

COUNTY NEWS: BITTS OF BRIGHT NEWS OF LOCAL INTEREST.

Eagles Mere or Eaglesmere-- Which?

We have always understood that Mrs. Judge Jones endowed this place with its name and that it was done in two words that were at once descriptive and poetic. For some reason quite a number of our people have ignored both the intention of the originator of the name and its appropriateness and write it "Eaglesmere."

We suggest that following that precedent some of the neighboring names would look like the following—Ganogalake, Muncycreek, Lakemokoma, Castlerock, North-branch of the Susquehanna river and the name of your paper would be Republicnewsitem. Would your wife know you as Charleslorenwing?

Our name as published in the Official Postal Guide is "Eagles Mere" and we think its friends should recognize this fact or else carry the precedent through everything else and live in the United States and go occasionally to Newyorkcity and call their children Johnsmith or Marjoriejones or something of that sort.

There comes to every individual and community opportunities for improved surroundings. Unfortunately we are some times slow to take advantage of these opportunities so as to make the most of them. Probably this is true with us but in the main there is a sort of "Excelsior" spirit growing up in our people that is destined to make itself felt in the continued additions to the attractiveness of the surroundings.

Just now there is a prospect that one of the old time landmarks that has served the comfort of thousands in the last ten years will give way to something larger and better. We refer to the old Ice House that is evidently on its last legs, if a house can be said to have such appendages. It has earned retirement and must necessarily be succeeded by something much larger, more in harmony with its surroundings in appearance and more desirably located. As a denizen of the Reservation it is confessedly out of place and probably no one realizes that more than the Land Co. and, as they are constantly seeking to advance in all that gratifies the visiting public, they will doubtless call in the best abilities of Engineer Chase for plans to store a part of Eagles Mere Lake next winter that will be a surprise and pleasure to another summers visitors.

The "Laurel Path" has always been so popular and has achieved such a national repute that it seems almost a wonder that a similar ramble has not been provided along the Reserve on the village side of the Lake. No elaborate road is needed. Only a meandering path, just wide enough for two if they walk real close together and with so much of the serpentine in its course that it shall be full of little cozy nooks that might do for hiding places on an occasion. Only so that graceful slippers need not get into the mud nor be cut on rocky stones. If under an arcade of Rhododendron, Laurel, Maple and the like so much the better. At present it is only accessible where the private paths down to individual boat houses cross it or the wharves make it possible to clamor along in some sort of a fashion.

But little expense need be incurred. In fact perhaps each owner fronting on the Reserve might prefer to make the path in front of their own lots provided the authorities would assume the general supervision so that there should be some harmony of design and no sacrifice of nature's ornamentations. We have been discussing this question for a number of years and as our experience is that it takes about three years to carry through any public measure in Eagles Mere we venture to start the move now. We may talk about it this season, decide next summer that it shall be done and then in 1904 we will get at it in earnest. B. G. W.

DEMOCRATIC ISSUES.

Republicans Will Welcome a Fight on Tariff and Trust Questions.

The Democratic congressional campaign committee has decided to make the tariff and the trusts the leading issues in the campaign this year. That will be regarded as good news by all Republicans.

The tariff has always been a winning issue for the Republicans save in the campaign of 1892, when the voters listened to the seductive sophistry of the free traders and decided at the polls to destroy prosperity. But they learned a lesson as the result of that election which they are not likely to forget. The dark and gloomy days from 1893 to 1897, while the blight of the Wilson law was upon the country, business was paralyzed and labor was without remunerative employment, demonstrated that protection cannot be abandoned in the United States without bringing distress upon the people. The instant and tremendous revival of business as a result of the election of McKinley and the enactment of the Dingley law, which restored the protective policy, supplied ample proof of the value of protection as a stimulus to industry and commerce. The Democrats cannot this year delude the people into voting for an abandonment of the protective policy.

Nor will they be enabled to make an effective campaign on the trust issue. The Democratic record will not compare favorably with the Republican record in respect to trusts. The Sherman antitrust law, which appears to be the only effective weapon that congress can use against the big combinations of capital, was framed by a Republican, passed by a Republican congress and signed by a Republican president in 1890. For four years that law stood in the statute books while Grover Cleveland was president, yet it was not used once to restrain a trust. It was used by a Republican attorney general against the Joint Traffic association and the Transmissouri Freight association, which were formed to control trade among the states. It is now being used by another Republican attorney general against the beef trust, and it will be used against other combinations which are oppressive of the people.

The Sherman law goes as far as any statute can under the present limitations of the constitution in the restraint of the operations of trusts. It will be necessary to amend the constitution so as to give congress greater power if more drastic legislation is to be enacted. Yet when a constitutional amendment was proposed in the last Republican congress the Democrats opposed it solidly.—Cleveland Leader.

The South and the Tariff.

The south can't afford to pay the cost of so called tariff reform. Agitation of tariff reduction is going to have a depressing effect upon business, and the south is the first to suffer and the last to recover from the effects of business disaster. We note that quite a number of southern congressmen are taking no part in disturbing present conditions, among them Colonel G. W. Taylor, one of the strongest and safest members of the Alabama delegation. He works and leaves the talking for his less industrious fellow servants.—Sheffield (Ala.) Reaper.

Well Fitted.

It is announced in a New York paper that ex-Secretary Olney has been charged with the preparation of the standard plank of the Democratic platform regarding trusts. He is the man of all others to do it, having been all his life a corporation lawyer of the first quality. It may be added that as Mr. Cleveland's attorney general he declared that the Sherman antitrust law was so imperfect that it was useless to bring actions under it. Attorney General Knox has proved it quite effective.—Indianapolis Journal.

Always Out of Politics.

Charles A. Towne says he is out of politics and therefore not a Democratic aspirant for the presidency, but in the last fifty years the Democrats have not nominated a man for the presidency who was in politics.—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

Why They Hate It.

No wonder the Democrats denounce the Dingley tariff. It has put a surplus in the treasury, and Democrats always denounced a Republican surplus. The poor devils never enjoyed one of their own creation.—Moravian Falls (N. C.) Yellow Jacket.

The Drawing Power.

Foundation of Heroism.

The root and foundation of true heroism is religion. There must be faith that above us and around us are helpful and cheering influences, that earth and heaven are within telepathic distance of each other and that what strength we need will be given us for the asking if we are to meet sorrow and misfortune with quiet fortitude.—Rev. George H. Hepworth, Congregationalist, New York.

Mother Always Keeps It Handy.

My mother suffered a long time from distressing pains and general ill health due primarily to indigestion," says L. W. Spalling, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once and now, at the age of seventy-six, eats anything she wants, remarking that she fears no bad effects as she has her bottle of Kodol handy. "Don't waste time doctoring symptoms. Go after the cause. If your stomach is sound your health will be good. Kodol rests the stomach and strengthens the body by digesting your food. It is nature's own tonic."

Or if not you are expecting to get it insured. In that case one of the questions you are trying to solve is: Where shall I insure? Which is the best company? These are perplexing questions, and perhaps the more you read and hear the differing claims of different companies and their agents, the more bewildered and uncertain you become. Now, in a matter in which you may have little knowledge or experience, why not accept the knowledge and experience of your friends and neighbors who have a great deal of both?
