Terrible Headaches
Distressed and Discouraged
Health all Broken. Thoroughly Built up by Hood's Sarsaparilla

Mrs. Eva Covert
Of Bath, N. Y.

"I am glad to have my experience with Hood's Sarsaparilla widely known, because the medicine has done me so much good. I think it will benefit others who are out of health. I was in a very distressing and discouraging condition. I had no appetite whatever; could not sleep well; suffered with excruciating headaches. I felt

Tired and Languid.
Had no ambition and seemed all broken down. After I had taken medicine prescribed by two of our best physicians, a kind neighbor advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I followed her advice, and the result is, I am perfectly well. I do not have the headaches now, sleep well, that tired feeling is vanished, and I am bright and ambitious. I can eat heartily at every meal, and have gained in weight from 95 to 105 pounds. I do not have any distress in

CURES A PHYSICAL WRECK!

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.
Gentlemen—I desire to tell you just how I was, so that the public may know of your wonderful SWAMP-ROOT. Two years ago last October I had spells of vomiting. I could not keep anything in my stomach; the Doctor said I had consumption of the stomach and bowels; continued to run down in weight; I was reduced to 60 lbs. I would vomit blood, and at one time as much as three pints; we had two of the best Physicians and they said, my case was hopeless. "Oh, my sufferings were terrible." A neighbor told us of your Swamp-Root, and my husband got a bottle; I took it to please him. I used six bottles of Swamp-Root and I am now nearly as well as ever. I weigh 108 lbs., do my own work and take care of my baby. Every one says, "I was taken from the dead, and many will not believe that I am still living until they come and see me, and then they can't believe their own eyes, I am looking so well." Very gratefully,
Mrs. JOHN CHAMPEL,

NOTHING LIKE ISSS

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC is totally unlike any other blood medicine. It cures diseases of the blood and skin by removing the poison, and at the same time supplies good blood to the wasted parts. Don't be imposed on by substitutes, which are sold to be just as good. If it is not true, no medicine has performed as many wonderful cures, or relieved so much suffering.
"My blood was badly poisoned last year, which got my whole system out of order—diseased and a constant source of suffering, no appetite and no enjoyment of life. Two bottles of ISSS brought me right out. There is no better remedy for blood diseases."

THE FARM GARDEN

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES IN CELLARS.
Apples and vegetables that have been stored in the cellar in boxes, barrels, or upon shelves, should be sorted over at least twice during the winter, and all injured, decayed, or decaying specimens removed. In the case of apples, where only a decayed spot is found, the remainder will be utilized by the economical housewife for culinary purposes, especially if the fruit be scarce. Vegetables should be carefully looked over, particularly potatoes, as the emanations from the decaying ones are positively unhealthy, and a decayed tuber infects its neighbor.—American Agriculturist.

CULTURE OF ONIONS.
The cultivation of onions requires considerable care and some experience to get the best results. But as the weeding of the ground is the most of the work, the cleaner the land is the less trouble there will be with the crop. The soil must be made very fine, and should be rich. It is marked out in rows one foot apart, and the seed is sown so as to give four pounds to the acre. It is necessary to give enough room to hoe between the bulbs, and the seed is usually dropped a foot apart in the rows. Small machines are often used for this purpose. The seed is covered lightly, and the ground between the rows is kept raked by steel rakes to prevent weeds from growing. If this work is well done the yield may be from 400 to 600 bushels to an acre. One hundred and fifty barrels per acre is a moderately good crop.—New York Times.

