REPUBLICAN NEWS ITEM, Laporte Pa.,

Laporte Pa.,

Harrisburg, April 11.—The legislature will adjourn on the 20th inst., and in the nine days remaining there is promise of some of the most exciting kind of politics. Backed by the sentiment of the great mass of the Republican voters of the commonwealth in favor of party loyalty and regularity, the supporters of Colonel Quay for the United States senatorship have returned from their homes determined to march behind the party's standard to the end of the battle. There will be no surrender to the guerrillas under the leadership of Filin, of Allegheny, and Martin, of Philadelphia, the discredited city bosses, backed by the financial resources of Wanamakerism, representing the most selfish principles in politics.

During the last few days there has tics,

During the last few days there has been a preconcerted effort on the part of the newspapers, thriving on the immense advertising patronage of Wanamaker, to place the responsibility for the deadlock upon Colonel Quay. They totally ignore the fact that he is the caucus nominee for senator and that a mere minority has, up to date, prevented the election of the Republican nominee.

ISSUE BEYOND QUAY.

Senator Quay has not the power to break the deadlock by taking himself out of the way. The question is one that is far above and beyond Quay. It is a question of the right of the Republican party of Pennsylvania to make a nomination and to insist that the voice of the majority shall be the voice of the party. That is the issue and there is no other. Senator Quay would be an ingrate should he advocate the surrender of the majority to a small and malicious minority. He cannot do that. It is his duty to remain a candidate until the end and throw all the responsibility of the deadlock upon the shoulders of those where it rightly belongs.

Senator Quay cannot prevent the deadlock, but Boss Flinn, of Pittsburg, and ex-Boss Martin, of Philadelphia, can. Wanamaker does not count a factor, because his personal following in the legislature is extremely small. Unfortunately, both Flinn and Martin can crack their whips about the ears of a sufficient number of personal henchmen to hold the balance of power. Flinn has done this thing because he hates Quay, and his hatred is of more importance to him than the organization of the Republican party. Martin is in the guerrilla warfare because, having once tasted the blood of treachery, he prefers treachery and the absolute violation of his personal pledge to manly politics. These are the men who are doing this thing, and they and their followers must accept the punishment which political parties inflict upon political renegades.

Stalwart Republicans will not concede that the party is going to smash, for while the guerrillas have done their best to create chaos and break it up they have not succeeded in doing so. The attack upon the Republican party worst. It has succeeded in overthrowing seven congressional districts, but there is every reason to believe that it has reached the end of its string. The Republicans of Pennsylvania know persecution when they see it, and are not slow in uncovering political hypocrisy. They understand very well that this fight against the Republican m have very litle influence in the future.

MORE COUNTIES ACT.

There could be no more conclusive evidence submitted bearing upon the feeling of Republicans throughout the state, than is given by the actions of those Republicans themselves. The Venango county Republican primaries were held on Saturday last and the friends of Colonel Quay had a walkover in the election of delegates to the state convention. Brigadier General George A. Wiley, of Franklin, and W. H. Corrin, of Oil City, who were chosen state delegates, are pronounced supporters of the Beaver statesman. The few sympathizers of the Flinn bolters who reside in Venango county concluded that it would be useless to make a fight against these candidates, who were chosen by the supporters of the regular organization. General Wiley was in Harrisburg recently and assured the supporters of Senator Quay that both the delegates would be in sympathy with the state organization. The anti-Quay faction which was instrumental in the defeat of the Republican legislative ticket last fall gave up the fight at the last moment when they recognized the hopelessness of their cause. The Quay people were disappointed at the action of the anti-Quay forces in refusing to fight, after the bold bluff they had put up, as they desired to show the anti-Quay people how weak they really are. The weather was disagreeable, but a large vote was polled owing to the contest for some county offices, and where there was a contest the candidate allied with the Quay forces won hands down.

In Forest county Republican primaries were also held on Saturday last MORE COUNTIES ACT.

Quay forces won hands down.
In Forest county Republican primaries were also held on Saturday last, and after a spirited contest the fight resulted in a complete victory for the friends of Colonel Quay. J. C.Scowden, a firm friend of the Beaver leader, was elected delegate to the Republican state convention.

