A vote for F. A. Godcharles and W. K. Lord will be a vote in support of President Roosevelt and his vigorous, clean and prosperous administration.

The Herald last week took especial delight in "harpooning" A. L. Dyer, candidate for Member. It humbly admitted that Mr. Albert L. Dyer personally is a worthy citizen but is very much alarmed that he will be a "machine" man; that is all. If Mr. Dyer cannot be trusted to represent the people of Sullivan county in the Legislature, who can? Is Mr. Rogers more honest? Is he more capable? Is he more in sympathy with the laboring masses? Let the Herald answer.

Hon. F. A. Godcharles, republican candidate for congressional long term, is a man who has all the vigor of youth and the training of a college graduate and experienced soldier; he has experienced in public affairs; he has of necessity carefully studied all the financial interests of the state and nation, being at the head of a large iron industry; he possesses the pride of character that must make him appreciate the responsible duties of public office; he has been tried in these capacities already and in no way found lacking. Although he comes from a well known family of high rank there is nothing dudish or aristocratic in his make up. He is a party man with no finical nonsense in his notions of policies, but he is the kind who can think for himself.

He is a man who will stand by President Roosevelt. This he has assured us and that above all is what the people want at this crisis. This is the kind of a man intelligent voters want, and that is the kind they will get with Godcharles. Mr. Godcharles will not only mean well, but this meaning will be emphasized by action, prompt and needful. That President Roosevelt has the right ideas of grappling with the trust problem is beyond question. He must have a united support in the lower house to begin action. A big majority in Congress will be the surest safe guard to Prosperity. A debt you owe to yourself and country is a vote for Fred. A. Godcharles. Remember that.

And now the Herald is down on the Union Tanning Company. Geo. W. Biggers is not to be supported for Commissioner because he has a blacksmith shop at Muncy Valley and does work for that company. Pray tell us Mr. Scouten when and how the Union Tanning Company has injured the people of Sullivan county.

The Shamokin News in a recent issue gave the following life sketch of the very popular candidate for Congress, W. K. Lord, who is making a vigorous fight for this position of great importance to the laboring classes of our country. What a man is and to what extent he can be trusted is best judged by the confidence imposed in him by those most closely connected with him in business and social life and the measure of success attained which can only come through honorable dealings and righteous conduct. The following is what our candidate's neighbor has to say of him.

"W. K. Lord, of Mt. Carmel, the Republican nominee for the congressional short term in this district, is one of his town's most progressive and public spirited citizens. He has reached his present prominent position in the business world by dint of his own determined will power and energy, at all times keeping pace with the requirements of the business world requisites which peculiarly fit him to honestly and carefully legislate in the interest of his constituents.

"Mr. Lord was born in Ashland, Schuylkill Co., Pa., October 19, 1864, and attending the public schools graduated with honors from the same in 1877 before he had reached his thirteenth year. "On account of the serious illness of his father he was compelled to seek employment and secured a position as slate picker at the Bast colliery. Determined to succeed in life he was so attentive to his duties and earnest in his endeavors that before many years he had pushed himself forward through various positions of trust to that of shipping clerk. He worked in and around the collieries for thirteen years.

Two years before resigning as shipping clerk he launched into business in Mt. Carmel, at the same time working at the mines in the day time and his store morning and evening until he had a trade established, when in 1887 he resigned his position and took personal charge of his business interests in which he has been eminently successful, being the owner of Mt. Carmel's leading store "The Rink" which is the largest in the community.

He has always kept in touch with all public matters in his town and county and has served many years on the local board of education and was president of that body. He is prominently identified with many public industries and an active member of the board of trade and also secretary of the Anthracite Association. He comes before the voters of this district as a public spirited and progressive citizen and one eminently fitted for the office to which he aspires and should receive the hearty endorsement of the voters in this district. Coming from the ranks of labor he knows their wants and will always be found on the side of right. With the same determination that has characterized his entire life he enters the congressional contest and will make an earnest effort to be elected. Remember him at the polls yourself and ask your friends to support him.

Is not a man of this character and type a safe one to place in a position of trust?

THE MOVING CAUSE.

How the United States Has Become the Workshop For All the World.

Speaking of the extraordinary extent to which the British market is being supplied with articles manufactured in the United States, Mr. Fred McKenzie in the London Mail says:

"In the domestic life we have got to this: The average Londoner rises in the morning from his New England sheets, he shaves with American soap and a Yankee safety razor, pulls on his Boston boots over his socks from North Carolina, fastens his Connecticut braces, slips his Waltham or Waterbury watch in his pocket and sits down to breakfast.

