

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.
Grow Nominated Without Opposition.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 3.—The nomination of Galusha A. Grow, for Congressman-at-Large was made today by the Republican State Convention with all the unanimity and enthusiasm possible. It is a result in congratulation for which every Republican unites with every other Republican. It is not merely satisfaction that is expressed; it is enthusiasm. Those who were reluctant to aid in making this nomination have since joined with all others in declaring it was the right thing to do and not a little of this feeling was due to the admirable speech made by Mr. Grow immediately after his nomination.

MR. GROW'S SPEECH.
"Gentlemen, accept my double thanks. First for the kindness of feeling implied in your cordial greeting to me, and, next, for the unanimous vote by which you have tendered me the nomination. Rest assured that they will ever be among the cherished memories of my life."

"For the first time since 1856 the Democratic party has been entrusted with the power of government by the people, and it seems to be beginning now just where it ended then. This generation has no knowledge by experience of what a Democratic administration of the government is. The Democratic party in power is a standing menace to business. Why the mere threat contained in its platform has completely paralyzed the business of the country. Never in our history have our industries been so prostrated, nor so many people thrown into enforced idleness as we find to-day after less than one year of Democratic rule."

"In 1892, under the wise and patriotic Republican Administration the country had reached the highest degree of prosperity it had ever known. Every branch of business in every part of the land was prosperous, and there was work for every man who wanted it at the highest rate of wages that has ever been paid except in times of war."

"At such a time the people were called upon to elect a President and a Congress, and with that reckless spirit of change which sometimes sways the unthinking masses, the majority sowed the wind and the business of the country is now waiting for the harvest. We are told by the Democrats that the present condition of affairs is a legacy from the Republican party. That is too thin a veil to cover their incompetency, and it is not true. The Republican party in its thirty-three years of power has left legacies of which we may all feel proud. The first one is a union free and a country saved. Second, a circulating medium of gold, silver and paper, interchangeable one into the other, and every dollar as good in any foreign country as it is at home. We have also left as a legacy a banking system under which no bill holder ever lost a dollar. But the Democratic party proposes to replace this with the old red dog and shiplaster State banking system. Another legacy of the Republican party is a revenue system of protection under which the industries of the country have grown from sixteen thousand millions of dollars in 1860, to six-hundred-thirty thousand millions in 1890. Under this system of protection the government has been provided with revenue to meet all its current expenses, over $3,000,000,000 of the war debt has been wiped out; it has enabled us to provide the heroes who risked their lives for the Union with liberal and just pensions, and has protected the working man from competition with the underpaid workmen of Europe."

A HYBRID TARIFF BILL.
"The Democratic party proposes to supplant this system by a tariff which its advocates admit will not raise sufficient revenue to meet the expenses of the government. It is neither a protective nor a revenue tariff, but suggests one of those hybrids, which in nature, has not power to perpetuate itself. They will neither raise revenue for the Government nor protection for the industries of the country. What kind of statesmanship is that?"

"It took a hundred years for the Democrats to find out that a protective tariff was unconstitutional. From Washington to Cleveland nearly every President had signed tariff bills and the Supreme Court has pronounced them constitutional, but now the Democrats have just found out it is unconstitutional. It takes them about that long to find out anything new. They were even a number of years behind the Southern Democrats, who incorporated free trade in the Confederate Constitution. The Southern State's great trinity of principles were slavery, secession and free trade. The first two sleep the sleep that knows no waking and the other will join them as soon as the people prepare a sepulchre in which it is to be buried."

Mr. Grow went on to discuss the tariff at some length. He concluded his speech with a severe arraignment of President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham for their un-American and unconstitutional action in the Hawaiian matter. He said their policy had fitly been termed the "policy of infamy" and added "the American people owe it to themselves to make this act so odious that it will stand out alone in history as the only attempt that was ever made by a President to override the Constitution in order to set up a monarchy."

Chairman Packer declared the convention adjourned as soon as Mr. Grow had finished his speech and then for a short time the candidate was overwhelmed with congratulations upon his nomination and speech.

BYNUM'S ADMISSION.
TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 2.—A committee of manufacturing potters recently went to Washington to induce the Ways and Means Committee to restore some of the disastrous reduction in the proposed tariff on crockery. The delegation was turned over to Congressman Bynum, one of the prominent members of the Ways and Means Committee. Mr. Bynum was told how the pottery industry would suffer if the tariff was cut as intended.

