LAST HONORS TO HOBART.

Vice President's Remains Laid to Rest in Cedar Lawn.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 27.—Funeral services over the remains of the late Vice-President Garret A. Hobart took place in this city Saturday, and were carried out practically according to the program decided upon by the family and immediate friends of the deceased on the day following Mr. Hobart's death.

The ceremonies were sad and impressive to the highest degree and a befitting finale to the earthly career of a public man who commanded the respect of all in his lifetime, and who was elected to and held the next highest office in the gift of the American people. There was an immense outpouring of sympathizing friends at the services and a local committee looked after the comfort of the five hundred visiting Senators, Representatives and Washington officials who were present.

The first services were at Carroll Hall, the Paterson home of the Hobarts, and consisted simply of the reading of the Scriptures and prayer. The church services lasted an hour.

There were thirty-two pall-bearers, eight representing the United States Senate, eight representing the House of Representatives, eight personal pall-bearers selected by Mr. Hobart two months before his death and eight sergeants-at-arms of the Senate, known as the Senate police, who acted as quarter bearers.

The President and the Cabinet went to the church in carriages, but the pall-bearers followed the funeral car on foot. Two companies of regulars from Governor's Island acted as escort to President McKinley and also accompanied the body from the house to the church.

Following the close of services at the Church of the Redeemer the sad cortege moved to Cedar Lawn Cemetery, where all that was mortal of a loving husband and father, a respected public servant and an honored citizen, was laid to rest beside the body of the daughter he loved so well, while those who were nearest and dearest to him in life stood silently by bathing their cheeks with a flow of tears.

The active pall-bearers who were selected by Mr. Hobart shortly before his death, were: Judge J. Franklin Fort and Franklin Murphy, of Newark, N. J.; E. T. Bell and Col. William Barber, of Paterson, N. J.; George Wurts, Secretary of State of New Jersey, and Col. Joseph W. Condon, of the staff of Gov. Voorhees of New Jersey.

Rev. Dr. Daniel McGee, who conducted the services at the Church of the Holy Redeemer, paid a magnificent tribute to Mr. Hobart's personal worth, and was so impressive in his eulogy that there was scarcely a dry eye in the vast assemblage when he closed his remarks.

One of the most touching incidents of the service was the rendering of "Near My God to Thee," by a local singing society of sixty voices.

Rev. Dr. Milbourne, Chaplain of the Senate and Rev. Dr. Shaw, of this city, assisted Dr. McGee at the services.

Out of respect to Mr. Hobart's memory and the proclamation issued by the mayor, all business places in the city were closed, flags were at half mast and stores, factories and private residences were draped in deepest mourning.

The President and Cabinet and others from Washington who attended the services, returned to the capital after the interment at Cedar Lawn.