FEDDING GRAIN TO LAMBS.
When wool only is desired, lambs and ewes are generally fed on pasture alone, but for mutton and more wool, grain is fed to the lamb, or to both ewe and lamb. J. A. Craig, at the Wisconsin station, reports that two lambs he shows that it pays to feed the lambs before weaning all the grain they will eat even when on good red clover or blue grass pasture with their dams. When the ewes have been well fed during winter, so as to be in good condition at lambing time, it did not pay to feed them grain when on good pasture, in order to secure more rapid and profitable gain in the lambs. A grain mixture of flaxseed oil meal and corn meal for feeding lambs gave better results than a grain mixture of cotton seed meal and corn meal. During the ten summer weeks, the Shropshire grade lambs, fed the oil meal ration, made a weekly gain of over three pounds, while those eating cotton-seed ration each made a weekly gain of less than three pounds. With the oil meal ration, 100 pounds of gain cost $2, while with the cotton-seed meal it cost $3.30. An ingenious lamb creep was used to keep the ewes from eating the grain food of the lambs.—American Agriculturist.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.
Use whitewash freely around stables and out-houses.
Lice are more apt to gather in the hen nests than anywhere else.
Very late moulting hens should be culled out from among the breeding fowls.
Geese need plenty of room for exercise in order to prevent them from getting too fat.
If geese can have a good pasture and plenty of water they can be raised very economically.
Any of the common geese may be improved with any of the poor breeds by using good ganders.
Having vigorous, active roosters with the hens will be a help towards inducing the hens to take exercise.
Milk is a most excellent drink for laying hens or growing chicks. It matters little whether it is sweet or sour.
A dry place and a good opportunity to exercise are important items in maintaining good health with all kinds of poultry.
The demand for early broilers increases every season, so that prices are not apt to go down even with increased production.
Ducklings can readily be hatched in the incubator, and should always be pushed from the start if they are intended for market.
A dozen hens and an active rooster will supply all the eggs usually needed for hatching and will give better results than a larger number.
For leg weakness with chickens raised in a brooder mix litter with dry dirt, and in this scatter some small grains for the chicks to scratch out.
Leaving out the fact that a profit can be made in raising poultry for market, a still greater profit can be made in raising a full supply for home use.
A very little exposure to cold in winter will stunt young chickens. They must be kept warm and dry and be well fed if they are to grow rapidly.
One of the best ways of feeding bones to poultry is by ponding them up into bins small enough to be swallowed readily, and then let the fowls help themselves.
S. F. Scott, of New York, says he has tried all ways of applying Paris green to potatoes, and has settled on using it with wheat middlings and applying with a sieve. If fine ashes are mixed in part it works just as well.
An important reform in methods of buying and selling eggs has been adopted by some Western dealers who are purchasing for the English markets. They buy by weight, refusing all that do not come up to a certain standard.
Mate good, healthy, well-matured two-year-old hens to cockerels of last year's hatch to insure strong vigor in the chicks that come forth the coming season. Do nothing at random; use good judgment in the selection of each breeding pen.
The large body lice on the heads and necks are at work during the winter, and as they lie close to the skin they do not feel cold weather. Hold the head of the fowl downward and with a sewing machine oil can force a few drops of melted lard down to the skin.
Warm food, such as boiled turnips, beets, potatoes, cabbage and carrots mixed with corn meal, bran and linseed meal given hot will prove very profitable in producing winter eggs. The hens must have some bracing, warm food to build up the rapid waste in cold weather when exercise is largely done away with.
The most successful breeder of black Spanish fowls has for thirty years past kept no other variety on his farm. His success has been wonderful, and during this period he has not spent two hundred dollars in buildings for them. He obtained the choicest fowls money could obtain, believing this the first thing of importance.

APACHE TORTURE.
In the summer of 1889, when the Apaches were raiding the ranches and haciendas of southern Arizona, said Thad R. Morris, I was a private in Company K, stationed at Whipple Barracks. The Indians had caused the department ceaseless trouble. We were kept on the march continually, but for two months we failed to get close enough to them to become engaged in a fight. One morning, while we were camped at the base of the Chiricahua Mountains, a courier came to the camp bringing the information that a band of about 200 renegade bucks had attacked a small emigrant train about ten miles away and had killed the entire party. We were soon in our saddles and were riding rapidly towards the scene. The day was almost insufferably hot. The sky was not obscured by a single cloud and the sun beat down with excruciating fierceness upon the weary soldiers. When arrived upon the scene of the massacre, we found the bodies lying about on the burning sands horribly mutilated. We had made but a short stop and had mounted our horses to give chase to the redskins, when I heard faint groans. It was some time before we could locate the place whence the agonizing scream came. Finally we found it. The Indians had skinned one of the dead horses and had sewed up a man (whose name was E. R. Tarleton from Ohio) tightly in the green hide. His body was doubled up and the hide was closely tied around him. We released him as quickly as we could, and applied restoratives that soon brought him to himself. But when he gazed around at his murdered family, he drew a knife from his pocket, and before any one could stop him cut his throat.

A REMARKABLE HOLE IN THE ROCKS.
In Ireland, near Horn Head, in County Donegal, Ireland, there is a remarkable natural hole in the rocks of the seacoast, which is known all over Britain as "McSwiney's gun." It is believed to be connected with a sea cavern. When the sea "runs full" the "gun" sends up jets of water to a height of more than one hundred feet, each spouting being followed and preceded by loud explosions. The "gun" is a perfectly smooth hole about ten inches in diameter, and its history can be traced back to the first settling of the country. No one seems to know, however, how it got the name of "McSwiney's gun."—Chicago Herald.

