MRS. GREGORY REPORTED DEAD. Some One Wanted to Play a Smart Joke. Detectives are now Looking into the Matter.

Mrs. Esther M. Gregory was very much alive Sunday morning when she read telegram after telegram sent to her mother by Washington friends who were grieved by a notice of her demise published in a Washington paper. An article published Monday in a paper of that city fully explains the matter and read as follows:

Friends of Mrs. Esther M. Gregory, of this city, were startled when they read in a local paper Saturday evening an announcement of her death on August 2 at Laporte, Pa., where she had gone with her mother to spend the summer. The notice was contained in a list of paid advertisements and read as follows:

GREGORY—Suddenly at Laporte, Pa., on August 2, 1901, ESTHER M. GREGORY (nee Brewster), aged twenty-five years. Interment at Laporte.

Mrs. Gregory's relatives in this city had not been advised of her demise, and hastened to communicate with her mother at Laporte. A telegram was received from Mrs. Brewster stating that nothing had happened to her daughter, but that she was alive and well. Inquiry at the newspaper office elicited the fact that the death notice had been left and paid for by a man whose description was obtained, and whose handwriting was recognized by persons who knew him. It is supposed that the notice was inserted in the paper in order to annoy Mrs. Gregory and her friends.

SUMMER NORMAL SCHOOL CLOSSES. The Most Successful Session in its History.

The Summer Normal School closed last Friday with appropriate exercises. The large session room was crowded to its utmost with students and visitors, a condition that has prevailed during many of the afternoon sessions during the term. Prof. Lybarger whose abilities as instructor and reader are of the highest order, entertained the audience with a varied program of great literary and eloquent merit.

During his brief stay Prof. Lybarger has won his way into great favor among students and citizens. His work as instructor and lecturer has been original and scholarly while his genial personality and abundant good humor have been sources of both help and inspiration.

The exercises were interspersed with music and closed with short farewell speeches by the instructors, all of whom spoke in highest terms of the energy and interest manifested by the large number of teachers and students enrolled.

No previous session of the Summer School has been so largely attended by teachers or so full of value and enthusiasm.

The refusal of a majority of the Laporte Borough School Board to permit the teachers of the County the use of the school books in their charge even for a liberal consideration, did not seriously impair the work of the school, owing to the broad-minded and courteous action of the School Board of Forksville, who generously granted the use of all their books to the school. This kindness was greatly appreciated and the unanimous adoption of the following resolution at Friday morning's session expressed in part the sentiments of the teachers:

Resolved that the sincere thanks of the students in attendance at the Summer Normal School be extended to the School Board of Forksville Borough for their courtesy and liberality in permitting us the use of the books necessary in our work, the same having been refused us by action of a majority of the members of the school board of Laporte Borough.
