It Stares us in the face that the outstanding obligation of Sullivan County on the 1st of January 1902, amounted to $63,433.48, as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. Rows include Bonds ($38,000.00), Interest bearing orders (20,052.90), Judgements (5,380.49), and Total ($63,433.48).

The Sullivan Gazette says "The record of E. G. Rogers is clean, and the people of Sullivan County can depend upon him not to support any of the obnoxious measures which are constantly put forth by the Quay Machine.

In Pattison's speech accepting the Democratic nomination for Governor he said, in speaking of the last Legislature, that "The Session closed with a franchise theft that shocked the moral sense of the whole country."

E. G. ROGERS VOTED FOR THIS BILL.

Is that a clean record? Does the Democratic candidate tell the truth? If so then Rogers voted for a franchise theft that shocked the moral sense of the whole country.

The Sullivan Gazette says "E. G. Rogers, the Democratic candidate for Representative is not owned by the Quay Trust, Leather Trust or any other trust."

If that is true neighbor Streby, tell us why Rogers voted against the bill to preserve our streams from pollution by tannery companies and other corporations. Take a ride on the plank road from Laporte to Forksville, and observe the filthy water and foul stench. Consider the dangerous diseases which may have flowed with that water, and then if Rogers is not owned by the Leather Trust, tell us why he did not vote to protect the people of Sullivan County against this noisome danger.

E. G. Rogers is a farmer and will support the interests of the taxpayers of Sullivan county, if elected, as he did in the last Legislature." So says Mr. Streby in his newspaper of the 17th.

Perhaps Mr. Rogers, if elected, would support the interests of the taxpayers in Sullivan County in the next Legislature as he did in the last, but that is not saying much for him.

We have before us a list of titles of many bills on which he did not vote at all. Many of the bills were important to our county. If they were good, Rogers should have been there to vote for them, if bad to vote against them. He was not away on leave of absence. Where was he? It is a very poor watch dog that is not in his place when thieves are prowling around. He was there to vote for what Pattison calls the "Franchise Theft." He was there to vote for the bill, "Additional officers in the General Assembly." Of this bill Mr. Dixon in his speech, said, "We have not any more Senators or Members of the House than heretofore, why have we any more need for positions of this kind? Look at what those fellows get in a session. Eight dollars a day for each regular session, and five dollars a day for the first ten days of a succeeding session. The janitor gets six dollars a day. Now you will see these are fabulous sums. Where do men get these large amounts except around the old Capitol Hill?" What could have moved Rogers to vote for such a steal as this? The News Item has the journal of the House and Legislative Record. We talk from the book, and as our space permits, we shall show that the "clean" record, of which the Gazette boasts, is very smutty.

The county commissioners who are elected to serve for the ensuing three years will have graver duties to perform than any Board of Commissioners who have preceded them. They must have level heads and back bones like a crow bar if they escape personal liability for debts incurred.

What the people of Sullivan county want, irrespective of party lines, is a representative in the Legislature who will serve them faithfully and take no bribes. Albert L. Dyer can be depended upon-

Scouten squirms over Roger's vote in favor of the Rapid Transit Bill, but Scouten does not tell us what the people would like to know. Will he stop wriggling long enough to tell the people frankly who it was that Rogers saw when he left the House between the votes on the 2nd and 3rd amendments? Will he tell us why Rogers changed his mind and voted against all other amendments and for the bill on final passage? Will he tell us what inducements or reasonings were used to make Rogers change his mind? It is well enough for Scouten to froth at the mouth about Quayism, but what the voters want to know is what induced Rogers to change his mind. Scouten says the bill was "the most villainous ever passed in this country," that it was in the interest of a corporation, and the Democratic papers say it was a "boodle bill," that money was used to buy votes for it. Now Rogers was a Democrat, he was against the bill, he voted for amendments to kill it, he left the House, he saw somebody, he came back and voted against all the amendments offered by Creasy, and for the bill. Who did he see? What caused him to change his mind? Was there any grease and from whose pocket was it scraped?

Scouten must take the people of Sullivan county for fools, if he thinks they will be satisfied with all froth and no lager. Rogers was supposed to be their Representative and now they want to know why he changed his mind on a "boodle bill." No farmer or business man, Democrat, Republican or Prohibitionist wants to be represented at Harrisburg by a man who cannot explain his change of vote on a bill which the papers speak of as a "boodle bill."

Had he supported it in the beginning or if he could justify his change of vote it might be different. As it is will Scouten tell us why Rogers changed his vote? The voters of Sullivan county may as well know that Albert L. Dyer is not going to spend a large sum of money to secure his election and then expect to recoup himself by voting for corporations when they get in a tight place. He is an honest man, an intelligent man and a man who will attend to his duties if elected. He will represent the people of Sullivan county and vote in their interest.

W. K. Lord, candidate for Congress, is growing more and more popular as election day draws near. It is highly important to the welfare of our country that the next session of Congress has a Republican majority to support President Roosevelt. Give him your support by all means.

During Mr. Rogers term at Harrisburg he was absent from the House only one day by leave. That looks well. He was then in Harrisburg; but it does not follow that he was in the House attending to his duty as a Legislator. There are other places in Harrisburg besides the House of Representatives. Now a friend has gone over the important bills that were voted upon in Mr. Rogers absence. Can you guess how many there were passed while he was not present? We know. Try a guess and get a prize if you win.

