FILED A BILL IN EQUITY.

The Trustee of Contractor Gayno Asks for an Injunction-The Com plaints and Relief Asked.

Monday morning Charles Bart-les, Esq., trustee of E. J. Gaynor, Son & Company, filed a bill of par-ticulars with Prothonotary Hopkins in the case in equity against the Williamsport and North Branch Railroad Company, in which case he is plaintiff. When the firm of E. J. Gaynor,

Son & Company, contractors, made an assignment last July they claimed that the Williamsport and North Branch Railroad Company owed them a balance of $67,000, due for the construction of the extension of their road from Nordmont to Dohm's Summit. The claim of the plaintiffs is set forth in the bill and the following complaints are then made : That they would have completed the whole of the work as required in the contract, but that they were hampered, hindered, and interfered with by John Marston, Jr., chief engineer of the railroad.

That repeated complaints, because haffey or Atty. H. T. Downs, will duce a like amount. Mangel's of this, were made to the president find them at their cosy little office which was placed in a buggy, and which was placed in a buggy, and said president John Satterfield and said president John Satterfield and Henry L. Taylor. That all of the estimates of the work done by said firm were render-ed directly by the railroad company to the firm, and Edgar A. Taylor never communicated with E. J. Gavnor Son & Co. and the presi entitled to a vote in November. He located in Minneapolis in early spring and not making a "go" of it, there, returned to Sullivan last paper. Diffingly drove the strange man to the train. Mangel opened the box and found a board wrapped in paper. Gaynor, Son & Co., and the presi-dent of the railroad, John Satter-field and Henry L. Taylor in all in-stances conducted all negotiations and decided all questions arising out of the contract. That the difficulties between the ailroad and E. J. Gaypor, Son &

Co., became such that certain mat-ters were referred to H. K. Nichols and Charles E. Webster, who made report.

That subsequently further diffi culties arose with John Marston, Jr. and an interview was arranged between the construction company and the officers of the railroad. That at that interview John Sat-terfield and H. L. Taylor, both being officers of the railroad compay and guarantors on the contract or building the extension, promised and agreed with E. J. Gaynor, Son & Co., that they should lose no money upon said contract, and if the price contracted for was insufficient, it should be increased.

That plaintiff believes and charges that said Edgar A. Taylor was formerly chief bookkeeper for the Union Oil Company, of Buffalo, N. Y., and that said Union Oil Company is wholly or partly composed of John Satterfield and Henry L. Taylor, of Buffalo, N. Y., and that said Edgar A. Taylor is teller of the Fidelity Loan and Trust Company, of Buffalo, N. Y.

July 21, 1893, Gaynor & Son as-signed to Charles Bartles, trusted for the employes and others. The sum of $67,000 is due from the railroad company to the contractors, suit for which was commenced to No. 458, September term of court. It is further alleged that a mort age of $2,000,000 was executed the railroad company to Fidelity Trust and Safe Deposit Company, of Philadelphia, and that none of the bonds secured by this mortgage have been issued or held by any one except Satterfield and Taylor.

That plaintiff charges that if any ontract was entered into between Edgar A. Taylor and the railroad company for the construction of said extension it was not a bona fide contract, but it was made to avoid any responsibility of the railroad company to E. J. Gaynor, Son & Co., and for the purpose of avoiding the lien of the laborers and materialmen, who had respectively worked on or furnished supplies for
