Only fourteen out of every one hundred farms in England are cultivated by the owners and the result is that the state of agriculture in that country is in a very unsatisfactory condition and the lands are becoming impoverished.

Now that a majority of the gardens have been made and others are undergoing that process, those allowing their chickens to run at large had better take the hint and pen them up at once, and not allow their neighbors to be annoyed with them.

The April blizzard was destructive to bird life. The dead bodies of many robins have been found under trees and in thickets where the little songsters had sought refuge from the cold storm. They had fixed the date of their engagement to sing too early in the season.

Sometime ago a festival was given and money raised by subscription for the erection of a wire fence around the Davidson cemetery. On raising the required amount the money was placed in the hands of the proper officials who ordered the wire last summer, and on its arrival stored it away where it has remained ever since. The people of Davidson are somewhat indignant that the proper officials have not carried out their contract and erected the fence as the subscription paper required.

The Muncy Luminary credits the REPUBLICAN, with saying mean things of their town regarding the small pox scare. In conclusion they say:

"Muncy is free from contagion of any kind, and neither Muncy's physicians nor Board of Health need any advice from the Sullivan county papers, as we are entirely capable of taking care of ourselves."

We would remind our brother editor that we had nothing to do with that petty slur. The article should have been credited to the Dushore Review the chronic kicker.

Pennsylvania farmers are not generally aware of the existence of a law that allows that five dollars a year for maintaining a public water trough along the highway. The law was passed in 1886, and the only restriction is that not more than one trough shall be maintained on a five mile stretch of road. Let the farmers of Sullivan county earn those five dollars a trough.

The Populist state convention was held in Harrisburg on Tuesday of last week and Jerome T. Ailman, worthy lecturer of the Pennsylvania state grange, was made the nominee for governor; Jerome B. Deisher, of Berks, auditor general. It is said that the only female delegate present was Nellie Quick, of Susquehanna county. T. S. Laird of Nordmont represented Sullivan county.

Cambria county exchanges send out the following warning of a good swindle that has been working that community for some time. A man well dressed, with a business like air, called upon persons in the rural districts and represented himself as a government detective, with the statement that there was much counterfeit coin in circulation and requested them to show what coin they had in their possession. He would then use a chemical, which would turn the coin black, declare it spurious and take it away, informing them that another secret service officer would follow in a day or two and redeem the coin taken away. The victims said nothing about it for some time for fear of being arrested for having counterfeit coin in their possession, and by this time the swindler was far away.

Little more than a year ago the land was heavy with the tread of warriors in tin helmets and plug hats. The world was melodious with the joyous strains of "Grover, Grover, four years more of Grover; In he goes, out they go, then we'll be in clover."

To-day our pants bag at the knee and we gaze with reproach at the estwhile glorious helmet. Our hearts are heavy and our wallets light; we seem to hear around us in the financial gloaming the old familiar strain—but changed Lorenzo, changed—

"Grover, Grover, three more years of Grover, Wilson bill—Silver bill—where in— the clover!"

For oranges, lemons, bananas, sweet potatoes, etc. go to BODINE & WARNS, Sonestown, Pa.

We can see no possible good that Coxe could have accomplished by his scheme in marching with his army of men upon Washington and making a speech from the Capitol steps, but so long as he observed the peace, carried no fire arms or used no threats of violence or insurrection, we believe he had the very same right to go with a body of men on foot to the nation's seat of government to influence legislation, whether right or wrong, that the hordes of other men have who roll into Washington on palace cars. If he had not, why not? We believe he is misguided in his ideas and that his demands are impracticable but there are hundreds and thousands of men in this country to-day who have been educated to believe as he does that the province of government is to make business prosperous and that the passage of certain laws will make good or hard times. The partisan press of the country is largely responsible for the wild theories entertained by such men as Coxe, but right or wrong, we claim he has just as good a right to make an effort to influence national legislation as the hordes of lobbyists who are to-day swarming about the national capital.