The Republican committee of Sayder county met at Middleburg on Saturday and after fixing the assessments on candidates, adopted resolutions indorsing the candidacy of Colonel Quay for re-election to the United States senate and commending the action of Senator Hummel and Representative Smith, who have been consistently voting for the caucus nominee for United States senator.

voting for the caucus nominee for United States senator.

DELAWARE SOLID.

William L. Mathues, who has just been re-elected chairman of the Delaware county Republican committee and who has been here in consultation with Senator Penrose, Chairman Elkin and other stalwart Republican leaders, had this to say about the reported purpose of followers of C. L. Magee to withdraw their support from the Republican caucus nominee:

"If Mr. Magee's real friends wish to see him ever elected United States senator, the best advice they can give him is to stand by the present Republican caucus nominee to the end of the contest. Mr. Magee's record for stalwartism would lead the Republicans of the state to look for him to do this. There can be no question of the sentiment of a great majority of the Republicans of Pennsylvania being in favor of the relection of Senator Quay, and of the feeling that the regular Republicans should adhere to their policy of voting for him to the finish.

"If those who were elected as Republicans will follow the wishes of their party they will ultimately turn in for the causus nominee.

"The Republicans of Delaware county, who have just held their primaries, are in thorough sympathy and accord with the Republicans of Lawrence Union, Indiana, Lancaster, Blair and the other counties that have recently gone on record by a popular vote at the delegate elections. The issue in Delaware county was not only settled within the Republican organization, but by a popular vote at the general election. A Wanamaker-Prohibition Democratic fusion campaign was waged in our county in November on the legislative nominees. Colonel Stone received a plurality of 5,007 votes, while the regular Republican nominee for the legislature, despite this fusion deal, received pluralities ranging from 3,000 to 3,500. While two of our members have been voting contrary to popular sentiment, I am still hopeful that before the end of the session they will fall in line with the regular Republican. to 3,500. While two of our members have been voting contrary to popular sentiment, I am still hopeful that before the end of the session they will fall in line with the regular Republican forces. I think they appreciate the fact that they have thus far been treated fairly and considerately."

"From your observation here today, how do you view the situation?" Mr. Mathues was asked.

BLINDLY FLLOW HIM.

"The deadlock may not be broken."

Mathues was asked.

BLINDLY FLLOW HIM.

"The deadlock may not be broken," replied Mr. Mathues, "but whether there shall be or shall not be an election, the sympathy and support of the Republican organization of the state will be with the men who have loyally, consistently and steadfastly voted for the nominee of the Republican caucus. I watched with interest the polling of the vote of the insurgents today. We were all in the dark as to whom they were going to vote for, until the name of William Flinn, of Pittsburg, was called. When he cast his ballot for Huff the other 49 bolters blindly followed his lead, and voted the same way. The whole proceedings were machine like and indicated a single, settled and fixed purpose, and that is to defeat the nominee of the Republican caucus. The hopping around from one candidate to another has wiped out all consideration of favorite sons, as this vote is evidently to be manipulated to carry out the plans of a few disgrunted leaders."

"What about the delegates to the Republican state convention from carry out the plans of a few disgruntied leaders."

"What about the delegates to the Republican state convention from Delaware?"

"No matter what may be the outcome on the senatorship," replied Mr. Mathues, positively, "the four delegates from our county will be found in line with the regular Republican state organization. I am informed that there are now 31 delegates elected in the different counties who are in accord with the same principle, and that not one has been chosen who will act contrary to this policy. The organization will triumph in the end, as political history has demonstrated in every condition similar to that existing here today."

Senator Quay, said that railroad employees are generally in favor of the re-election of M. S. Quay. He added that it is an undisputed fact that Mr. Quay is a friend of labor, and that railroad men feel very kindly toward him.

"It is the policy of our organization," said he, "to recognize no political party, but to simply use our influence in behalf of those who stand by labor interests. Mr. Titus carried out these principles when he requested Mr. Hell to vote for Quay. In every instance when our people have applied to Mr. Quay his influence has been exerted in our favor, and for this reason corporate power, in my estimation, is tryin our favor, and for this reason corporate power, in my estimation, is trying to crush him. While we have no special choice in the senatorial fight, but favor a purely non-partisan position, I will say that under the circumstances if Mr. Quay is not re-elected we will certainly lose a friend. Mr. Titus was entirely correct in the independent course he took in the interest of the cause which we espouse."