"There he congratulates his wife on the way her Illinois straight front corset sets off her Massachusetts blouse, and he tackles his breakfast. He eats bread made from prairie flour (possibly doctored at the special establishments on the lakes), tinned oysters from Baltimore and a little Kansas City bacon, while his wife plays with a slice of Chicago ox tongue. The children are given Quaker oats.

"At the same time he reads his morning paper printed by American machines on American paper with American ink and possibly edited by a smart journalist from New York city.

"He rushes out, catches the electric tram (New York) to Shepherd's Bush, where he gets in a Yankee elevator to take him on to the American fitted electric railway to the city.

"At his office of course everything is American. He sits on a Nebraska swivel chair before a Michigan roll top desk, writes his letters on a Syracuse typewriter, signing them with a New York fountain pen and drying them with a blotter from New England.

"The letter copies are put away in files manufactured in Grand Rapids.

"At luncheon he hastily swallows some cold roast beef that comes from the midwest cow and flavors it with Pittsburg pickles, followed by a few Delaware tinned peaches, and then soothes his mind with a couple of Virginia cigarettes.

"To follow his course all day would be wearisome, but when evening comes he seeks relaxation at the latest American musical comedy, drinks a cocktail or some California wine and finishes up with a couple of 'little liver pills' made in America."

This list comprises but a small fraction of what we make in this country for the use and convenience of our British cousins. The sum total mounts up to hundreds of millions in value every year, and a detailed catalogue of articles would be "longer than the moral law." It is not so many years ago that England prided herself on being the world's workshop. That time has passed. She is now not even her own workshop. A very considerable portion of the manufactured articles which she uses is "made in America." The world's workshop has been moved to this side of the Atlantic. Protection was the moving cause. British producers are beginning to find out the fact and the cause; hence their movement away from free trade and toward protection.

CANNON'S WARNING CRY

The Illinois Congressman's Message to Pennsylvania.

TARIFF MUST NOT BE TOUCHED

Pattison's Election Would Mean a Lack of Confidence in President Roosevelt and His Policy—Prosperity and Republican Rule.

(From a Special Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—"You can say to the people of Pennsylvania that if our present prosperity is to continue, then tariff protection as exemplified in the Dingley act must continue."

These significant and impressive words were uttered by the chairman of the house committee on appropriations, Hon. Joseph Cannon, of Illinois. He has been in the city for several days, returning from the naval maneuvers and is on his way home to take part in the Republican campaign in his state.

"In your campaign speeches are you going to promise the people that there will be a revision of the tariff at the next session?" he was asked.

NO TARIFF TINKERING.

"No sir. Why should I make such a promise? The people of this country do not want the marvellous prosperity we are enjoying checked, and that is what would happen if any revision of the tariff should be agitated. There is always a year of uncertainty connected with tariff revision. Business becomes demoralized and industries shut down. Manufacturers do not care to make contracts for the future, because they do not know what the tariff rate will be. "No sir. The tariff will not be revised at the next session of congress or by the succeeding congress, unless there is an unforeseen check to our present prosperity. There is nothing sacred about the present tariff schedule, but any tinkering with it at the present time would be demoralizing."

The above is a significant utterance. It comes from one of the best posted and one of the most conservative men in congress. It is a statement particularly interesting to Pennsylvania, which above all states of the union with its great iron and steel industries would be affected by tariff agitation.

There are four great manufacturing states in the union and Pennsylvania is second. They are New York with $2,175,000,000 of manufactured products; Pennsylvania with $1,835,000,000; Illinois, $1,266,000,000, and Massachusetts $1,025,000,000. The instant the tariff is touched or revision is agitated by its enemies, the Democrats, just that instant do we have an era of Democratic hard times.

Here is an interesting statement of facts as showing the difference between conditions in 1896 when Cleveland left the White House and last year after five years of undisturbed Republican rule.

The deposits in the savings banks of the country, those depositories of the surplus funds of the working man, were $690,000,000 greater in the single year 1901 than they were in 1896. The individual deposits in the National banks of the country were $1,298,064,000 greater in 1901 than in 1896. Thus the deposits in the Savings and National banks in the country in Republican good times exceed those of 1896 at the close of four years of Democratic uncertainty by the enormous sum of $1,988,000,000.

FARMERS GETTING RICH.

Now what has this meant to the farmer? The live-stock on the farms of the country which was reported by the agricultural department in 1896, at $1,727,926,684, is reported at $1,981,054,115 by the census of 1900, an increase of $253,128,031. With the increased activity, increased earnings, and increased consumption by a prosperous people the farmer has received greatly increased prices for his production.

