TURKEY SHOOTING-MATCH.

On the Ball Ground, at LaPorte, This Thursday Afternoon.

The second wood boys have a picnic at the ball ground, this evening last week. Had the band boys been invited to take part in the demonstration, they would have gladly accepted and furnished music for the occasion.

The great homestead strike is off at last and so many of the men as can secure their old positions will return to the work they left almost four months ago. It has been one of the most disastrous strikes since the first one. It was opened with the loss of much human blood and continued from day to day at an immense cost to everyone interested in it.

Mr. Harrity has resumed his duties as Secretary of the Commonwealth and incidentally puts at rest all talk of his accepting a Cabinet office. The reasons are eminent sensible, but if he were not required to earn his salary at Washington any more than has been the case at Harrisburg, he might hold two or three Cabinet places without much trouble.

Since the arrest of Mr. Ben, a Commissary proprietor at Cherry Flats, the other "tellers" engaged in the same business along the line of railroad, are trembling in their boots. These proprietors do not deny furnishing their own men with drinkables. It would appear, however, that Americans have been let into the secret over on Cherry Flats. The wilderness of the country in that section, perhaps, was somewhat in the blame.

Afraid of the Future.

It is surprising how sensitive the business barometer is to every probable change in legislation. The triumph of the Democracy and the fear that the financial policy as declared in their platform may prevail has already led to the contraction of business. The firm of King Gilbert & Co., at Middleport, Ohio, have received a countermand of an order for 1,000,000 pounds of steel and several other orders have been cancelled so that they have decided to reduce the wages of their employees. From all over the country come like reports and we believe it would be to the best interests of the country if Cleveland should call an extra session of Congress immediately after the Fourth of March, in order to pass what tariff laws they propose, so that business may be made to conform to the changed conditions. Even if radical changes be adopted, it would be far preferable to the uncertainty that would prevail.

LA PORTE, PA., Nov. 19, 1892. EDITOR REPUBLICAN.

DEAR SIR:—Learning that there is a misunderstanding in regard to the pasting of a blank paper over the name of M. T. Shattuck, Prohibition candidate for Representative, from this county, I desire to give the facts, so all may understand them, in order that no one may be censured in the matter.

The County Commissioners gave to W. M. Cheney, editor of the REPUBLICAN, the job of printing the official ballots. And the State ticket was set up ready to be struck off before the final official ballot was received from Secretary Harrity. Then when this was received, and the county ticket was furnished by the County Commissioners, the ballots were printed. It was not noticed until after the ballots were all printed, that the sample ballot from Harrisburg, did not contain the name of M. T. Shattuck, and as the law makes it a highly penal offense to put on the official ballot any name not certified by the proper authorities, it would have subjected the County Commissioners to prosecution to have sent the ballots out with M. T. Shattuck's name upon it. And so in order to avoid reprinting the ballots, the papers were pasted over the name.

J. W. BALLARD, Chairman of the Prohibition Party.

Furthermore, I desire to have it understood by our party that I as chairman, did all possible to have the name remain on the ticket. I in company with Messrs Keeler and Conklin telephoned Mr. Ames of Williamsport, in regard to the matter who telegraphed Secretary Harrity and State chairman Patton. The answer we received from Mr. Harrity was that the papers containing the nomination of Mr. Shattuck had not been filed at Harrisburg. These papers had been addressed to Mr. Patton immediately after our convention who was to see to it that they were properly filed at Harrisburg, hence, our Prohibition friends will see at a glance that I as chairman did my full duty in the matter.

Yours Respectfully, J. W. BALLARD.

Homestead, Nov. 20.—

The strike was held off by the Homestead Association, the meeting by a vote of 101 to 91. The great strike, or lock-out, was brought to an end at a meeting held in the dock, which was presided over by Richard Hutchless, the new chairman of the strikers' board. Secretary Kington, Vice President Carney and Treasurer M. J. ...

They Like the Duty

A convention of tobacco growers in Lancaster county last week put itself on record as favoring the continuance of the present duty on imported cigar-wrappers. That law has been worth from $500,000 to $1,000,000 a year to the growers, and will be worth even more to them in the years to come.

Roads in this vicinity are in fearful condition, especially the one leading to Nordmont. Mud is axle-deep in many places. This is caused by the late rains and heavy hauling of iron etc., by the R. R. contractors. On Wednesday of last week a boiler was brought from Nordmont weighing over five tons. It required two or three teams of horses to transport the boiler to LaPorte.

The Democratic demonstration which was to come off at Towanda, on Friday evening of last week, was postponed on account of bad weather until Tuesday evening, when the Cleveland boys hurrahed themselves hoarse. A large number of Sullivan county voters took part in the doings.

An Italian who has been doing commissary business at Cherry Flats, during the grading of the railroad, was arrested for selling beer, without a license, on Monday. The hearing was before C. E. THE HARRIS MURDERERS

Blank and Rosenzweig Will Not be Tried Until January.

The case of Isaac Rosenzweig and Harris Blank came before the Grand Jury of Wyoming county on Tuesday, and a true bill was found against them. They were brought into court at Tunkhannock Wednesday morning for trial, the commonwealth being represented by District Attorney Frear and Harding & Jordan, and J. W. Platt and Chas. E. Terry appearing for the defendants.

The defense first moved for a change of venue on the ground that full accounts of the murder had been published in all the newspapers. Judge Sittser, who was presiding overruled the motion.

The defendants then moved to quash the indictment on the ground that witnesses were examined who were not mentioned in the indictment. This motion was overruled as it was founded simply on the misspelling of names.

