubtful, however, whether the court will grant the prosecution sufficient time, as an application has been made for the release of the prisoners upon a writ of habeas corpus.

The alleged murderers had already been committed for extradition when the mistake in the papers was discovered by their counsel and their hopes of escape from custody renewed.

Chief Wilcox has returned to Pennsylvania for new papers.

Sullivan County Bible Society.

Agreeably to a notice published in the last issue of the REPUBLICAN. Rev. James Morrow, Secretary of the Pennsylvania Bible Society visited LaPorte giving three addresses on the Sabbath and with the aid of friends of the cause re-organized the County Society. The old organization having neglected to keep up its annual meetings had gone down. The depositories having been since 1886 under the society.

Dr. Morrow as official representative of that Society regarding it important that a new Society Auxiliary to that of the State should at once be organized. A business meeting was announced at 7 p. m., and a new organization effected by the election of the following officers: President, J. W. Ballard, LaPorte. Vice President, Joseph Gansel, Muncy Valley; Alfred Collins, Forksville; William Reeser, Colley, J. Rittenbury, Dushore; A. H. Marr, Eagles-Mere; Treasurer, Hon. M. A. Rogers, Forksville; Secretary, R. A. Conklin, LaPorte; Depository at LaPorte with T. J. Keeler.

In the reorganizing of the Society without giving previous notice to the friends of the cause residing in other parts of the county it is but proper to state that the importance of its immediate attention was felt by Dr. Morrow, and also in knowing that the officers elected were willing to undertake the responsibilities of their respective positions. This will not hinder other selections at a future meeting of the Society, in case a change of officers is found to be desirable. The new organization undertakes its work without funds, but is in no way burdened by the settlement of accounts connected with the old organization. The parent Society will adjust all accounts with former depositories and will only hold the present Society for Bibles forwarded upon its own orders. To accomplish the work undertaken will require a considerable outlay and the contributions of friends of the cause is earnestly solicited. Much interest was awakened in the cause by Dr. Morrow's earnest forceable address. We would be glad to give the friends of the cause a full account of the Sabbath meetings, but must confine ourselves to the evening address.

Subject—"Around the World With the Bible."—The speaker started from San Francisco with his Bible, interspersing his discourse with several anecdotes. He first told how the Bible was admitted to Japan. An important Japanese personage was on the ocean in a large vessel, he saw some leaves printed in Chinese characters floating in the water and sending his servant for them, found no one on the vessel who could assure him what they were. Someone, however, surmised that the leaves were part of the Bible and suggested that they be taken to a Mission house in Hong Kong for information. The leaves were parts of a Bible and the gentleman was so much touched and interested by what was interpreted from the leaves that he insisted Japan should admit the knowledge and ideas of other nations and hence the Bibles made its way into that nation. The speaker divide the territory over which he passed into three parts. The land that never had the Bible including Japan, China and other Asiatic countries. Here the speaker touched on the superhuman patience and labors of missionaries in those parts, giving an instance of one man who worked for seventeen years without making one convert. Almost disheartened the missionary then struck out into depths of the Chinese country meeting no white man, but much kindness and encouragement. He came to what he supposed was a small village of about 3,000 inhabitants and found upon inquiring that the population was 100,000 souls. Dr. Morrow spoke touchingly of the 400,000,000 of people in China whom the Bible Societies were trying to reach. He said that every third child that was born in the world was a Chinese baby, that every third man that married, was a Chinese man and every third death that occurred in the world was the demise of a Celestial. Think of the population of this one country.

Second—The lands that had the Bible and lost it. These included the countries of Asia Minor, the North African seaboard.

The Bible is translated into the different languages of these benighted people and printed, the work all being done in this country. During the first 1800 years of Christianity, the Bible had only translated into 50 languages, but in the last 80 years it has been translated into 250 more, making in all 300 languages.

Third—The lands that had the Bible and hid it. Egypt and much of Western Asia. Here the minister spoke of the corrupted religion of the Copts and their ignorant priests. How the natives grew tired of their priest and asked for a missionary who was sent to them in the face of many difficulties.

The countries famous in Bible history, have become barren in many parts, owing to the decline and migration of the people. The speaker showed how the produce of the soil is dependent on man as well as man being dependent on the produce of the soil. The olives of this region, which gave oil for light, and were useful in many ways, having entirely disappeared. Reference was made to a Bible house in Rome and the Bible is sold almost under the window of the Vatican.

France was visited and the story of a poor acrobat who became a devout and energetic worker in the cause, was given the fact that each emigrant as he arrives in N. Y., is presented with a Bible, was also mentioned.

Dr. Morrow spoke of his labors in every part of this state, and closed with an earnest appeal to the people to do what they could to help the society in this country. A collection was taken up for the B. S. of this county. The hymn—"God Be With You Till We All Meet Again," was touchingly sung and the people dismissed after the farewell benediction.