CURIOUS ANTICS OF PANAMA PELICANS.
"One of the many singular sights that greet the eye of the traveler in the beautifully picturesque harbor of Panama," said J. F. Foster at the Riggs, "is the curious antics and tumblings of the big, long-billed pelicans over a school of fish. The pelicans are found, of course, along the entire coast, but one clear, sunny morning as we neared the islands which semi-circle the harbor we observed ahead a flock of probably 300 of the monster birds getting their breakfast. They would fly heavily, yet swiftly, a few hundred feet above the water, and then, head down, wings close to their sides, they would drop like shot, dead weight, splash into the placid blue waters of the Pacific, sending the spray high in the air and disappearing for a second from sight, reappearing with a fish in their bills or already out of sight in the pouch, struggling and splashing a moment on the surface, and rising awkwardly and slowly in the air to repeat the operation."

"Some of the young ones would turn a somersault, landing on their backs, their big heads and heavy bills being too much for them to control always with certainty. To see a big flock of these huge birds splashing like shot in the water, sometimes dropping their prey when in the air, but always making a close finish to the surface with the fish, is a most interesting sight."—Washington Star.

Priceless Find of a Stone Prospector.

Martin O'Neill, the well-known stone prospector of this city, has made a priceless find of lithographic stone, near Thebes, Alexander County, Ill.
"The tract contains 165 acres," says Mr. O'Neill, "all of which appears to be underlaid with the stone. I have drilled through it, and find that it is 300 feet deep. There is enough lithographic stone there to supply the world for the next 500 years.
"Aside from the steep prices commanded by lithographic stone, as an inducement to persons of stone-studying proclivities to hunt after deposits of this character, is the fact that the Bavarian lithographic stone quarries, from which all now in use, with very few exceptions, was produced, are almost exhausted."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Scheme to Make Good Indians.

In Arizona there are now nearly 35,000 Indians, distributed among the various tribes as follows: Navajos, 16,285; Moquis, 1976; Apaches, 4829; Pimas and Papagos, 8721; smaller tribes, 2911. In this large body of people there should be material for the backbone of a laboring class of people adapted to the wants of this country in a most admirable manner. They are natives to the soil and climate, hardy as a whole, energetic. They need, however, the opportunity to acquaint themselves with the more modern ideas of agriculture and with horticulture, of which they know nothing, with the breeding and handling of fine stock, and, in fact, they need to be taught in the ways of civilized life, when they will become a useful factor of the Southwest. It is the only solution of the "Indian problem."—Phoenix (Arizona) Herald.
There are some epicures in rabbit eating who never touch any part but the hind quarters. Others will eat the shoulders only.

IT COSTS MORE to make Royal Baking Powder than any other, because its ingredients are more highly refined and expensive.

But the Royal is correspondingly purer and higher in leavening strength, and of greater money value to the consumer. The difference in cost of Royal over the best of the others does not equal the difference in leavening strength, nor make good the inferior work of the cheaper powders, nor remove the impurities which such powders leave in the food.
Where the best food is required, the Royal Baking Powder only can be used.

$10,000 Souvenir

(This sum was paid for the first World's Fair Souvenir Coin minted.)

in the shape of a coin, but many can have fac-similes of this valuable work of art—only special coin ever issued by the U. S. Government—for $1 each.

World's Fair Souvenir Coins

The Official Souvenir of the Great Exposition—5,000,000 of which were donated to the World's Columbian Exposition by the Government, are being rapidly taken by an enthusiastically patriotic people.

As there early promised to be a demand for these Souvenirs that would render them very valuable in the hands of speculators, the Exposition Authorities decided to place the price at and sell them direct to the people, thus realizing $5,000,000, and using the additional money for the further development of the Fair.

$1.00 for Each Coin

Considering the fact that there were but 5,000,000 of these coins to be distributed among 65,000,000 people, in this country alone (to say nothing of the foreign demand), and that many have already been taken, those wishing to purchase these mementoes of our Country's Discovery and of the grandest Exposition ever held, should secure as many as they desire at once.

Realizing that every patriotic American will want one or more of these coins, and in order to make it convenient for him to get them, we have made arrangements to have them sold throughout the country by all the leading Merchants and Banks. If not for sale in your town, send $1.00 each for not less than five coins, by Post-office or Express Money-order, Registered Letter or Bank Draft, with instructions how to send them to you, all charges prepaid, to Treasurer World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, Ill.