"The only way in which we can continue in business," said the spokesman for the delegation, "is by reducing the wages of our workmen to a pitiful point in order to compete with foreign manufacturers. The trade is already anticipating what will happen. Foreign producers, we can well suppose, will even increase the paltry wages of their employees in order to get out the ware to supply the tremendous business that will come to them. Don't you see how it will affect the workmen in this country?"

Bynum's face lighted up with a smile, and he replied: "Well, you fellows will be just as well off. The increase in wages on the other side will be offset by the decrease in wages in your establishments. You can compete all right and make money."

Quick as a flash one of the delegation turned to the Congressman and said: "Do you mean to say, Mr. Bynum that the object of the Wilson bill is to increase wages in Great Britain and other countries and reduce wages in the United States?" "That's it," answered Bynum. The next minute he understood what a fatal admission he had made, bit his lip and said he trusted the delegation would consider his remarks as strictly confidential.

The above story came directly from the lips of a leading potter of this city. In looking around to see where you can reduce expenses the coming year, don't cut off your home paper. You may perhaps find in one issue an article that will pay you several times its cost. If the number of farmers who have been swindled by the vampires that are laying for them with their signing of agents appointments, which in a few weeks turn up in some bank in the shape of a note which has to be paid, or want to buy your property at a big price, and get you to betting on cards just for fun, would take a paper or two, they would see all of these nefarious methods exposed, and many of thousands of dollars would be saved to them.

During times of general business depression like these, landlords should reduce rents in keeping with the resources of the tenant. They should be as easy as possible on back payments, for many good tenants are now out of work through no fault of their own, and have all sources of revenue cut off. Sheet Music or a Novel Free. To any one sending on a postal card the names of 10 or 15 young ladies and gentlemen—all from one P. O.—between 15 and 21 years of age, who love to read, we will send a good novel or piece of sheet music free. Write plainly and address Business Journal, Beaver Springs, Pa. The Democratic State Convention met in Harrisburg on Wednesday. Up to this writing we have not learned their candidate, but it is most apt to be J. D. Hancock of Venango.

Mrs. John Walburn who lived with her son Joseph Walburn at Muney Valley, died last Saturday, after a very short illness. Friday at about six o'clock she ate a hearty supper and twenty minutes later she was taken with the grip and died Saturday at ten minutes past four. She was buried at Germany church near Dushore on Tuesday. The deceased was in her eighty-second year.

RESOLUTIONS.

On the Death of F. W. Thompson.

WHEREAS, God in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to remove from our midst one of our most zealous and well-beloved Brothers, F. W. Thompson, who departed this life December 31, 1893. As our deceased Brother was at all times a true Odd Fellow, a firm friend, honest and upright with his fellow men, outspoken in his views, sincere and candid, yet courteous and amiable. In his association with his family he was devoted and affectionate. His loss is sincerely mourned by this Lodge. Therefore be it

Resolved, That the sympathy of this Lodge is hereby extended to the family of the deceased.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be placed upon the minutes of the Lodge and copies sent to the county papers for publication.

ESTELLA ITEMS.

School begins again after a vacation of two weeks.

A number of the people are suffering with La Grippe.

Nattie Clark of Hillsgrade, is making pleasant calls on friends at this place.

The officers for the P. of H. Lodge at Estella were installed on Tuesday evening Jan. 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas King have moved in their new house and they are as cozy as can be.

There was an old fashioned quilting bee at H. M. Osler's, on Wednesday last. It is needless to say we enjoyed it.

Richard Pardoe and old and respected citizen of Elkland died Friday, the remains were buried in the Pardoe cemetery on Sunday.

The holidays passed off very quiet at Estella. A large crowd enjoyed the skating on Avery's pond, Christmas day.

Lee Rosbach had the misfortune to cut his foot quite badly last week, which confined the little fellow to the house for a few days.

Eloy says he's got the stepper now, and if the girls are in it, they can have a sleigh ride, providing there comes any snow.

Business is unusually dull. It seems too bad to lay it all to Grover. Perhaps if it would snow, so the lumbermen could do something, it would liven up.
