

Gresham's Successor.

It is reported from Washington that President Cleveland is considering the name of Attorney-General Olney in connection with the selection of a successor to the late Secretary Gresham.

The vacancy in the State Department gives Mr. Cleveland an opportunity to bring into his Cabinet a statesman whose name and record will be a guarantee of a broad and vigorous policy in the conduct of foreign affairs.

Now is the time when Mr. Cleveland may go far to rectify the mistakes which have alienated the confidence of the country from the State Department by calling to his side some member of his party who is known to stand for the maintenance and enforcement of a distinctly American policy.

Mr. Olney is one of the members of the administration who is farthest removed from such an identity. His experience in public affairs was limited up to the time of his advent into the Cleveland Cabinet.

Mr. Cleveland's task ought not to be a difficult one, that is, if he is prepared to recognize the wisdom of shaping his administration in accord with the national aspirations of the American people.

The Agricultural Department has decided that the peanut is not a nut, but a pea. Thus does the present administration gradually solve problems of great pith and moment that were neglected by its Republican predecessors.

Prosperity in Sight.

When Republican newspapers prophesied revived national prosperity as the result of Republican victory last November they told the truth. The crushing defeat of the Democratic wreckers in every Northern State has unbarred the factory doors and relighted the furnace fires.

American energy, enterprise and courage are asserting themselves with old time vigor now that the menace of Democratic destruction has been removed.

Lincoln and Douglas.

Editor Atkins, in the Freeport (Ill.) Journal.—We recently printed an article by Joseph Medill (Editor Chicago Tribune) containing his recollections of the joint debate between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglass.

Mr. Lincoln, after listening replied to all Messrs. Washburn and Judd had to say, as follows: "Well, I do not know what answer Mr. Douglas will make; but if he answers that slavery cannot be excluded from a Territory I will beat him in Illinois and be elected Senator; and if he answers as you say he will, and as I now think he will, that slavery can be excluded from a Territory, he will beat me for Senator, but he will never be elected President."
