Mr. Kirk recently purchased a new team of horses, and while driving them they became frightened at the escaping steam from a mill near his home, and ran away, throwing him off a bridge down into the run. He struck on his head on the ice, rendering him unconscious. He was taken home and medical aid summoned who found that while somewhat bruised he was not dangerously hurt.

SUDDEN DEATH OF AMBROSE E. FARRELL, AT LOPEZ

A Useful Life Sadly Ended. Generous, Sympathetic, Patriotic. Beloved By All.

On Thursday last at 3 a. m., Ambrose E. Farrell of Lopez, was suddenly stricken with heart trouble and survived but a few moments. Not the slightest warning preceded the final summons and this death was a terrible shock to his devoted family as well as to the entire community. Spending the previous evening in the company of his family and friends, he seemed unusually buoyant, little dreaming that the Angel of Death even then hovered o'er him waiting for the signal to strike the fatal blow. Sad and untimely as seems his end, yet for the consolation of his bereaved family and friends comes home with assuaging force the conviction of the purity and integrity of his life; for "How long we live, not years but actions tell. That man lives twice, who lives the first life well."

Born in Dushore, Pa., about 47 years ago of Celtic parents he early learned the sacred lessons of Catholic piety—lessons that he faithfully and perseveringly practiced. It was there too that he learned the story of the oppression of his ancestors—a story that fired his young and noble heart with a determination to always assist and sympathize with the distressed and oppressed of every creed, a resolution that he carried out and that marked him as generous patriotic and brave.

In the public schools he laid the corner stone of his education, upon which by observation, wide and varied reading, he placed the superstructure such as all self made men erect.

Early in life he embarked in the lumber industry and afterwards became identified with mining business. By assiduous labor and frugal economy he accumulated considerable money. In 1889 he and Mr. Jerry Deegan embarked in the hotel business at Lopez, where they conducted a model hostelry.

During all these years he was ever identified with any move that might prove conducive to the best interest of the community, and in recognition of his valued services he was selected to fill many offices of responsible trust. In politics he was a member of the Democracy and was a recognized leader of his party, being sent to represent it at judicial, senatorial and state conventions. In 1894 he was placed in nomination for the office of Representative of Sullivan county, but suffered defeat in the memorable disaster that befel the party throughout the country.

His funeral obsequies were held at Lopez on Saturday morning, where Rev. J. A. Burdick celebrated a high Mass and delivered a touching eulogy. The music was rendered by a choir of eight voices and was of a high order. At the offertory, "A Message from the Sacred Heart" was feelingly rendered.

The floral tributes were many—that the gift of Hon. B. W. Jennings an anchor in the lilies of the valley, being especially beautiful.

After the services the remains were borne to Dushore where they were interred in St. Basil's cemetery in the presence of sorrowing hundreds.

Patrick Martin was funeral conductor; the pall-bearers were: James Connor, John Daley, James Mahar, Edward Donegan, Michael Rouse and Chas. Smith.

To his bereaved wife and family goes forth the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community, and to his God a fervent prayer for his eternal repose.

"O grave where is thy victory! Oh, death where is thy sting. His noble spirit conquers thee and to its God takes wing. To mingle in communion sweet with the angelic host. To share their joys, their peace, their love to know eternal rest."

Some question has arisen in the midst of lawyers and laymen whether the law of 1895 providing for the election of constables in 1896 for a period of three years and before the term of their predecessors had expired is constitutional or not. The question has already been considered in Carbon county and Judge Craig on Monday decided in favor of the law of 1895 and the constables elected this spring were sworn into office upon the first day of the session of court. Those who failed of re-election and thus are deprived of a part of their term are considering the matter of contesting their claim further.

The political pot is simmering in Sullivan county and the outlook favors a "boil over." There are to be elected this fall, a Congressman, Representative, Treasurer, three County Commissioners, two Associate Judges and three County Auditors. For Congressman we know of no republican candidate in Sullivan county and it is presumed that if Farmer Kulp is desirous of entering the field for a second term, that he will be accorded the support of the Sullivan county conferees. For Representative—Hon. B. W. Jennings (Rep.) is spoken of as an available nominee, but as yet, Mr. Jennings has not given his name as a positive candidate. On the democratic side Mr. Thos. Gehan of Cherry is mentioned as their nominee. The friends of J. C. Pennington would like to see him nominated for County Treasurer. Mr. Pennington is a republican and served his country in the late war. He was discharged from this service with honors. Joseph was sold out by the Sheriff recently. He was one of ex-Treasurer Jacob Lorah's bondsmen and his property was sold to assist in paying the claim held against Lorah by the county. This adversity will make him many friends throughout the county. A. T. Armstrong of Davidson and J. H. Spencer of Laporte are spoken of on the democratic side. For Associate Judges—A. B. Kilmor of Shunk, and C. Peale, Jr., of Eagles Mere are among the list of republicans and Conrad Kraus, of Cherry twp., Jerry Stackhouse of Shrewsbury, M. J. Phillips and Robert Taylor of Davidson twp., are mentioned as the democratic aspirants. It would seem that everybody would like to serve as County Commissioner.