Ed. Rogers is in the dumps. His shining record is in the hands of the people, and they are giving him the cold shoulder on every side. His companions on the ticket are dropping him and looking out for themselves. He is finding out the truth of the scripture which says "The way of the transgressor is hard."

SENATOR PENROSE'S SPEECH

What the Great Republican Party Has Done For the Farmer.

United States Senator Penrose was one of the speakers at the opening of the campaign at Centre Hall, Centre county. Judge Pennypacker and Hon. Charles Emory Smith were the others. Senator Penrose spoke as follows:

"When William McKinley was first elected president of the United States the Republican party promised to restore to the country that prosperity which had existed under the Harrison administration, and which had been so rudely and disastrously interrupted under President Cleveland, but no one could have imagined at the time that this pledge would have been carried out upon a scale incredibly larger than the wildest promise.

"The prosperity of the American people under the Republican administration of the last six years, in the rapidity and unparalleled greatness of our industrial, commercial and agricultural development, has surpassed the imagination of anyone and is unequalled in the history of the world; and not only does this prosperity exist, but it is rapidly increasing. We have every assurance and reason to hope that if the political and governmental policies of the country are not disturbed our country will in a few years have attained an extraordinary growth in wealth, population and power.

Only one thing can check this splendid progress, and that is a change in these governmental policies under which we can point to these splendid achievements. No party of our community has benefitted more than have the agricultural classes. The farmer has in the last five years received a greater share of prosperity than any other representative of any other occupation. The value of the wheat, corn and oat crops in 1901 was nearly double that of 1896, the last year of the Cleveland administration. This is a startling statement, but it is based upon official figures, which cannot be disputed. The farmer in 1901 received nearly double the amount of money for these three crops that he did in 1896, the last year of the Cleveland administration.

"This increase of farm values under Republican administration is not accidental. It is a matter of history that rural prosperity and Republican rule are coincident. It is equally a matter of history that agricultural depression and mortgage foreclosures and low prices for farm products accompany Democratic administration of national affairs.

THE FARMER A PIONEER.

"The American farmer has been the pioneer in establishing our Republic, which, notwithstanding all its defects, is the best government the world has ever known. Wherever, courage, skill, enterprise and labor have been required the farmer has been foremost in the fray. While other classes have been persistently demanding legislation to promote their own interests, the farmer has been foremost in directing legislation, not only in the interests of agriculture, but for the promotion of the well-being of all our people.

"For example, in the creation of the Department of Agriculture, which has become one of the most important divisions of our national government, provision has been made not only for searching every country of the world for a market for the farmer's products, but provision has also been made for increasing the productiveness of American soil by systematic experiment and by applying the principles of science to agriculture, and so the wealth, prosperity and happiness of all our people have been enhanced, for whatever benefits the agriculture of any country must prove a benefit to all her people.

"The farmers and the Grange in Pennsylvania have been foremost in securing legislation for the promotion and protection of the agricultural interests of our state, and, by the creation of the Department of Agriculture, provision has been made not only for searching every country of the world for a market for the farmer's products, but provision has also been made for increasing the productiveness of American soil by systematic experiment and by applying the principles of science to agriculture, and so the wealth, prosperity and happiness of all our people have been enhanced, for whatever benefits the agriculture of any country must prove a benefit to all her people.

DEMOCRATIC HARD TIMES.

"When the Democratic party came into power it overthrew the Republican policies which had given national security, confidence and progress, and paralyzed business like the blight of an autumn frost. For four years the country suffered a stagnation and depression which caused wide spread distress. Hundreds of mills were stopped or ran on half time. Three millions of workmen were out of employment. You could not altogether stop production in this great country but it was so checked as to cause a period of hard times. If you have forgotten those conditions which existed only six years ago you may make the mistake of voting to return to them. But no man who remembers them in contrast with the magnificent prosperity of the last six years can vote to run any risk of changing back to the situation from 1893 to 1897 without displaying a recklessness which is incomprehensible."

PROSPERITY AND REPUBLICANISM.

"In 1896 the people voted to get out of the slough of despondency by electing Wm. McKinley president. As the election of 1892 had been the turning point from prosperity to disaster, so the election of 1896 was the turning point from gloom and depression to a new era of prosperity and advancement beyond anything the world has ever seen.

"Never before has this country stood on such heights of prosperity and greatness and every step in this magnificent progress has been taken with the opposition or the criticism of the Democratic party. In the light of this experience shall Pennsylvania falter in her Republicanism or pronounce a verdict which would weaken the national administration in carrying forward the great work to which it is devoted?"

"Undeterred by this boomerang, the same financial power this year again undertook to control the real as well as make-believe reform sentiment embraced in the Union organization. Hence there is a Union split that promises to make business for the courts and the lawyers. The first round ends in a knock down, figuratively and literally, of the Democratic barrel faction. It is probably at the same time the beginning of the end of the Union Party.

"Whatever may happen to the Union factions in their contest in the courts, the differences revealed furnish proof that the tide of public sentiment runs strongly in the direction of a largely increased Republican majority as compared with last year."

Quay, Penrose and the Ticket.

Senators Quay and Penrose have an earnest sympathy for the men of the anthracite region. It was this fact, coupled with the receipt of nearly two thousand letters by the United States senators, that led them to visit President Baer, of the Reading Railroad, in the hope of bringing the trouble to a speedy termination. Thus far all efforts have failed. Governor Stone took up the matter, but he, too, has failed to bring about any change in existing conditions. Miners and operators seem determined to grant no concessions and the settlement of the strike now seems a long way off.
