

THE REPUBLICAN

W. M. CHENEY, Editor. FRIDAY, JULY 20, 1894.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS. STATE. For Governor. GEN. D. H. HASTINGS, Centre Co. For Lieutenant Governor. WALTER LYON, Allegheny County. For Auditor General. AMOS H. MYLIN, Lancaster County. For Secretary of Internal Affairs. GEN. JAMES W. LATTA, Philadelphia. For Congressman-at-Large. GALUSHA A. GROW, Susquehanna Co. GEORGE F. HUFF, Westmoreland Co.

DEFIES HIS PARTY. The tariff bill passed the Senate on Tuesday evening July 10th, having a majority of five votes. Before casting his vote against the bill Senator Hill, who was the only Democrat who opposed it made this defiant speech: "The majority of the Democratic Senators of this body (of which thirty-one are from the South), allied with the three Populists and with six Republicans, have insisted upon the retention of an income tax in the pending measure. I have earnestly appealed to my party friends to eliminate this objectionable feature. But my appeals have been in vain. I have warned them of the danger to which, in my judgment they were unnecessarily subjecting the Democratic party, but they have chosen to disregard them as was their privilege. They have preferred the retention of an odious income tax in a tariff bill, regardless of what the consequence may be. Mr. President, the course which has thus been marked out is unwise, inexorable and unnecessary. It resembles the greater folly of thirty-three years ago, when the Democratic party was rent in twain and Republicanism triumphed for twenty-four years thereafter. In my opinion it imperils the possibility of permanent Democratic success in any Northern State for many years to come. You array against us in almost solid form the entire business men of the country. You foist upon the party a principle of taxation never sanctioned by any Democratic National Convention.

"You do not seem to realize that you have no jurisdiction to add to or change the principles of our party, but you disregard precedent in your mad haste to adopt a Populistic principle. You have purposely and obstinately insisted upon retaining an income tax in this bill, so as to compel Democratic Senators either to vote for the income tax or to vote against the whole bill. You have left them no other alternative. "This was unfair, unjust, unpolicy, but this course was adopted, not thoughtlessly, but designedly, not that you loved tariff reform less, but you loved an income tax more. Mr. President, as between a Populistic income tax on the one hand and a Republican tariff law on the other, I choose the latter as the least of two evils. As between pernicious class legislation, fraught with dangerous consequences to the country, on the one hand, and simply high tariff taxation on the other, I prefer to endure the latter, at least for a brief period, if I am compelled to choose between them. I do this with some reluctance, because I always regret to differ with party friends, but the consciousness of right and my own respect forbid any other course. Besides, you have made my path of duty an easy one. The Senate bill, the Gorman compromise bill, as it is now generally known in the press throughout the country—mean the bill in its present shape—is neither satisfactory to the Democratic party nor to the country. There is no mistaking public sentiment upon this point. The true principles of tariff reform have been sacrificed in the effort to insure the retention of an income tax. This the country believes; this the country understands. We promised the people bread, and we are giving them a stone. We promised them free raw materials, and we are giving them taxed coal, taxed iron ore, taxed coke, taxed lead and other taxed raw materials. They expected free raw sugar, but we are taxing not only that article, but other necessities of life. We do not need both a sugar tax and an income tax; but it seems that considerations other than those of revenues to the Treasury have dictated and retained both. "The provisions of the bill are not consistent; they violate well established Democratic principles; they are unfair in their discriminations, and their enactment will place the Democratic party in a false and untenable position. It is clear the bill in its present form should be changed, modified and improved. The bill, as it stands, is done, and it is our duty to do it now, before it is too late. As it now stands, it puts our party on the defensive; it repudiates our pledges; it exposes us to just criticism and ridicule, which ought to be avoided. Eliminate the income tax, and there is no difficulty in framing an honest, consistent and genuine tariff bill upon strict revenue lines, with all raw materials free, which can be passed by the vote of every Democratic Senator without the aid of a single Populist vote, and which the country would welcome and approve. This is not even pretended to be such a measure. Numerous Senators around the Democratic side of this chamber must feel as though Democratic principles have been surrounded or bartered away to secure the triumph of this botched compromise measure, which is really acceptable to no one. I am sure that if they expressed their honest sentiments they do not approve this bill any more than I do. The issue of tariff reform had better be postponed and preserved intact rather than uncalculated, disguised and despoiled in the manner now proposed. Let there be a genuine, sincere and essential triumph for the cause of revenue revision or none at all. If Republican protection was a fraud and robbery, as we declared in the Chicago platform, is Democratic protection any the less so? "If we are to have an income tax and a sugar tax both, then unless the other provisions of the bill prove ineffectual, we shall be met with an enormous surplus against which we protested so vigorously a few years ago, and it is now to be said that the Democratic surplus is less objectionable than a Republican surplus? This is not a Democratic bill. I am sure: it is not a distinctly Republican bill; it is not a Populist bill entire, but it is a mixture of all—it is a ragbag production—it is a crazy quilt combination—it is a splendid nothing.