There are three to be elected and it would appear that there are three dozen candidates in the field. Among the republican list are: Henry Hoffmaster of Cherry, Hite Osler of Elkland, D. W. Darling of Davidson and A. Baker of Laporte twp. E. S. Chase of Eagles Mere, is being urged by friends to enter the field. On the democratic side we have heard the names of D. A. Taylor, D. C. Gritman, Marcus Horn all of Davidson, Gabriel Litzelman of Cherry and others whom we cannot recall, mentioned. Candidates for County Auditors on either side have not, as yet, put in an appearance.

It is a long time until May court at which time the matter generally takes form, and like a horse race, some of the entries may not show up at the start, while others may show up who have not yet signified their intention of doing so.

OUTINGS AT EAGLES MERE.

Chautauqua Association Permanently Organized.

Lock Haven Democrat.

At the meeting held at the Lakeside hotel at Eagles Mere on Labor Day last, by a number of prominent gentlemen, it was decided to take the necessary steps to charter a Chautauqua association. One of the enthusiastic supporters of the movement is Rev. N. H. Schenck, of this city. Since the meeting at Eagles Mere the projectors have met at different times since until now the association is duly constituted. A few months ago the association received its charter from the state department the name being "Eagles Mere Chautauqua." The officers that have been elected are: General James A. Beaver, president, Bellefonte; C. William Woddrop, first vice president, Hughesville; C. La Rue Munson, second vice president Williamsport; B. Harvey Welch, treasurer, Philadelphia; Jeremiah Kelly, recording secretary, Hughesville; Benjamin G. Welch, corresponding secretary, Hughesville; Rev. N. H. Schenck, general superintendent, Lock Haven.

At a recent meeting of the directors the perfecting of arrangements of the meeting during next summer was left to an executive committee, of which Rev. Schenck, the general superintendent, is also a member.

Mr. Schenck stated to-day that the Chautauqua would hold its first outing next summer for four weeks, the opening taking place July 23. The program will consist of lectures and entertainments each day and evening. Schools of elocution, pedagogy languages, physical culture, music, kindergarten, etc., will be established. Efforts are being made to have the first meeting of such a character that it will create enthusiasm and again the popularity that will insure an undoubted permanency of the movement.

A large plot of ground has been secured by the Chautauqua association on which the annual meeting will be held. In addition to land already owned by some of the projectors many more acres were secured through the generosity of the land company. This land is in close proximity to the large beautiful lake at Eagles Mere, and on an elevation sloping to and from the body of water. When the buildings contemplated are eventually erected, the situation will prove an ideal place for the holding of such an intellectual outing.

Eagles Mere possesses many advantages for the holding of these annual meetings. It is over 2,200 feet above the level of the sea, which assures healthful and other desirable influences. Situated in the northern central part of Pennsylvania, it will be within convenient reaching distance of people residing in central and western Pennsylvania and southern New York. During the summer season the population of the resort is largely increased by residents of New York, Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia and Williamsport. The hotels are up to date; in fact many other advantages might be mentioned, but lack of space prevents.

Rev. Mr. Schenck is now engaged in securing lecturers, and instructors, and as soon as he has the program completed further notice of the arrangements will be published.

Many prominent citizens and officials of the state have been conferred with relative to the movement nearly all of whom expressed their undoubted confidence in the success of the association, and many people have manifested their willingness to contribute of their time and money to assure its permanency.

There is a movement on foot to change the state constitution so as to permit of yearly sessions of the Legislature. The proposition, it is said, is meeting with much favor in many parts of the state and it is probable that it will be submitted at the next meeting of the Legislature for deliberation. Senator Penrose is quoted as saying: "I am decidedly in favor of annual sessions of the Legislature, provided they shall be limited to, say ninety days. The biennial system has proven unsatisfactory in many ways, and is open to grave objection on many grounds. To secure annual sessions of the Legislature, however, it will be necessary to change the state constitution which can only be done in one or two ways. There must be a constitutional convention or else a constitutional amendment must be passed by the Legislature. An effort was made to secure a constitutional convention in 1889, but the attempt was defeated. Whether a similar attempt made this year would be successful is a question. There is no doubt that a constitutional convention is needed, not only to provide for yearly sessions of the legislature, but to make other important alterations in the present constitution."
