The way to secure a return of confidence is to rout from power the party whose victory destroyed confidence.

An Old But Seasonable Speech.

Just sixty years ago this month Daniel Webster, while passing through Pittsburg on his way from Ohio was tendered a public reception. The writer encountered the speech he delivered on that occasion the other day, in a stray copy of the "Constitutional Text Book" published more than a generation ago, say the Seranton Republican. Perhaps in some of his greatest speeches did Daniel Webster give expression to views on the question of protection that are more forcibly applicable to the present than are contained in his speech at Pittsburg on July 8, 1833. The situation then was not unlike the present. The abrogation of the tariff of 1824 was then threatened precisely as the destruction of the protective tariff is now threatened by the Cleveland administration and the Democratic majority in the Fifty-third congress. The overwhelming arguments presented by the great expounder and defender of the constitution against the assaults of the great free trader and nullifier, John C. Calhoun, could be delivered to-day with precisely the same force as sixty years ago. Listen to the voice of Daniel Webster:

"Next to the preservation of the government itself, there can hardly be a more vital question to such a community as this than that which regards their own employments, and the preservation of that policy which the government has adopted and cherished for the encouragement and protection of those employments. This is not, in a society like this, a matter which affects the interests of a particular class but one which affects the interests of all classes. It runs through the whole chain of human occupation and employment, and touches the means of living and comfort of all. Who, standing here, and looking around on this community, and its interests, would be bold enough to touch the spring which moves so much industry and produces so much happiness? Who would shut up the mouths of these vast coal pits? Who would stay the carriages of manufactured goods now floating down this noble river? Who would quench the fire of so many steam engines, or check the operations of so much well employed labor? Gentlemen I cannot conceive how any supervision of that policy which has hitherto been pursued can take place without great public embarrassment and private distress."

Sending Hay to Europe.

There is a great scarcity of hay both in England and on the continent of Europe. This is particularly so in France, and the American farmer will doubtless profit by this condition of affairs. It is said that already the shortage in France has reached such a point that many cattle have been slaughtered, and the exorbitant price of $45 and $50 a ton is being paid for hay, and considerable anxiety is said to exist abroad regarding the extent and character of this year's crop in the United States. Thus far one firm in Baltimore has chartered a vessel to carry 500 tons of hay to France, and it will sail this week. Another will follow next week, and this is but the beginning of exportations. Other firms both in Baltimore and in other cities—Philadelphia, New York and Boston—are arranging to send hay abroad. The crop in this country while likely to be good, is not overabundant, and the indications are that the American farmers will receive good prices for hay this year. It will be a good thing for our farmers.

ESTELLA ITEMS.

Everybody is busy haying. Some are done. Hay is a very light crop in this section.

The Ladies Aid Society meets at W. T. More's on Thursdays next.

Born:—To Mr. and Mrs. Teator—a son. Grandma and grandpa Brown are both doing well.

Pomona Grange will convene at Estella, on August 24.

Rev. Frazier preached a very able sermon on Sunday evening.

C. M. Clark is taking music lessons. I guess, who would'nt.

Where there were hundreds of thousands of capital and hundreds of thousands of workmen to be protected then, there are millions of workmen and billions of invested capital to be protected now. The peril is the same now as it was then.

Let our anti-protection statesmen of to-day look up this remarkable speech of Daniel Webster and ponder over its remarkable sentences—Perhaps such utterances as the following may impress them: "There never was, and never can be, an intelligent and virtuous people, who at the same time are a poor and idle people, poorly employed and badly paid."

The hard times that all are grumbling over just now might be in a great measure avoided if everybody would pay their small bills promptly, instead of hoarding every cent they can get hold of. There is plenty of money in this country, but it does not go any good while under double lock and key. Pay your small bills promptly and that will give all of us a chance to circulate the money. If everybody would do this, the REPUBLICAN would have over one thousand dollars that is now scattered in small amounts all over Sullivan county.

Some years ago W. O. Holmes made an unsuccessful effort to sink a well on his lot First and West Streets. After digging to a depth of seventy-five feet and not reaching water, they drilled some distance further but with no more success. The attempt was abandoned. A short time ago the hole was filled up. What was their surprise some time after to find that the filling had settled out of sight. The hole was filled again, on Monday a rumbling was heard that frightened Mrs. Holmes and was distinctly heard by neighbors. The well was examined and the filling had again disappeared. A little water is noticed in the bottom.—Bloomsburg Republican.

FREE TEXT-BOOKS.

To amend the first section of an act entitled "An Act authorizing school directors to purchase school books out of the district fund" approved June twenty-fifth one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five by requiring school directors or controllers to furnish school books and other school supplies free of cost.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same; That section first of an act entitled "An act authorizing school directors to purchase school books out of the district funds," approved June twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

SECTION 1. The school directors or controllers shall purchase text books and other necessary school supplies for use in the public schools of their respective school districts as such new text books and supplies are required, in addition to those at present in use in the hands of pupils, or owned by the school districts, out of the school fund of the district, and when so procured the necessary books and school supplies shall be furnished free of cost for use in the schools of said district, subject to the orders of the directors or controllers thereof, whose duty it shall be to provide for the return of and for the safe keeping and care of the books, which shall be returned at the close of the annual school term in each year or as the board may direct.

Approved May 18, 1893.

Hardware,

IS NEEDED every day of the year. About the first thing which comes to the mind, in speaking of hardware is nails. What is the price? $1.35 per keg; wire nails $1.75 per keg; Ready mixed paint $1.25 per gallon; Double bit axe $1.00; X cut saws $2.00 grind stones as low as 75 cents, each mounted on good frame $2.75; best railroad wheel barrows, garden wheel barrows, $2.00 and $2.75. Many items in a hardware store you seldom see unless called for. They are not suitable for show windows—are too large for shelving. You may not know we keep them. We have sold iron and wood pumps for 20 Years,
