STOP YER KICKIN'.

Stop yer kickin' 'bout the times—
Git a hustle on you;
Skirmish 'round and grab the dimes
Ef the dollars shun you.
Croakin' never bought a dress,
Growlin' isn't in it.
Fix your peepers on success,
Then go in to win it.
Times is gittin' good agin—
Try to help them all you kin.

Don't sit 'round with hangin' lip;
That is sure to floor you.
Try to git a better grip
On the work before you;
Put some ginger in yer words
When you greet a neighbor;
Throw your troubles to the birds,
Git right down to labor,
An' you'll notice ev'ry day
Things is comin' right yourway.

Stop yer lickin' git a hold
Of the wheel and turn it.
You kin never handle gold
'Less you try to earn it.
Brush the colwets from your eyes
Stop your blam'd repinin'
An' you'll notice that yer skies
Allus'll be shinin'
If you hain't the nerve to try
Sneak away somewhere and die.

YES, STOP YER KICKIN'. THIS EVERLASTING KICKIN' HAS GOT TO BE AN INTOLERABLE NUISANCE.

Klondyke and Jakersville.

Letter from a visitor to that country where the thermometer, could not hang outside of any of the camps and the mercury left for a warmer climate.

J. M. Osler of Klondyke is pushing the logs to the creek on his job in a first class style.

It makes Mose Randall, smoke and steam like an engine while loading the teams.

Willie Williams of Slabtown, keeps a singing there is a vacant chair now in camp. Keyser ought to see Willie now.

Mose Randall will be a full fledged back woodsman of 60 when he leaves camp.

Miss M. Bower is greatly missed since she left Klondyke for home to visit her friends.

Mrs. Mose Randall is studying the german language in her spare moments, while studying what side dishes for the next meal.

There are a great many up's and downs with some of the teamsters at Klondyke especially if they get over the guard logs. The Arkansas Traveler drops into camp to cheer up the boys very often.

Jakersville.

Mrs. Grant Little has left camp for a visit to her mothers and friends.

They do say that Watson Mosier took the largest load of bark to the tannery.

Watson knows how to get around the boys.

Hiram Osler and J. W. Hess of Lincoln Fall are breaking their colts in on Grant Little's bark job.

Al. K. of Elkland is showing some of the young bark haulers how to come out of the woods on a bark rig; it keeps the boys warm to keep up with Al.

Ben Molyneux is a great guide through that cold region, he can keep a quarter of a mile ahead of you with his snow shoes on.

Ben had an accident last week while in Dushore, two of his companions had to make a sleigh of them, alives to bring Benny into camp, he says he got it over here.

They will miss Mrs. Little in camp this Saturday, they have a musical every Saturday night there her tenor voice will be vacant.

Mrs. E. Moore left camp in her Portland cutter for Forksville on business.

You can always tell when Seth Shoemaker is coming out of the woods before the sun is up, with fry steeds, he is always singing, the girl I left behind me. Which one Seth?

Ben Molyneux is going to put out a sign at Grant Little's camp artistic furniture made here, childrens bed room sets a specialty. Stick to it, Benny there is plenty of wood in Jakersville.

Watson Hosier Al Kay have been on the sick list, Al K. got into the harness in the afternoon.

A Fatal Accident.

Special Correspondence.

A very sad accident occurred about one mile north-west of this place on Wednesday, January 26, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, which resulted in the death of Frank McGuire about two hours later.

Charley McGuire, an older brother, had a job of hauling logs to the Loyal Sock Creek. On Wednesday as he returned from a trip to the creek he called at his home to get Frank to go with him to the woods about a half mile distant to help him put on a load of logs.

At first Frank objected to go, saying that it was not safe for them to load the logs alone. When they had loaded on the bottom course of logs and started to roll quite a good sized log on top; when they got it part way up, it being somewhat crooked, Frank went over on the other side of the sleds and took as he thought a good hold with his canthook, saying, "let it come."

Charley started to roll it on; the log being crooked and slippery it swung around. Frank having the canthook on his shoulder, his feet slipped and he fell, the log rolling on top of him, crushing his head between that and the other log. Charley rolled the log off of him as soon as he could, being terribly frightened, and raised his head up, when the blood spurted out of his ears and mouth and he said, "lay me down Charley, I feel so bad."

He only spoke once after this. Charley rolled the logs off the sleds and lifted him on as carefully as he could and drove home; his mother seeing them drive up, fainted. He called to Wm. Wheatley, who lives nearby to assist in carrying Frank into the house. Charley jumped into a cutter and drove to Forksville as fast as horse flesh could go; Drs. Gross and Woodhead responding to the call in all possible haste. Frank died about twenty minutes before the doctors arrived. One side of his head and face was so crushed that the arteries in his head were ruptured that he literally bled to death.

Frank was born at Proctor, Lycoming county, November 22, 1879, and died January 26, 1898, being at the time of his death, 19 years, 2 months and 4 days. His remains were interred at Sugar Ridge cemetery. He was a sober, industrious hard working young man; never idle when there was work to be done. He was quiet and unassuming, one who would rather listen than talk himself, enjoyed a quiet and innocent joke, and one of the best natured boys the writer ever met; always having a good word for everyone. He was never better pleased than when he was doing some kind act for his widowed mother or his sister he leaves to mourn his loss.

Estella.

The moon saw Lis shalow on the second of this month and according to the old Indian proverb we will have six weeks more steady winter.

The snow storms, wind and weather was the most severe last week that has been known for over thirty years. Almost all throughout the United States and even across the big water, as there was several vessels lost in the English channel over a thousand vessels being wrecked in all on the Atlantic coast and the big lakes.

Miss Nellie Bird has returned from Jakersville.

Wm. B. Stryker, son and daughter of Montoursville were visiting friends here the latter part of last week.
