FATALLY INJURED.

Watson Wright Meets a Terrible Death.

Victim of an Accident While Returning Home to Friends From a Hospital. Both His Legs Cut Off.

Watson Wright, for many year prosperous farmer in Elkland town ship, met a terrible death last Thurday night along the railroad track near Norristown, Pa. He was found cut off, suffering intense pain, expiring a short time after being cared

Mr. Wright had been receiving reatment at a Philadelphia hospital during the past month and was on his way home. Before leaving the city he purchased a team of horses and for some reason was traveling on the same train that carried his team. At a point near Norristown the freight train was sidetracked to give the main line to the Canon Ball express train which passed that point about ten o'clock in the evening. As the train was standing one of the breakmen came to the caboose and told Mr. Wright that one of his horses was sick and he went up to the car to see what was wrong.

After the express train had passed, the freight pulled on and no notice was taken of Mr. Wright by the train crew. A few hours after a trackman while passing along the siding found Mr. Wright laying by the track with both legs cut off and almos tunconscious, groaning with intense pain and weakened with loss of blood. He yet had life enough to tell who he was and where he was from, but how the accident occured no one knows. He was carried to a nearby station in an unconscious condition and sent on the next train to a Philadelphia hospital where he died a few minutes later.

Word was telegraphed to his sonin-law Chas, E. Haight of Forksville who brought the body to the late home of the deceased on Saturday. The sad affair was painfully shocking to the country side where he has long been known and held in high re-filled it to the topgards. He leaves a family of five grown children to mourn the loss of his carpets and had men carry his a kind father. The funeral service was held on Monday.

The horse that had taken sick in the car died before reaching Dushore.

A bridge crosses the sluice which was filled within a few inches the current and overpowered, but as he was whirled to the mouth of possess very creditable certificates. the sluice he luckily caught the end of the bridge with his arms and with helpless in the powerful current, tend these services,

RAIN DOES MUCH DAMAGE.

FLOOD AT SONESTOWN.

High Water Ravages in this Section of the State. Much Damage to Property in This County.

The worst down pour of rain eve know to the "oldest inhabitant" that visited this section of the state Saturday, did much damage to property in all parts of Sullivan county. Thousands of dollars will be required to replace bridges washed away and damage done to roads. Some dying along the track with both legs farmers around Dushore are heavy losers, the top soil of their land be ing almost entirely washed away. Washouts and landslides caused a suspension of traffic along the W. & N. B. road until late in the afternoon. The L. V. road was also badly crippled all day Saturday.

CREEKS ON RAMPAGE.

Water poured over the breast of Lake Mokoma dam, the outlet being entirely too inadequate to carry off the overflow as it has always done before. A small run at Ringdale rose so high and flowed with such force as to roll rocks along its course that one team of horses could not move. Scores of houses in the lowlands along the Muncy creek was flooded. The old splash dam above Sonestown went out which for a time imperiled life and property.

The storm was general from Pittsburgh to New York City. At Mauch Chunk four persons drowned by being caught in the current running through a street and carried to the raging torrents of the Lehigh.

Bonestown.

Notes of the storm.

Phil Swisher's barn was moved, and a hog carried away by the water. E. J. Lockwood heard a mournful cry, on investigation he found his dog, which was tied, in water up to his neck.

L. H. Buck had several chickens drowned.

T. Ellison's garden was washed away.

Hunter's Lake, some miles from here, lacked 5 inches of being full before Friday night's storm, which Station agent Donovan took up wife and Miss Evelyn Keeler across the street to the hotel.

Dr. Voorhees' sugar barrel was in the water. He now owns syrup. A Edgar lost a barrel with 50 lb of chop. The eatables in A. T. Armstrong's cellar were drownded. Lorah's Store cellar was a mixture of barrels containing molasses

Mrs. Hess tried to save the articles crock containing cream, left cellar, to a place of saftey before the bridge was carried away.

The cause of the extra high water was the breakage of the dam above town. The water in the creek reached the high iron railroad bridge.

The school board of Davidson Twp. met Monday afternoon, and among other business hired the following teachers.

Emmons, A. H. Starr; Sugar Grove, M. D. Sweeney; Elk Lick, Walter Lorah; Centennial, Frank Shoemaker; Glidwell's, R. S. Starr; Hemlocks, Donna Sturdevant; Sones town, adv. Prof. C. H. Warren, Inter. Clara Streby, Pri. Mrs, C. H. to the bridge and running with terrific force to a torrent below. As Eugene came up he was caught in Chen Sept. 16. JOHN J. LOW DEAD.

Passed Away at His Home in Watsontown.

Was Elected to the Office of Commissioner of Sullivan County. Many Friends Pay Tribute to His Memory.

The death of John J. Low occured on Thursday, August 22, at his late home in Watsontown, Pa. About one year ago he was prostrated with consumption and was a patient sufferer until relieved by death.

Mr. Low was a former resident of Laporte Township and at one time County Commissioner of this county. He moved to Watsontown several years ago and conducted a truck farm up to the time of his filness.

Mr. Low was a good soldier in the civil war, serving in Co. A. 92d Regiment, P. V., and as a member of Bryson Post, No. 225, G. A. R. of Watsontown, was faithful in atterdance and active in the work of the order. He was a member of the M. E. Church at Watsontown, and also an honory member of the Sonestown Lodge, I. O. O. F., which organization sent a delegation to join with the Grand Army and Odd Fellows of Watsontown in participating in the funeral ceremonies. Large delegations of both orders and many friends attended the funeral on Saturday afternoon, when the remains were interred in the Watsontown cemetery. He was aged 53 years and 10 months, and is survived by a widow and five children. He was loved and respected by all who had the pleasure of knowing him, being an honest, upright, industrious gentleman and commanded the highest respects from his fellow men.