The defendants attorney's then evidently played their last card, which proved to be a winner. They moved to quash the array of grand and traverse jurors, on the ground of irregularities in the custody of the jury wheel. The wheel according to law must be sealed, locked in an iron box, and then locked in a room provided for that purpose. The Sheriff is to hold the key to the wheel and the commissioners the one to the box. This is done so that neither can have access to the wheel without the knowledge of the other. Evidence was given showing that the keys mentioned had all been in the custody of the Sheriff, and the court sustained the motion. The prisoners were returned to jail and the Court directed the District Attorney to present a new indictment at the January term of court.—Towanda Republican.

Pensions to be Scaled Off.

The pensions to the old soldier boys will be cut off under the Cleveland administration. Here is what the Philadelphia Times has to say about it, and the Times is pretty closely connected to Grover.

"What do the people propose to do about this enormous and admitted unjust pension expenditure? Little if any more than we are doing now. The pensioners are being kept in the hands of the government, and what is to be done? One of two things must be accepted at once. Either we must largely increase taxes upon the people, or we must cut out our warlike and unproductive pensions. Which will it be? The people will not accept either of these things, and the pensioners will not accept either of these things either."

Rates to the World's Fair.

The Vanderbilt roads have decided to reduce their rates 25 per cent in rates next year on account of the World's Fair, on round trip tickets in each direction between New York and Chicago. This will make the fare twenty-seven dollars. It is also proposed that these tickets should be good at any time from May to November. The object in reducing rates both ways is to induce western people to visit New York after they have seen the fair. This action will compel all the other trunk lines to make a similar reduction.

In the matter of the Overseers of the Poor of Shrewsbury township, of Lycoming county vs. Overseers of the Poor of Shrewsbury Township, Sullivan County, an appeal from an order of removal, removing Richard Dugan, a pauper from Shrewsbury township, this county, to Shrewsbury township, Sullivan county. Judge Metzger filed an opinion and decree in which the order for removal issued in this case removing Richard Dugan to Sullivan county is discharged and the said poor district of Shrewsbury township, Lycoming county, is ordered to pay the costs.—Hughesville Mail.

We haven't paid any attention to the remarks of our jealous contemporaries of a recent date, because we considered the cause and gave them full sway that they might get relief. We might say, however, that they have made false statements, but they must be credited with correcting a few of their own blunders. Last week the Gazette said we, in printing the tickets divided the Democratic electoral vote between two electors, this week Streyby takes it back and puts the blame where it belongs, on—Schoning Publishing Co., who printed the blanks and on which the mistake was found and made known by Prothonotary Walsh.

Remarkable Cures Effected by an Evangelist at Wilkes-Barre.

WILKES-BARRE, Nov. 18.—This town is excited over some wonderful faith cures performed by a man calling himself "The Healing Evangelist," who has now for two days been healing persons who for years have been sick. The first service was held last night at the Zion M. E. Church. After a sermon by the healer a large number of sick persons were treated by laying on of hands, and some very remarkable results were obtained. Several deaf persons were made to hear; several were freed entirely from rheumatic pains and stiffness. A man with heart disease suddenly felt the heart beating naturally. Another unable to bend his back from lumbago and sciatica quickly and easily stepped to and from the floor. A woman in an agony of extreme pain instantly declared her anguish had gone, and kneeling down with sobs and tears thanked God for her wonderful improvement. A man nearly blind said his sight was greatly helped, and he then correctly described objects fifteen feet distant which was impossible before. Many others were treated with remarkable success.

Another meeting was held to-day and the little church could not hold the large crowd which assembled to see the wonderful healer. After discourses by the pastor and Rev. P. Warnon many treated the previous evening arose and emphatically testified that the benefits they obtained had continued permanently. A large number of new patients were treated. Ensign Wedemans, 45 years, totally deaf ear, instantly heard a whisper, and the same happened to the totally deaf ears of T. Davenport, E. Evans and several others. William Lane said his asthmatic symptoms were instantly removed. Mrs. L. Reeve's withered and totally powerless arm relieved instantly, and she raised it to her head and the long, bent and crooked fingers were loosened and straightened. Mrs. S. Wincom's rheumatic pains ceased right away. Mrs. M. Butter's chronic neuralgia left her at once. Mrs. Brenner's rheumatism yielded and for the first time in years she knelt, raised her feet to a chair seat and ran and jumped like a girl. William Hayden's lost speech was greatly helped, and his rheumatic feet, that could not walk, were healed. He jumped on and off a chair and ran and leaped. "Praise God," he said and all the audience responded with a hearty "amen." Scores of other equally striking results were obtained.

No Extra Session.

From the Philadelphia Times.

There is to be no extra session of Congress to revise the tariff. Mr. Cleveland's policy of the most conservative and conservative of our public men, and a tariff based in domestic business will not precipitate any needless disturbance of the industrial or business interests of the country. The most important lesson of the late election is that the tariff is to be accepted as a purely business and not as a partisan issue. For the first time during the last generation tariff revision will not be dictated by bandied speculative interests, and these bandied interests extended to the control of the political power of the country.

It would appear that the McKinley bill is plenty good enough for the Democrats now. It wasn't before election. It is hard to determine just what the Democrats want. The Times says Mr. Cleveland is a conservative man and that he will not disturb the business of our country by revising the tariff. We were told recently that with the McKinley bill stamped out of existence our country would be more prosperous. If not stamp it at once. If the statements made by the democracy previous to election were true, what should change them now? Give us a change of procedure.

Riley Steinback of Lopez, content that the McKinley bill is an outrage on the American people. What will Riley think of Grover should he refuse to make a rapid change of the monster?
