

DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON.

SUNDAY'S DISCOURSE BY THE NOTED DIVINE.

Martyrdom of Stephen the Theme For an Able Sermon—Glimpses of Heaven Through the Eyes of the Great Preacher—The Eternal Sleep.

Text: "Behold I see the heavens opened," etc.—Acts vii, 56-60.

Stephen had been preaching a rousing sermon, and the people could not stand it. They resolved to do as men sometimes would like to do in this day, if they dared, with some plain preacher of righteousness—kill him. The only way to silence this man was to knock the breath out of him. So they rushed Stephen out of the gates of the city, and with curse and whoop and bellow they brought him to the cliff, as was the custom when they had to take away life by stoning. Having led him to the edge of the cliff, they pushed him off. After he had fallen they came and looked down, and seeing that he was not yet dead they began to drop stones upon him, stone after stone, until he was horribly hurt. As missiles Stephen clammers up on his knees and folds his hands, while the blood drips from his temples to his cheeks, from his cheeks to his garments, from his garments to the ground, and then looking up, he makes two prayers—one for himself and one for his murderers. "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit;" that was for himself; "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge;" that was for his assailants. Then from pain and loss of blood he swooned away and fell asleep.

I want to show you to-day five pictures—Stephen gazing into heaven, Stephen looking at Christ, Stephen stoned, Stephen in his dying prayer and Stephen asleep.

First look at Stephen gazing into heaven. Before you take a leap you want to know where you are going to land. Before you climb a ladder you want to know to what point the ladder reaches. And it was right that Stephen, within a few moments of heaven, should be gazing into it. We would all do well to be found in the same posture. There is enough in heaven to keep us gazing. A man of large wealth may have statures in the hall and paintings in the sitting room and works of art in all parts of the house, but he has the chief pictures in the art gallery, and there hour after hour you walk with catalogue and glass and ever increasing admiration. Well heaven is the gallery where God has gathered the chief treasures of his realm. The whole universe is his palace. In this lower room where we stop there are many adornments, tessellated floor of amethyst, and on the winding cloud stairs are stretched out canvases on which are painted the purple and saffron and gold. But heaven is the gallery in which the chief glories are gathered. There are the richest robes. There are the highest exaltations. John says of it, "The kings of the earth will bring their honor and glory into it." And I see the procession of glory into it. And I see the procession of hosts to march under. The hosts keep step to the sound of earthquake and the pitch of avalanche from the mountains, and the flag they bear is the flame of a consuming world, and all heaven turns out with harps and trumpets and myriad voiced acclamation of angelic dominion to welcome them in, and so the kings of the earth bring their honor and glory into it. Do you wonder that good people often stand, like Stephen, looking into heaven? We have many friends there.

There is not a man in this house today so isolated in life as Stephen is some one in heaven with whom he once shook hands. As a man gets older the number of his celestial acquaintances very rapidly multiplies. We have not had one glimpse of them since the night we kissed them good-bye, and they were looking into it. Do you wonder that good people often stand, like Stephen, looking into heaven? We have many friends there.

A TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

THE DRINK EVIL MADE MANIFEST IN MANY WAYS.

"Where There's Drink There's Danger"—The Worst Tenant is Alcohol—When Once It Gets Into the Earthly Tabernacle It Proceeds to Become a Nuisance

Write it on the workhouse gate, Write it on the schoolboy's slate, Write it on the copybook, That the young man of open look, "Where there's drink, there's danger."

Write it on the churchyard mound, Where the rum-sick dead are found; Write it on the gallows high, Write for all the passers-by, "Where there's drink, there's danger."

Write it on the nation's laws, Write it after every clause, Write it on each ballot white, So it can be read aright, "Where there's drink, there's danger."

Write it on our ships that sail, Borne aloft by storm and gale; Write it large in letters plain, Over every land and main, "Where there's drink, there's danger."

Write it over every gate, Write it on the halls of state, In the hearts of every band, On the laws of every land, "Where there's drink, there's danger."

A Bad Tenant. An owner of real estate who rents his property is very desirous of securing good tenants. A bad tenant does not pay his rent, is not careful of the property, destroys the house, breaks the windows, tears the paper from the walls if he feels so inclined, and in this respect does not do as he would be done by. He is not as careful with other people's property as he would be with his own. He is an expensive tenant, making repairs necessary for the next tenant who shall occupy the premises after he has been removed, or been ejected.

He may be a bad tenant in other ways; noisy, quarrelsome with his neighbors, who though I get weary of him, he could lift me on his omnipotent shoulder. What though there were chasms to cross. His hand could transport me. Then let Stephen's prayer be my dying litaney, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit."

A Woman's Burden.

From the Evening News, Detroit, Mich.

The women of to-day are not as strong as their grandmothers. They are bearing a burden in silence that grows heavier day by day; that is sapping their vitality and clouding their happiness.

From the Evening News, Detroit, Mich. The women of to-day are not as strong as their grandmothers. They are bearing a burden in silence that grows heavier day by day; that is sapping their vitality and clouding their happiness. Mrs. Alexander B. Clark, of 417 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, is a typical woman of today. A wife with such ambition as only a loving wife can have. But the joys of her life were marred by the existence of disease.

Suffering as thousands of her sisters have suffered, she almost despaired of life and yet she was cured. "For five years I suffered with ovarian trouble," is Mrs. Clark's own version of the story. "I was not free one single day from headache and intense neuralgia, and my shoulders, for months at a time I would be confined to my bed. At times black spots came before my eyes and I would be cured blind. My nerves were in such a state that a step on the floor unsettled me."

"Eminent doctors, skillful nurses, the best of medicine failed. Then I consented to an operation. That, too, failed, and they said another was necessary. After the second I was worse than ever and the world was darker than before. "It was then I heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I heard that they had cured cases like mine and I tried them."

"They cured me! They brought sunshine to my life and filled my cup with happiness. The headache is gone; the twitching is gone; the nervousness is gone; the trembling has ceased, and I have gained twenty-six pounds. Health and strength is mine and I am thankful to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People for the blessing of health. These pills are a boon to womankind. Acting directly on the blood and nerves, they restore the requisite vitality to all parts of the body; creating functional regularity and perfect harmony throughout the nervous system. The delicate blush of health; the eyes brighten; the muscles grow elastic, ambition is created and good health results."

There are fifty-three sardine factories in Maine, and an English syndicate is desirous of obtaining. Beauty in Blood Deep. Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it.
