of the supreme court.

"His record in every place of public trust is full of honor and will bear the closest sorutiny. He always acquitted himself well, and won the encomiums of the people. Upon the bench he has created for himself an enviable name. No man is more highly honored and thoroughly beloved among all the judges of our county courts. His learning, his ability, his clear judicial mind, have made him a valued jurist, and his unswerving adherence to right, fearlessness in the discharge of duty, unfailing courtesy, judges of our county courts. His learning, his ability, his clear judicial mind, have made him a valued jurist, and his unswerving adherence to right, fearlessness in the discharge of duty, unfailing courtesy, manliness and modesty, have made him a model Judge, and endeared him to our bar and our citizens generally."

The Laporte School Board replaced the old furniture in the primary room, with new furniture. Werea pointed a committee to select the desks, and as a matter of course, they are the best the market affords. With this outfit, together, with other improvements, the primary room presents a very credit.

STEELTON, Pa., Oct. 23, 1893.
The works of the Pennsylvania Steel Company were running pretty standy during last week, with a moderate output. There were 3,537 names on the pay rolls for the month of September, to whom was passed $49,600 on Saturday, the earnings for the last two weeks of the month. For the corresponding month of last year, there was 45,000 names on the pay rolls, and the Michael Broshart, John S. Richard, names on the pay rolls, and the earnings for the last two weeks of September 1892, was $93,000 that is the difference between Republi-can and Democratic administrations at these works, and it is far worse at many other places. This great change so eagerly sought for, has, I hope, learned the American people a lesson—not to sacrifice a certainty
