For fifty years I have helped my friends and neighbors with horses they could not drive safely, writes J. Keese, of New York.

Almost from the time that gardening and treepainting became a diversion or industry there have been men dabbling in quick nostrums for accomplishing impossible results on the growth of cultivated plants.

A FRIEND OF AGRICULTURE.

The death of Louis Pasteur recalls how much agriculture owes to this great and most useful scientist. It was his discovery of the germ by which the silkworm was diseased, and the yeast germ, by which fermentation in beer that led to the souring of it, was caused.

TESTING AND PRESERVING EGGS.

FASHION NOTES.

Persian silks have hairlines of black velvet.

Fur boas have lace and flower hangings in front.

Chiffon boas are dotted with tiny humming birds.

Traveling hats are of soft felt, like a man's slouch hat.

Mario Antoinette flosses are made of corded silk muslin.

Baby pins of tiny turquoise are set in a narrow gold bar.

Black and white striped velvet is suitable for rich waists.

Star-shaped buttons are composed of rhinestones and pearls.

Tam O'Shanter traveling caps are made of soft woolen goods.

Plaids are fashionable now, but are the French plaids, not the Scotch.

The combination of black and white remains distinctly fashionable, notwithstanding it has been so long in vogue.

Small jeweled buckles are used for trimmings, and, like the fancy buttons, give a dash of brilliancy and effect that is most satisfactory.

Short velvet coats with skirts of smooth cloth will be among the favorite dresses of brides for calling costumes, and will also be worn by guests at the wedding.

Although many of the new-fashioned waists are made with basque effect there is no sign that belts, and consequently buckles, are to be put away until next season.

Shawl costumes are revived for traveling. They are made of laid-by shawls and very tastefully show seamless jacket backs and half-loose fronts. A velvet vest fastened with knob buttons fills in the open space.

A Novel Incubator.

The idea of hatching eggs by electricity may appear somewhat far-fetched, but electric incubation is not only being carried on in Germany, but is growing up into an important industry. A Strasburg electrician, after three years' experimenting, declares that with the electrical incubator ninety chickens can ordinarily be counted on out of every 100 eggs.

Booths are to be erected in the squares of Copenhagen containing telephons, conveniences for writing and an office for receiving letters, besides a newspaper and boot black stands.

A Dangerous Tiger.

A well known student in the habits of wild animals, writing of the stealthy and dangerous character of the man-eating tiger, mentions a case that happened a few years ago in the Nagpur district in India. A tigress had killed so many people that a large reward was offered for her destruction.

THE SHIKARI BELIEVED THAT SHE WOULD RETURN TO HER PROY DURING THE NIGHT, IF IT WAS LEFT UNDISTURBED UPON THE SPOT WHERE SHE HAD FORSAKEN IT.

She had recently dragged away a native, but being disturbed had left the body without devouring it.

FOUR WATCHERS, EACH WITH HIS MATCHLOCK TOOK THEIR POSITIONS IN THESE HOOKS. NOTHING CAME AND AT LENGTH THE MOON WENT DOWN AND THE NIGHT WAS DARK.

The men were afraid to go home through the jungles and so remained where they were. Some of them fell asleep.

WHEN DAYLIGHT BROKE THREE OF THE SHIKARI ISSUED FROM THEIR POSITIONS, BUT THE FOURTH HAD DISAPPEARED; HIS HOLE WAS EMPTY.

A few yards distant upon the ground and upon the dusty surface were the tracks of a tiger and the sweeping trace where some large body had been dragged along.

UPON FOLLOWING UP THE TRACK, THE REMAINS OF THE UNLUCKY SHIKARI WERE DISCOVERED, BUT THE TIGRESS HAD DISAPPEARED.

The cunning brute was not killed until twelve months afterward, although many persons devoted themselves to the work.—Atlanta Constitution.

MUSTARD A DELICACY.

The mustard without the beef was offered to Katherine the Shrew in derision, but if Shakespeare's heroine had been in China the suggestion would have been quite natural.

WHEN THE CHINESE DELEGATES MET THEIR ENGLISH COLLEAGUES IN THE SIKKIM-TIBET BOUNDARY COMMISSION A FEW DAYS AGO NONE OF THE ENGLISH FARO AT LUNCHEON IN CAMP WAS SO APPETIZING AS THE MUSTARD.

The Chinese leader ate the condiment in good-sized mouthfuls without a morsel of meat or bread.—Boston Transcript.