"I believe the income tax feature as a whole and in many of its details to be unconstitutional. But why detain the Senate? My objections to the bill have been stated over and over again, and it is useless to repeat them. Each Senator must be judge of his own duty to his country and his party in a crisis like this. I cast no reflections upon those who differ with me. This bill does not meet the public expectations, but at best is an empty and beggarly fulfillment of Democratic pledges. It does those things which it ought not to do, and leaves undone those things which it ought to do. "Mr. President, I do not fail to appreciate the gravity of the situation, but the course which duty and consistency require me to pursue at this hour is as clear to me as the noonday sun. "Sink or swim, live or die, survive or perish, I cannot and will not support this bill in its present shape."

SUPREME COURT ON FISHING. As we have many times been asked concerning the recent decision of the supreme court on angling we give the text as published by our exchanges: It holds that streams stocked with fish procured from the state fish commission are not private, and all streams are public unless the fish are actually propagated. To do this so that streams may become legally private, the spawn of the fish intended to be propagated must be kept separate in a screen cell, the fry, when hatched, put into another screen cell, and so on until they are large enough to take care of themselves. Even then, if the person who is propagating them would own them, he must keep them confined by themselves, and so much of the stream becomes private as is within the screens placed there by the owner. A pond surrounded by the owner's land, without any continuous flow, may be called a private pond, but if the water of a pond covers a large surface of land, and a person whose lands are covered only by a part of the water places fish therein for the purpose of propagation, he does not by such act make it a private pond. Neither is a notice that "All persons are hereby notified not to trespass on these lands or fish in this pond" a sufficient notice to make it illegal for either strangers or neighbors to so trespass or fish. The mere placing of fish in a stream or a pond for purposes of propagation, does not make such water private under the statute even on the property of the person where the fish were put in.

This decision is directly opposite to the previous acceptance of the law on this subject, under which many prosecutions and convictions have been brought and obtained. It is a great surprise to anglers and a very enjoyable one to many, as it will release from exclusiveness many popular waters that have been held at the pleasure of a few, under the supposed authority of the law which the supreme court now decides is an authority the law does not give.

BUCKALEW FOR CONGRESS. The Ex-United States Senator to Offset Galusha A. Grow. The Phila. Inquirer must be hard pressed for news when it goes into the Democratic ranks for this stuff: "A prominent Democratic politician from Columbia county, who was in Philadelphia last night, brought the information that ex-United States Senator Charles R. Buckalew is to be nominated as the candidate for Congress in the Seventeenth representative district. This district embraces the counties of Columbia, Sullivan, Montour and Northumberland, and is at present represented by Simon P. Wolverton. Most of the younger element have been consistently and emphatically opposed to Mr. Buckalew, but they say exigencies have arisen this year which make it desirable that he shall have an unopposed nomination. "The object in bringing him to the surface at this time is to offset Galusha A. Grow in the House of Representatives. Grow has proven such a picturesque figure that the Democracy feels it incumbent upon them to offer a counter attraction. There is, however, a stronger and deeper reason for his nomination at this time. The Democratic candidate for Governor is anxious to bring out the full party vote at the coming election, and for this reason he desires to have the strongest and most prominent men nominated in each of these districts."—Phila. Inquirer, July 11th.

The Inquirer gives it as a certainty that Mr. Buckalew will be our next Congressman. Had the reporter talked with a representative of the Republican side of the house he would have learned that we entertain a very strong hope that a Republican will hold down that chair during the next session of Congress.

CHICAGO, July 17.—There was a sensational climax late this afternoon to the troubles that have disturbed railroad circles west of the Allegheny mountains during the past three weeks when President Eugene V. Debs, of the American Railway Union, and his cabinet, Vice President George A. Howard, General Secretary Sylvester Kelliker, and L. W. Rogers, Chairman of the Executive Committee, were taken to the county jail and incarcerated as prisoners of the injunction issued on July 2, by Judges Woods and Greason, restraining them from combining and conspiring to hinder interstate commerce or traffic or the movement of the United States mails.

You've heard the poet of this town, Express their little wit, How "Cowboy Charlie" lost the day By stones and buggy-whip. How he shaved off his mustache, Not to deceive the moth er, But to let them know That a MAN could raise another.

Remember wives that once you was young With powder on your face, The cowboy he was absent then, But the "Oruga Peddler" filled his place.

The cowboy of Estella town, Has been single all his life, He never tried to hide his faults, Or deceive a living wife.

We are surprised, we do confess, 'T would make a stateside bluish, To see a man send his wife to the front While he laid in the brush.

In Texas where the cowboy roams His heart is filled with va-ho, But he has a diff rant bear, It's full of sweet amor.

The Apostle Peter he was stoned, And so was Stephen too, So let the cowboy take his share For the good deeds he may do.

Now good men take my advice, And be a cowboy bold, For a hero on the plains, Is worth his weight in gold.

Cowboy's Motto. Now parents who have daughters fair, (Regardless of whips and stones), If we should meet them far abroad We'll see them safe at home.