The farmer is becoming an exporter. The exportation of agricultural products increased from $570,000,000 in 1896 to $944,000,000 in 1901, an increase of $374,000,000, in the mere surplus remaining after supplying our great and rapidly increasing home market. The farmers of the country received $350,000,000 more for their cereals alone in 1900 than they did in 1896. A statistician in one of the departments here in Washington, said to me the other day:

"The Democratic stump speakers sneeringly claim that the Republicans claim every big crop as a result of protection or Republican legislation, thereby robbing Divine Providence and Heaven of its just dues," but the figures show that it is a fact that during Republican administrations there are larger crops and better prices than there are in Democratic times." Interesting isn't it?

But this is easily explained. The intelligent farmer, in connection with the rest of the country, has no faith in Democratic administration or promises, consequently during Democratic administrations less wheat, corn, oats and other crops are planted. This is proven by official figures. The farm value of the corn crops for the four years of Cleveland's first administration, from 1885 to 1889, aggregated $2,569,653,980. In the four years of Harrison's administration which followed, the farm value of the corn crop aggregated $2,830,935,138, an increase of more than $260,000,000 during the Cleveland administration. The same condition was repeated in the second Cleveland administration and the following McKinley administration. In the McKinley administration years the farm value of corn increased $250,000,000 over that of the preceding Democratic administration.

WHAT THE ELECTION OF PATTISON MEANS.

The farmers of Pennsylvania shared in this prosperity. Do they propose to help elect a Democratic governor this year, and by that action indicate that they have a weakening faith in President Roosevelt and Republican principles? For that is what the election of Pattison will mean! That is the question that heads of departments and the strangers that visit Washington are asking. Almost every day I am asked the question, "What is Pennsylvania going to do?"

The Democrats from Pennsylvania who come down to Washington on business boast that they are going to make their fight on state issues. When they are asked why they do not discuss national issues, those who are honest reply that it isn't the year for a discussion of national issues, seeing that their party has not recovered from Bryanism and free silver, and so there is nothing left to do but take up state issues. As a result when I am asked what Pennsylvania is going to do I invariably reply:

DEMOCRATIC SCHEME EXPOSED

Trying to Fool the Farmers By a Misstatement of Facts.

One of the arguments upon which Democratic stump speakers this fall will largely depend to capture unthinking voters has been disclosed through some boasting remarks of Democratic State Chairman Cresay. Its first outcropping was at the meeting of the McKean county Democrats.

At that meeting the resolutions adopted made the following declaration:

"The auditor general's report of the state of Pennsylvania shows that the farmers and home owners pay $16.50 in taxes for each $1,000 in value, while the steam railroads pay but $2.75, the street railroads but $4.75, and telegraph and telephone companies but $3.20."

The statement is absolutely false in every particular. It is an attempt of the Democrats to excuse their own wretched short comings on the matter of taxation when they were in power. Republicans will not be deceived by this trick and subterfuge when they consider the deception, as exposed by the Philadelphia Press, which says:

"There is no state tax on real estate, as everybody should know by this time, since it was wiped out almost 40 years ago. There is no state tax on trades and occupations, or on horses and cattle or on household furniture, all such taxes having been repealed years ago so far as the state is concerned. Wherever taxes of this kind are imposed it is a local matter. The tax on real estate paid by the farmers and home owners is fixed by the local authorities and raised only for local purposes. If it is burdensome it is the fault of the county, borough or city authorities, for the state has absolutely nothing to do with it. It is not a subject for legislation at Harrisburg, as the McKean Democrats want to pretend.

"The state gets the bulk of its revenues from tax on corporations in various forms, and though it is complained that the corporations are not taxed enough the state revenues have been so large for many years as to support the policy, long since adopted, of returning large amounts to the counties as a means of relieving the local burdens of taxation. This policy has been greatly enlarged in the past dozen years, and with the present overflowing state treasury there is very certain to be a clamor before the next legislature for still more liberality in that direction. Without counting what the state has surrendered by the remission of taxes on real estate it is paying to the counties from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 annually. This is in the form of returns of three-fourths of the personal property tax, school appropriations, the payment of judges' salaries and charities, together with some lesser items.

"Now let us see what kind of a grievance McKean county has against the state. The auditor general went to the trouble in 1897 to prepare some tables showing the amount paid the state by each county and that returned to each county by the state. These tables show that there was paid into the state treasury by McKean county in that year $19,358.88. There was returned to the county on account of personal property tax, judge's salary and schools alone $43,589.93, to say nothing of appropriations to charities. By charging the county with its proportion of state expenses and hospital and charitable appropriations the received by it amount to $92,445.14, as against $19,358.88 received from the county. But we have been content to take the direct payments, which show that the county received more than twice what it paid.

"The figures for McKean county are not exceptional. They are proportionately the same for all the counties. The money is collected from corporations and paid over to the counties to relieve the local burdens of taxation. If the farmers and home owners in any county are taxed too much let them look into their local administration and seek relief there. The state does not impose a penny of tax on them."
