A new industry is to started at Laquin, a small town on the Susquehanna & N. Y. R. R., and about four miles from Wheelerville. It has been definitely decided to locate the plant of the Pennsylvania Hub & Veneer company there. Work will be commenced in a short time with Mr. Burrows of Stevensville, Bradford county, as manager.

Mr. Ray Zaner of Dushore, has been granted a patent on a miner's dinner pail. It is put together in convenient compartments and nothing of its kind has ever been made. It approaches a mechanical construction that shows its inventor to be of an ingenious turn of mind and a large sum of money will most likely be realized from this invention when placed upon the market.

Henry Keiser a blacksmith of Reading has an odd way of foretelling the weather. For 25 years he has used the same anvil, and underneath this anvil small ants have made their home. Mr. Keiser claims that for 21 years he has predicted the weather by their actions. He says that spring is now well at hand, and that there will be no more snow or cold weather. His reason for this is that on Saturday the ants made their appearance for the first timn, and he says that during the 21 years that he has been telling the FREE I FREE I weather by the first appearance of the ants he has not missed it a single ime in his predictions.

Friday last found the editor of this paper enjoying a few hours on Chippewa farm, the home of M. E. Reeder, near Hughesville. There are few people in this county who have not heard of Chippewa, both through the popularity of the owner and the extensive advertisement given to the large lime kilns there located which command a large patronage from all our neighboring counties. Mr. Reeder has recently added several acres to his already large estate, and is now stocking the farm with registered Jersey cattle. This valuable estate has been greatly neglected for years past, but in the short space of time it has been in the possession of Mr. Reeder there has been a multitude of changes going on. This year will see many more improvements about the place. Old buildings will be removed, and larger and better equiped ones will take their place. Concentration with ample capacity is the law of order manifested. We shall make another visit to Chippewa when the mechanics have com-pleted their work and will bring in use a kodak to coax some of its every week. scenery around on glass and have them transferred to these columns, and show our husbandry readers theadvantages of farming in a busi-ness like way.

THE GRANGE

Conducted by J. W. DARROW,

GRANGE PRINCIPLES.

Dignity of Labor, Fair Dealing and Good Citisenship.

We have nowhere seen a better presentation of the principles and purposes of the grange than the following in the American Agriculturist by Mr. J. A.

American Agriculturist by Mr. J. A. Herr:

The character of the grange membership and their faith in the Order are such as give permanence to the organisation. The effect of united grange effort is seen and felt in the legislature and other benefits secured in the interest of the farmer, along all lines of work. The dairyman, the fruit grower, the stock breeder and the poultryman have all been benefited through the efforts of the grange. A greater degree of intelligence is manifest among the farmers as a result of grange meetings and their outgrowth, the farmers' institutes of today. Extortion among dealers has been checked, and a cash basis for doing business is encouraged, with beneficial results.

The grange organization stands entirely for good. The principles are dignity of labor, honest dealing, justice to all, courage, temperance, thoroughness, peaceful citizenship, charity and unspotted character. Can there be nobler principles than these? The grange encourages advanced education and seeks to elevate not only its membership, but the community in which it exists to a higher plane of culture, refinement and social standing. Social scandis are seldom found within its ranks. Its teachings are of the purest and highest character, like that of family refinement and intellectuality. If the grange comes short of this, then the principles and precepts of the Order are not faithfully observed.

The benefits of a good, active working grange are evidenced by an increased interest in the farm and home, a greater degree of social culture and enjoyment, an advance along the lines of higher education and an independence and thrift which should be the inheritance of every farmer. These facts appeal to all persons interested in agriculture, in all its varied departments, to unite with the grange and assist in advancing its objects as well as to share its benefits.

THE GRANGE AT WORK.

Petitions That Filled Barrels When the Anti-o Bill Was Up.

In the year 1899, when the oleo ques-tion was being agitated, the grange thought it about time that we as an or-ganization began to do something to protect our interests; therefore we passprotect our interests; therefore we passed some resolutions that we would take up what is known as the Grout bill and would use the forces of organisation on it to see what could be brought about. Resolutions were drawn and presented to the subordinate granges, and it was the greatest surprise the Order ever had to know that inside of six weeks from the time of the presentation of these resolutions the replies came into the legislative office in Washington in such numbers that they actually in such numbers that they actually filled barrels. Nothing from their constituencies had ever caused such a revelation to the minds of the members of congress as this did, and what has been the result? The result was that we made a determined fight from that time on and won. We did it through the grange, the recognized farmers' organ-ization. The dairymen's associations are today interested, the horticultural societies, the department of agriculture at Washington and in our own state and in almost every state are working hand in hand with the grange. It is one of the most influential organiza-tions in the country today.—E. B. Nor-ris, Master New York State Grange.
