The closing of factories owing to the scarcity of soft coal is another evidence of the far-reaching-effects of a strike. Thousands who have no interest are compelled to suffer.

O. L. Herman, extra freight conductor on the W. & N. B., met with a painful accident on Saturday. His train was making a flying switch at the Laporte depot, when he slipped and fell off a car and struck on a large stone cutting a fearful gash on his head. Mr. Herman considers himself quite fortunate however that he was not thrown under the car. When he realized that he could not save himself, he sprang and barely escaped being crushed train.

If times have been hard and business slow, those merchants who have wisely continued their advertising in the newspapers have done the cream of the business, getting the largest share of the trade that is going. In fact, trade naturally flows to those who have the spirit ning. He was arrested and locked and courage to ask for it. As a contemporary says: "It is a fatal remarked to an officer that unless the mistake for business men to lose courage in dull times and to imagine that trade is so bad that it is useless buildings would be destroyed by to work it up by commanding public attention."

Largest Silver Nugget Ever Mined.

ASPEN, Col., May 5 .- A nugget has been hoisted out of the Smuggler Mine that for size surpasses anything on record and for richness is certainly most remarkable. FOSTORIA, O., May 15.—One of reference, and a bad reference it FOSTORIA, O., May 15.—One of the most phenomenal gas wells ever known was discovered just west of Fostoria last night by the Chicago Oil Company. The well is situated on the James Wallace farm in Hancock county. The drill had only reached the depth of 350 feet when gas was struck, which fact makes pronounce reached the depth of 350 feet when gas was struck, which fact makes the well more of a prodigy, since gas or oil was never known to have been found here at a depth less than from 1,000 to 1,600 feet.

The drillers heard the roar of gas as the drill tapped the reservoir and ran for their lives. The drill was hurled to a height of 100 feet. The gas at once ignited from the fires of the boiler and shot a steady flame 150 feet into the air. Enough oil is thrown out with the gas to keep a large space surrounding the well as a lake of fire, and it is impossible to get closer than 100 feet to the burnaing well. The entire plant of the a lake of fire, and it is impossible to get closer than 100 feet to the burning well. The entire plant of the drillers, including the engine and boiler, is a total loss. The surrounding country is a boggy, low, wet place and for a quarter of a mile around the gas is coming up through the earth with such force that ground and water are thrown to a height of ten feet or more.

The roar of the gas can be heard for nearly ten miles. Oil men declare that nothing like it was ever known. It is an entirely new territory, and is supposed to be a pocket which will soon blow itself out. At its present rate it can never be brought under control. Its volumes goes above all records, being estimated at 50,000,000 feet per day.
